STRAIN EASES IN ENGLAND; URGE BARLEY ON GOLD

MacDonald Leaves London for Rest.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The strain of the last few days, occasioned by the [illegible] of the pound sterling in [illegible] Britain, and somewhat [illegible]

RAMSAY MAC DONALD.

Seek World Parley Efforts.

As one of the first moves by both the government of England and the emergency [illegible] since Great Britain went off the gold standard has been to renew efforts to convene an international conference on currency [illegible] and to deal with the world's [illegible] of supply.

[illegible] such efforts have been made [illegible] the last six months but failed, [illegible] because of the unwillingness of the United States and France to participate, but it is hoped that these nations will now realize they are going to be involved in the event of [illegible] general breakdown in [illegible] affairs.

No formal invitations have been sent out as yet and it has not yet been decided whether the best plan is to call a conference of representatives of national or of the central banks or both.

Settling Down to Business.

England is settling down to business as usual, or perhaps even a little better than usual.

The London Stock exchange reopened today, but a lively street market developed and all quotations were substantially higher than [illegible], the last day the exchange was open.

It is impossible to tell what effect the reaction of the pound sterling [illegible] It is fully expected in financial and political circles to fall below [illegible] It is also believed that when it reaches this point the pound will [illegible] in the course of a few [illegible] will possibly be stabilized at [illegible] No economist or political [illegible] is talking seriously about a return to the gold standard at any particular period of time. Such a time, however, is not in sight, at least, not [illegible]

Already the reaction of the ditching [illegible] gold basis has had a noticeable effect in the commodity markets. [illegible] goods have shown a sensational increase in price. General business has been more active.

Set Foreign Exchange Sale.

The first order of the treasury under [illegible] law to protect the pound was issued today. It forbids the banks to sell foreign exchange except for [illegible] business transactions, for the payment of contracts existing before the suspension of the gold standard, and for reasonable traveling or personal expenses.

It was also announced that the government would use all its emergency powers to prevent profiteering in foodstuffs and other essential materials.

The stock exchange will reopen today and stock brokers are looking [illegible] ahead, particularly because of the [illegible] tendency of the street [illegible] today.

The political situation continues to be extraordinarily obscure. The young [illegible] Tories, enraged at being [illegible] temporarily out of their profitable [illegible] and seeing a number of [illegible] offices held by Liberals and [illegible] which they believe belong [illegible] are pressing again for an immediate general election. The "1922 [illegible]" which most of them belong, passed a resolution last night demanding immediate election.

But the men who will decide whether [illegible] is to be an election are Prime Minister MacDonald and [illegible] Baldwin, and Mr. MacDonald [illegible] Mr. Baldwin.

The prime minister today is generally accepted as the most powerful

U. S. COMPANY ACTS, FOLLOWED BY BETHLEHEM

U.S. Rubber Goes on Five Day Week.

New York, Sept., 22.—[Special.]—Wage rates of the United States Steel corporation, the world's largest industrial enterprise, will be reduced an average of 10 per cent on Oct. 1, affecting approximately 220,000 employes, the board of directors announced following a special meeting today.

Wages paid by the Steel corporation in 1930 amounted to $391,271,000. A reduction of 10 per cent in wages and salaries would mean an annual saving on this basis of almost $40,000,000, or about $4.50 a common share.

Bethlehem Also Acts.

Later in the day the Bethlehem Steel corporation, second largest organization in the steel industry, took similar action, President Eugene G. Grace authorizing the statement that he considered the steel corporation's downward revision of wages a constructive step. Bethlehem's reduction, which is expected to be about the same ratably as that of the steel corporation, will also become effective on Oct. 1. Youngstown Sheet and Tube also announced a 10 per cent cut.

The Bethlehem Steel corporation had about 61,000 employés at its American plants at the end of last year. Total wages paid last year amounted to $108,301,000, and a reduction of 10 per cent would mean an annual saving of about $11,000,000.

General Motors Cuts Salaries.

The General Motors corporation, through President Alfred P. Sloan Jr., announced a readjustment in the compensation of salaried employes, effective Oct. 1, and ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. The hourly wage rates of the corporation are not affected, Mr. Sloan said.

Mr. Sloan said that the purpose of General Motors was "to establish a new base of salaries in line with the standards of values now existing and in harmony with the reduced cost of living."

Based on these considerations, he said, the adjustment in salaries will take this form: Up to $3,000 annual salaries, inclusive, 10 per cent; $3,001 to $10,000, 12½ per cent; $10,001 to $20,000, 15 per cent; $20,001 to $50,000, 20 per cent. The reduction will apply to all salaried employes, including officers, and will affect about 25,000, it is estimated.

Cut by Rubber Company.

The United States Rubber company, which is the largest unit in the rubber industry, announced that its entire organization will go on a five day week on Oct. 1 as "its normal working schedule." The announcement said that, so far as is known, United States Rubber is the first corporation of such magnitude to establish the five day week as a fixed working basis. The change involves a reduction of one-eleventh in salaries to conform to the reduction in working time.

F. B. Davis Jr., president of the company, explained that the employés in its factories would be placed on a five-day week. Their present hourly scale of wages would not be changed, but no employé would be permitted to work more than five days a week until business improves.

Action Not Unexpected.

Those sweeping readjustments in the leading corporations of three major industries were made known officially late in the day, although they have been the subject of gossip for some time. The wage reduction by the steel corporation, which had been awaited for some weeks, was announced in the following statement by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, on behalf of the directors:

"For the purpose of better meeting prevailing unsatisfactory conditions in the industry, rates of wage in the plants of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation will, effective Oct. 1, be reduced by approximately 10 per cent, varying somewhat in the character of work performed. Such adjustment will be somewhat in line with the reductions recently made in the salaried rates."

Farrell Makes No Coment.

Mr. Taylor issued the statement from his office with President James A. Farrell sitting at his side. Mr. Farrell, who has been represented recently as opposed to the wage reduction, made no comment, nor would Mr. Taylor amplify his formal statement.

The steel corporation announced on June 28 that the compensation of all salaried employés, from the highest to the lowest, would be reduced. The cut, ranging from 10 to 15 per cent, became effective on Aug. 1. Announcement of that reduction accompanied the action of the directors in lowering

WHEN HE HAS HIS VIOLIN MR. LANWELL IS HAPPY ANYWHERE

Louis Lanwell, 49 years old, 6310 Maryland avenue, was happy last evening as he drove along 63d street. He had pleasantly dined, his car was purring smoothly and his 214 year old Gugliano violin—the one that Mischa Elman once told him was marvelous—was on the back seat.

Mr. Lanwell was on his way to the country, where he intended to play a few tunes to himself in solitude. He scarcely noticed it when his car hit another, swerved a bit and kept on going. Nor did he notice much more when he ran into a surface car at Greenwood avenue. He kept on going until a few policemen stopped him and took him to the Woodlawn station.

At the station they handed him his fiddle and he played "Humoresque" and "Minstrel Boy" and other old favorites. And as he played came Mrs. Lanwell to the station.

"Louis," she said, "aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

"Not a bit," he replied. "I am happy here. I can forget that I am a salesman. I can forget that there is a depression. There's solitude here to play in and nice policemen to listen. The car wasn't very good and I still have my violin. Get me a sandwich and a cup of coffee and go on home."

Mrs. Lanwell did.

16 LIVES LOST IN BOAT WRECK; FOUR ARE SAVED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BORKUM, Germany, Sept. 22.—An exhausted swimmer landing on a bird sanctuary on the island of Memmert in the North sea brought the first news tonight of an excursion boat disaster in which 16 lives were lost. A motor sailing boat left the Island of Juist late last evening with 20 passengers aboard, including 17 members of a gymnastic club.

A gale swept upon the boat, crashing it on to a sand bank. Heavy seas swept over the small craft. Four clung to the mast throughout the night watching their friends, one after another, being washed into the sea.

At dawn one of them, named Jantzen, volunteered to swim ashore and after a two hour struggle landed at Memmert, where watchmen quickly alarmed the inhabitants of the mainland. Lifeboats fought their way through the storm to the boat. One of the survivors was still clinging to the mast. Two others were also picked up.

His Car Stolen Twice, Also 14 Spares in 14 Months

Jerome Abeles of the Piccadilly hotel, 5107 Blackstone avenue, has had fourteen spare wheels stolen off his automobile since he first bought a car in May, 1930, and in addition has had his car stolen twice, he complained yesterday in a letter to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock.

F. T. Haskell Sued by Wife; Called Cruel

Frederick Tudor Haskell, banker and philanthropist, yesterday was sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Mrs. Lila Haskell, society matron, in a bill filed in the Circuit court. Mrs. Haskell was the former Mrs. Robert S. Hotz. She became the wife of Mr. Haskell on Dec. 19, 1919.

In the action filed by Attorney Walter Bachrach, Mrs. Haskell, who lives at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, 181 Lake Shore drive, charges her husband with cruelty. She separated from him on Aug. 11. At that time Mr. and Mrs. Haskell were living at 1200 Lake Shore drive, where Mr. Haskell has remained since the separation.

Mrs. Haskell charges that she left the apartment on the day of their separation because her husband had ordered her out, and because she feared his temper.

Charges Against Husband.

The wife charges that Haskell seized and choked her, "so as to produce a fear of imminent death," while they were in the Ritz hotel, Paris, in August, 1919.

Three days before their parting, Mrs. Haskell alleges, her husband seized her and then struck her with his fists. At the time her husband ordered her from the apartment, she asserts, he told her that he would no longer live with her.

The bill also charges that Haskell changed the locks on the front and rear doors of his apartment on Aug. 12. The action, Mrs. Haskell charges, deprived her of any access to her home.

Quotes Her Two Notes.

Declaring that she has done all in her power to avoid a permanent separation, Mrs. Haskell quotes in her bill two notes which she says she sent to her husband seeking a reconciliation. The first of the notes is dated Aug. 14. It said:

"Do you realize what a great injustice and wrong you have done me? I have been expecting you to request my return. Had you missed me as much as I missed you our separation should have caused a great feeling of regret and repentance on your part by this time. Neither of us has many years to live and we really should spend our remaining ones together."

The other note, dated Aug. 19, is quoted in the bill as follows:

"I have been anxiously waiting to hear from you in response to my letter. Your silence convinces me that you intend your separation from me to be permanent. I do hope I am mistaken. This leaves me only one alternative: to seek the advice of some one who can safeguard my rights."

Wife Asks Alimony.

Mrs. Haskell asks temporary alimony. Her husband, she alleges, has an estate valued at $6,000,000 and an annual income of $100,000.

Mrs. Haskell is 50 years old. Her children, Lila and Robert Hotz, have been prominent in the younger fashionable set in Chicago. Miss Hotz married Henry R. Luce of New York on Dec. 21, 1923. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hotz live at 253 East Vine avenue, Lake Forest. Mrs. Haskell is a member of the Fortnightly club and Women's Athletic club.

Mr. Haskell is 71 years old. He has been a resident of Chicago since 1867 and has been connected with banking since his youth. He is a director of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, Chase Securities company, the Petroleum Corporation of America, and the Elgin National Watch company. He is trustee for St. Luke's hospital, the James C. King Home for Old Men, Lawrence hall, the Old People's home, and the Chicago Home for the Friendless.

He is a member of the Mayflower society and of the Chicago, Union League, University, Saddle and Cycle, Onwentsia, Racquet, Casino, and Caxton clubs.

BROOKFIELD'S VILLAGE PRESIDENT RAIDS WITH TWO BORROWED COPS

Led by James F. Mansfield, president of the village board of Brookfield, two constables, one from Riverside and the other from Berwyn, last night raided two alleged liquor resorts in Brookfield, seized supplies of what the village president said were beer and moonshine and took the proprietors before Magistrate C. R. Betts of Maywood, who held them in bonds of $1,000 each.

Those taken into custody are Michael Grahoboe, 47th street and East avenue, and Daniel Alar, 4619 South Eberle avenue.

The raids were regarded as a move of the village president to cast discredit on the police force headed by Chief E. J. O'Connor, whom he tried to discharge. The dismissal was balked when four members of the Brookfield board voted to retain the old policemen and refused to recognize four new ones Mansfield had appointed.

FRENCH PREMIER INSISTS ON PAYING VISIT TO CHICAGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Premier Laval plans to visit Chicago next month when he goes to the United States to confer with President Hoover on means whereby France and America may cooperate with a view to alleviating the world economic depression.

Premier Laval, it is learned, wishes to visit typical American towns and to have contact with "real Americans," and he insists on taking time during his brief visit to go to the capital of the middle west.

Taxi Owner Shows Drivers How to Drive; Loses Pants

E. F. Stark, owner of a taxicab company at Naperville, decided to drive one of his vehicles Monday night and show his employés how to make money. The experiment was not a success. His first passenger pulled a pistol, compelled Mr. Stark to drive out in the country, and then robbed him of $30, the cab, and his pants. The victim walked to a farm house and borrowed a pair of overalls and transportation home. The cab and the pants were found near Downer's Grove yesterday, but the robber and the $30 are still missing.

Legion Stand on Liquor Law Near Decision

BULLETIN.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Ralph P. O'Neil, national commander of the Legion, tonight promised the convention a "full and unbiased" consideration of the bonus question on the floor of the convention.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—The American Legion tonight is face to face with important issues, one of them a proposal for a solution of present depressed industrial conditions; the other the Volstead problem, which will come out on the convention floor perhaps tomorrow, perhaps Thursday.

The unexpected issue came with Howard E. Coffin, who tonight is conferring with a special subcommittee of Legionnaires. Coffin is an aviation enthusiast and a friend of President Hoover. He is sounding out the Legion on an idea which he has presented to the President and which, it is said, has the latter's sympathy. However, Mr. Hoover is said to have considered that if he mentioned the matter national hysteria might ensue.

To Revive Council of Defense.

Mr. Coffin seeks to have the wartime council of defense revived for the purpose of presenting a solution for present conditions. Under the powers granted to President Wilson by congress, any chief executive of the nation can call together this council of defense "in time of national emergency."

Mr. Coffin has drawn this matter to the President's attention and is said to have been delegated to present to the Legionnaires for their reaction. The council, of course, according to Mr. Coffin's viewpoint, would function as a peace time organization seeking to bring about a return to normal conditions.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland was counsel for the original body, which was drawn from the best minds of both major parties and from national leaders without any political affiliations.

What process the revived council of defense would follow is not made clear.

Wet-Dry Report Prepared.

In the bringing of the prohibition issue before the convention, a subcommittee of the resolutions committee of the Legion has prepared a report recommending what steps should be taken.

The subcommittee of eleven members took up the question of whether the Legion should at this time take a definite stand on the prohibition issue. In past conventions efforts in this direction have been balked.

After a prolonged discussion a vote was taken and the committee, by 9 to 2, decided that the matter should

CHINA SPURNS JAPAN'S OFFER OF PEACE DEAL

Insists Dispute Be Settled by League.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 23 (Wednesday).—The foreign office announced today that the Chinese government had rejected Japan's offer to agree to the appointment of a joint commission to settle the Manchurian dispute. China explained that the suggestion had been made by T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, and that it was purely an informal suggestion made to a member of the Japanese legation without the government's sanction. Mr. Soong, the Chinese government added, had now repudiated his suggestion in view of developments since his offer was made. Press dispatches from Mukden stated movement of Japanese troops toward Harbin in northern Manchuria had been canceled.

[Copyright, 1931, by the New York Times.]

NANKING, Sept. 22.—While Japan continues to occupy town after town in Manchuria, the Chinese government today categorically denied rumors of direct negotiations proceeding between Nanking and Tokio. China is in no way dealing with Japan, leaving the case entirely to the league of nations and steadfastly adhering to the attitude that the Manchurian situation presents an indisputable act of unprovoked warfare which is being continued despite total lack of resistance on China's part.

Japanese Seize New Railway.

Nanking learned today that the Japanese have seized the Changchun-Kirin railway and dispatched to Kirin 130 railway experts to direct operations.

Meanwhile, Japanese troops are reported to be advancing southward along the Peiping-Mukden railway with the announced intention of seizing Shanhaikwan, which is the gateway through the Great Wall from Manchuria to China.

The seizure of the Kirin railway politically and strategically is considered of the utmost importance, for Japan has long been pressing Manchuria to fulfill a treaty agreement to extend this line eastward to Tunghua, thus linking up with the Corean railways. China has steadfastly refused this because, it insists, it would afford Japan a splendid mobilization facility.

More Troops Enter Manchuria.

Nanking understands that two additional Japanese divisions of about 24,000 men are entering Manchuria from Corea, which China views as a violation of a treaty which limit Japanese soldiers in South Manchuria to a maximum of 15,000 to guard the railway. These continued military activities astound Nanking leaders, in view of diplomatic and published statements from Tokio that the Japanese cabinet met this morning and instructed the military to localize operations and not extend their positions.

Repeated statements from Mukden and Dairen that Japan wants the affair settled locally between the governor of the Kwangtung leased territory and Manchurian authorities were received with incredulity. Nanking holds that the affair is obviously of first importance and no settlement is possible except through national authorities.

Communications Cut Off.

With all lines of communication from Manchuria under Japanese control, Nanking is suffering under the handicap of a lack of authentic news from Manchuria, relying almost solely upon press reports and rumors.

Determined to take all possible measures to avoid repetition in Nanking or elsewhere of incidents akin to the recent anti-Chinese riots in Corea, the Nanking government today notified the Japanese consul here that it will assume full responsibility for the protection of Japanese nationals. Tonight all Japanese women and children residing in Nanking, totaling nearly a hundred, were being evacuated to Shanghai on a Japanese steamer.

This afternoon Nanking authorities sent two armed policemen to every Japanese home and shop in the city and despatched a special armed guard of fifteen police to protect the Japanese consulate. The guard encamped in the consular compound. It is equipped with guns, bedding and cooking utensils. These measures were taken in view of a large anti-Japanese massmeeting here this morning and the appearance upon the streets of thousands of anti-Japanese posters, supposedly sponsored by the Kwomintang [People's party].

As a further precaution, the Nanking war ministry today advised fifteen

Japanese instructors and military advisers to leave the capital immediately on a month's holiday. Nanking guaranteed them full salaries, plus expenses of the round trip to Japan, if desired.

The foreign minister also advised the Japanese consul that if he leaves the city, to travel by airplane or a Japanese ship and not to risk a Chinese train. Dr. G. Seyjima, advisor to the Nanking examination yuan, also was given a month's leave and urged to seek safety in Shanghai.

Tomorrow has been proclaimed "National Humiliation day." All flags in China will be at half staff. Mourning over events in Manchuria will be marked here by another gigantic anti-Japanese massmeeting. Disorders are feared.

Japan Makes Offer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 22.—The Japanese government today instructed its minister at Nanking to inform the Chinese government that Japan accepts the proposal of T. V. Soong, Chinese minister of finance, to organize a Sino-Japanese commission to investigate and settle the controversy in Manchuria. One condition of Minister Soong's proposal was that the Japanese troops be withdrawn from the occupied districts. Acceptance of this condition was implied in the Japanese reply, it was understand, although less than two hours earlier a spokesman for the foreign office said: "It is impossible at this time for Japan's forces to withdraw from the strategic posts which they now hold."

The Soong proposal was made a few days ago and referred to the original trouble at Peitaying, a suburb of Mukden, but in accepting it, Japan suggested widening the scope of the inquiry to include the causes of friction. The joint commission will include three members from each side.

Report Troops Move on Harbin.

Meanwhile, despite a decision by the cabinet today not to send troops north of Changchun, it was reported here that Gen. Honjo, commander in chief of the Japanese forces in Manchuria, had ordered some of the troops which occupied the city of Kirin yesterday to return to Changchun and proceed to Harbin.

The war department here said it had no information regarding this report, which said Gen. Honjo's action was taken following an urgent request from the Japanese acting consul in Harbin for protection of Japanese nationals there. Later the consul general informed Tokio he was taking steps to get the Japanese residents to leave for safe areas if the situation grows worse, and therefore he advised against sending troops.

May Involve Russia.

It is pointed out that should the Japanese troops occupy Harbin, Russia might become involved in the controversy, since she, in conjunction with China, controls the railway from Changchun north. Changchun is the northern terminus of the South Manchurian railway, which is Japanese owned. North of Changchun it becomes the Chinese Eastern railway.

The Russian consul general at Harbin today notified the Japanese consul general that the occupation of Changchun had interfered with train service on the Chinese Eastern road. He asked what action Japan proposed to take to remedy this situation.

All Japanese women and children at Chientao have taken refuge at the Japanese consulate in view of current rumors that Chinese troops were swarming into Chutzechien.

The Japanese at Peiping are reported to be bringing their belongings into the legation quarters, since Chinese students are reported to be in an ugly mood.

Chiang Hurls Defi.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22.—All China, aroused over the extent of Japan's occupation of Manchuria, today united for a campaign to save the eastern provinces.

The rebel Canton government, which has been a bitter enemy of the regime of President Chiang Kai-shek, definitely ended its hostile campaign today. The southern leaders issued a proclamation, addressed both to the Nanking government and to Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria, suggesting an immediate reorganization of the central government.

President Chiang, in a message to the Chinese people today, declared that "if the league of nations and the Kellogg pact signatories fail to uphold justice between China and Japan, the national government is prepared for a final and supreme struggle. I shall lead the army and the entire nation in the fight for the preservation of our race. I shall go to the front and, if necessary, fall with other patriots."

JAPAN REBUFFS LEAGUE; BLOCKS MANCHURIAN QUIZ

Refuses Interference by Any Third Party.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—Bowing before Japan's refusal to withdraw its troops which recently invaded Manchuria until its difficulties with China are settled, and before Tokio's rejection of an investigation of the situation, the council of the league of nations today adopted an empty resolution.

Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, warned his colleagues that Japanese forces were continuing to advance in Manchurian territory and capturing additional strategic points, at the cost of much bloodshed. He asserted that the latest cabled dispatches described the slaughter of hundreds of Chinese men, women, and children under revolting circumstances.

Japan Refuses to Budge.

Despite the plea of the council for the utmost speed in examining the affair, M. K. Yoshizawa, Japan's chief delegate, declined to consent to setting another date for a council meeting until he receives instructions from Tokio.

The delegates of the big powers sought in vain to induce Yoshizawa to consent to the retirement of the Japanese military forces to positions they occupied prior to the outbreak last Friday, and to permit the league to institute an investigating body composed of French, Italian, and British military attachés stationed at Mukden and also to invite the United States to be represented by qualified American members.

Yoshizawa insisted that the Japanese troops could not fall back without jeopardizing their safety, and insisted Japan could not agree to outside intrusion, such as having a commission of neutral officials interfere with a question concerning only Japan and China.

After more than one hour of persuasion, Yoshizawa finally consented to the following wording of the council's resolution. The council authorized:

"FIRST—An urgent appeal to the governments of China and Japan to abstain from any act tending to aggravate the situtions or to prejudice a peaceful settlement of the problem.

"SECOND—A consultation with representatives of China and Japan as to adequate means whereby the two countries may proceed immediately with the withdrawal of their respective troops without compromising the security of the lives of their nationals or the protection of property belonging to them."

Recommends U. S. Be Informed.

The resolution closed with Lord Robert Cecil's recommendation that all information or documents relative to the question be forwarded to the United States government.

The Chinese delegate pointed out the worthlessness of the resolution because Chinese officers had disarmed their soldiers and ordered them to retreat before the advancing Japanese. He also pointed out that the resolution calls for the Chinese to withdraw their troops when they have already been retiring constantly since the Japanese started to advance beyond the territory which special treaties entitle them to patrol in order to police the South Manchurian railway.

"The resolution was only the first of a series of steps which must be taken, but I am disappointed at its limitations," said Mr. Sze. "It does not specify what Japan must do to restore the situation.

"In view of important dispatches just received, I request the council to meet tomorrow to examine the additional information. The situation is getting worse every minute and we must obtain the immediate withdrawal of the Japanese forces. The question before us is a Japanese invasion of Chinese territory. I repeat that an investigating committee should start probing the responsibilities immediately. The zone of Chinese territory occupied is being extended hourly."

RUSSIA ORDERS HER CITIZENS ABROAD TO PREPARE FOR WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Sept. 22.—Citizens of the soviet union living in Vienna and other European cities have been instructed to get in touch with the nearest Russian diplomatic agents without delay so as to be on hand in case they are called for military service in Manchuria.

A former soviet diplomat, now studying medicine in Vienna, states that he has just received instructions from the soviet legation here. No formal order for mobilizing Russians abroad has been issued, he added, since the draft does not exist in Russia, but all Russian citizens are given to understand that they will be expected to catch the first train back in case Russia declares war on Japan.

An unconfirmed report says the soviets are trying to recruit soldiers among former czarist officers living in exile.

CHINA SPURNS JAPANESE FOOD FOR FLOOD AREA

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

NANKING, Sept. 22.—Finance Minister T. V. Soong, acting in the capacity of chairman of the national flood relief commission, today on behalf of China refused to accept 4,000 tons of foodstuffs and relief supplies from Japan which arrived today at Shanghai. Soong sent the following cable to Baron Fukao, chairman of the Japanese flood relief commission:

"You will doubtless understand that recent events in Manchuria have made it impossible for my commission to accept supplies which the people of your country have sent for flood relief. The generous act of your emperor, recognizing the unprecedented nature of the catastrophe in China, in donating 100,000 yen [$50,000] for the relief of flood sufferers is greatly appreciated by us.

"But that your militarists should seize this moment, when all China is prostrated by a catastrophe and tens of millions are starving, to launch a dastardly blow against us serves but to make a mockery of the humanitarian feelings of your people. It would be bitter bread for flood sufferers to swallow were we to accept your assistance now and would thus ill requite the genuinely sympathetic feeling of civilian Japan."

Lindys Hop for Flood Survey.

NANKING, China, Sept. 23 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The Lindberghs took off from Lotus lake today at 12:15 [11:15 p. m. Tuesday, Chicago daylight time] on a third survey of the flood area, intending to cover the Wuhu region north and south of the Yangtze river.

10 PER CENT CUT IN WAGES MADE BY U. S. STEEL CO.

Similar Action Taken by Other Companies.

the annual dividend rate on the common stock of the corporation from $7 to $4, by which disbursements to stockholders were curtailed at the rate of more than $25,000,000 annually.

Factors Considered.

In connection with the consideration of the wage scale, it was understood the management of the corporation took into consideration such factors as the following:

Current operations have been unprofitable. The steel industry as a whole is on an unproductive basis of operations. As a measure of readjustment it is felt that it was necessary to bring wages in closer harmony with reduced costs of living.

There was a substantial increase in wage rates and a reduction in hours in the year 1923, which was the last readjustment made, while in 1921 there had been three successive decreases in a single year, on account of prevailing conditions.

The average of employment has been high. Through the last two years of slack demand, it is pointed out, the steel corporation has consistently pursued the policy of alternating work among its employés as far as possible.

Labor Resents Action.

Labor's reaction to the announcement of the United States Steel corporation of a wage reduction of 10 per cent was one of bitter resentment and warning that this action would aggravate the business depression and interfere with recovery.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, who has been emphatic in his advocacy of the maintenance of wage scales, expressed great disappointment at the wage cut announcement and feared that it might prove the source of even greater trouble than has already been experienced by business and industry in the course of the present depression. His fear was that it might prove the signal for wage reductions all along the line. He warned that any such development was pregnant with serious possibilities to industrial peace.

Hoover Is Disappointed.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The news that the steel corporation had reduced wages 10 per cent was received with regret tonight by administration officials although no official comment was made at the White House. Officials close to President Hoover said he was disappointed over the failure of the big steel organization to maintain wages at the old levels.

The administration's viewpoint was expressed by Secretary of Labor Doak, who in expressing regrets that the steel corporation "found it necessary to make a wage cut" declared that in spite of the corporation's course there was no change in the opposition of the administration to wage reductions.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont would say nothing beyond an expression of regret, but Assistant Secretary Julius Klein of his department, an intimate friend of President Hoover, was more emphatic. Dr. Klein said he stood by a remark he had made recently that "there will be hell to pay throughout the United States in the event of a general wage reduction."

Copper Miners' Pay Cut.

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 22.—(AP)—A wage reduction of 9.1 per cent, affecting upwards of 10,000 copper mine laborers in Arizona, will become effective Oct. 1.

Notices of the reduction, which brings wages back to $4.50 a day for miners and $4 a day for muckers, the base rate of May 1, 1931, were posted today at the major mines.

AFFECTS 14,000 IN GARY

About 14,000 steel workers of the Chicago region will be affected by the wage cuts announced yesterday, according to estimates reported from Gary, Ind., the model "steel city." Of these about 9,000 are employés of the Gary works of the U. S. Steel company, who have been working only part time this year. Another 5,000 are employés of other subsidiaries.

Despite the prospective loss in pay and a consequent loss of the purchasing power of a day's wages at the steel mills, the residents, merchants and tradesmen of Gary and other cities of Indiana's industrial section which is Chicago's southern boundary, were not dejected. The general thought was that the reduced wages, and the probable reduction in steel costs, will bring about a return of normal business conditions in the industry.

Within the last three weeks reductions were ordered by the Inland Steel company and other concerns.

George A. Ranney, vice president and treasurer of the Wisconsin Steel company, said wage reductions had not been considered by officials of that company. R. H. Ripley, senior vice president of the American Steel Foundries, said that company probably would not reduce wages. R. H. Morton, president of the Acme Steel company, said his concern might follow the action of the United States Steel corporation, but had not decided upon it.

BUTLER REVIEWS HIS MARINE BOYS FOR LAST TIME

33 Years with Corps Will End Today.

Quantico, Va., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler today reviewed his troops for the last time.

Before retiring to private life after 33 colorful years in the marine corps, he inspected his command of 2,000 men and reviewed them at dress parade in his last official function as commandant of the Quantico base.

In the morning he will lead a landing attack on the post, but with the sunset gun today he made his farewell to Quantico and the corps, from which he will retire Oct. 1.

Many of Men Veterans.

Column after column of the officers and men of the Quantico post filed past the reviewing stand. Slightly stooped, Butler returned the salute of his comrades, many of them veterans who served with him for years.

Before the parade he made his final inspection—characteristically as informal as possible—passing through the ranks and stopping here and there to chat with an officer or enlisted man and introducing them to his guests, who included Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, his native state, and Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia.

Air and Battery Salutes.

Every man stationed at Quantico turned out for the farewell. Eighteen planes flew in formation while machine gun detachments pulled up into position and artillery batteries fired a volley.

After the ceremony the men swung in an informal column past the reviewing stand. They sang the marine corps song, "From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli," in tribute to the man whose bravery in the Philippines, Haiti, China, Mexico, Nicaragua, France, and other lands won him two congressional medals of honor, the distinguished service cross, and a half dozen other decorations.

New schedules, effective September 27, leave Chicago for Peoria and Iowa Division 12:30 a. m. instead of 1:00 a. m. City Ticket Office, 179 West Jackson Blvd. or La Salle Street Station. Phone Wabash 2200.—Adv.

JANITORS TO WORK AT NIGHT TO STOP SCHOOL BURGLARIES

Janitors in Chicago's 286 public school buildings have been put on a new schedule entailing more night work, it was learned yesterday. Under the new schedule, janitors, who formerly worked during the daytime, now come to work at 2:30 in the afternoon and remain until 11 p. m. on school days. Half an hour is provided for lunch.

How much this will increase the school board's bill for light, school board executives were unwilling to estimate. The hope was expressed, however, that the presence of janitors in the buildings until late at night would result in a decrease in burglaries. There were 780 school burglaries last year. The school board's bill for light last year was $440,000.

The engineer custodians, who direct the work of the janitors, go off duty at 5 o'clock, it was stated, but cleaning inspectors are provided to keep tab on the work of the janitors.

GIANNINIS LOSE CONTROL OF BIG BANKING CHAIN

Parent Corporation Is Reorganized.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Expressing the belief that nation-wide branch banking in the United States is unlikely in the near future, the Transamerica corporation announced today sweeping changes in its policies which will eventually lead to divestment of its controlling interest in banks with assets of some $1,700,000,000.

A. P. GIANNINI.

It also was announced that the organization, formed two years ago to bring together the vast banking and allied interests assembled by A. P. Giannini of San Francisco, will continue as an investment company under a reconstituted board of directors, which will bring into the corporation new and powerful banking elements.

Gianninis Step Out.

Mr. Giannini will remain chairman of the new board, but A. P. Giannini, his brother, A. H. Giannini, and his son, L. M. Giannini, will resign from the directorate. James A. Bacigalupi of San Francisco, long associate of Mr. Giannini, will retain as president. Mr. Giannini had retired from active participation in the management on reaching his 60th birthday in 1930.

The new board of directors will include three partners in the international banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co. They are Frederick W. Allen, Charles E. Cotting, and George Murnane. Other new directors are Frederick C. Dumaine, president of the Amoskeag company, Boston; Henry O. Havemeyer, New York capitalist; Charles W. Nash, president of Nash Motors company; Roland L. Redmond of the New York law firm of Carter, Ledyard & Milburn; Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway.

Dividend Is Passed.

Announcement of the changes in the firm's management and policies was made at the main office of the corporation in New York today, after they had been finally approved by the directors, meeting in San Francisco. At today's meeting directors acted to declare no dividend on the stock at this time. Dividends so far this year total 60 cents a share.

Transamerica now holds 99 per cent of the stock of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, operating some 300 branches in California and with assets reported in its last balance sheet in excess of $1,100,000,000; 62 per cent of the stock of the Bank of America National association, operating 32 branches in New York City and having resources of more than $400,000,000, in addition to other banking and financial organizations.

New Company to Be Formed.

The projected realignment will result in the formation of a new company, to take over the nation-wide distribution business, now conducted by the Bancamerica-Blair corporation, which operates as a security affiliate of the Bank of America of New York. The new company will have no connection with the Bank of America, and the Transamerica proposes to dispose of its holdings in it, so that it can operate independently.

"The foregoing changes will give to the banks now controlled by the corporation complete independence of policy and management," the letter to the stockholders says.

It was further announced that Lynn P. Talley, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, will retire from that position, to become an active executive of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association of California.

Mr. Walker, chairman, when asked to comment upon the letter to Transamerica's stockholders, said:

"In my opinion the most significant items of policy outlined by the board's letter to stockholders are these: [1] That our bank holdings shall not be majority or controlling interests but shall be limited to minority positions; [2] that the affiliated companies dealing in securities be separated from the banks; [3] that the corporate assets be reckoned upon a most conservative basis without allowance for good will, and [4] that these new policies shall involve no hasty or precipitate action but instead shall represent ultimate objectives, to be approached gradually and deliberately.

"I am confident that the strong new interests identified with the corporation and the corporate policies now formulated will bring to Transamerica advantages of the first importance."

Drastic Cut in Values.

The corporation issued a consolidated balance sheet as of June 30, giving effect to drastic write downs of the value of holdings, writeoffs of good will and other intangibles, writing down to current values of properties heretofore carried at cost, which showed total tangible assets of $302,117,000.

This compares with total assets shown in the balance sheet of Dec. 31, 1930, of $1,117,191,644. This drastic decline was explained as reflecting the writing down of everything to rock bottom, by the most conservative methods of accounting. It reflects in large part the carrying of properties at present values which were heretofore carried at cost. These costs represented the high values in such years as 1928 and 1929.

Stockholders of Transamerica reached a high point in January of this year, when they totaled 217,567. Stockholders reside in thirty-six foreign countries as well as in the United States, Alaska, and Porto Rico.

Soared in Boom Era.

Both the stocks of Transamerica corporation and its predecessor, the Bancitaly corporation, saw feverish speculation at swiftly rising prices during the bull market which terminated in 1929. Transamerica had remarkable success as a trading company during the boom period. Its profits for 1929 were about $67,000,000, which included $22,500,000 in unrealized profits which had accumulated during the previous year.

Transamerica stock rose to $166 a share in September, 1929, when a stock dividend of 150 per cent was declared, amounting to a 2½ for 1 split up. The outstanding capital was brought by this measure to nearly 25,000,000 shares.

The stock has worked almost steadily lower during the last year. Its high price this year was $18 a share, and low price $5. The shares closed today at $5.25, unchanged from yesterday.

GIANNINI'S CAREER.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Amadeo Peter Giannini, who retired today from all official connection with the Transamerica corporation, under which he assembled an empire of financial companies with resources amounting close to two billion dollars, was born of Italian parents in San José, Cal., in 1870. His chief academic preparation for a phenomenal career was a three months' course in a business school. His first practical experience was gained in a produce commission business with his foster father.

But cabbages and turnips were not particularly inspiring to a young man of ideas and ambitions, and Giannini began to take some profitable flyers in San Francisco real estate. Later he was made a director of a local building and loan association. In 1904 he formed the Bank of Italy, a $150,000 institution.

Survives Earthquake.

The San Francisco earthquake and fire were only mild interruptions in the progress of Giannini. When the flames were approaching the bank's unpretentious quarters he got a horse and wagon, loaded the bank's tangible assets into the cart, and drove twenty miles to San Mateo, where he buried the cash, securities, and books in his garden. Bank of Italy was the first bank to reopen after the city had recovered from its daze. It resumed business in the open air on the waterfront, its sole equipment a desk bravely labeled "Bank of Italy."

The first expansion came in the summer of 1908 year when two other San Francisco banks were purchased and merged as a branch of Bank of Italy. From then on extensions up and down the California coast were rapid.

The merger with the old investment house of Blair & Co. took place early in 1929.

MUSSOLINI USES ACROPOLIS AS INSPIRATION

In order to familiarize themselves with the glories of Greece and Rome, Benito Mussolini sent a band of young Fascists to Athens. Here they are shown among the ruins of the Acropolis, obtaining inspiration for the work which the Italian premier expects them to do in the near future.

The London newspapers, he said, overemphasized crime in the United States, and in speaking of the American press' treatment of crime he said:

CATHOLIC PAPER ATTACKS HISTORY BOOKS IN ITALY

A New Vatican-Fascist Clash Looms.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 22.—With the recent accord between the Vatican and Fascism over the Catholic Action society still not worked out in detail, particularly in northern Italy, another clash between the church and state appears to be brewing over the education. The current dispute is over the bitter denunciation of the Italian state history book for high schools, which has just been launched in the latest number of the Civilta Cattolica, a local Jesuit organ.

Volume one, of the three state books on history, is especially condemned as containing an historical proposition against the doctrines of the Catholic church. There is the possibility that if this volume is not withdrawn it will be condemned by the congregation of the Index and Catholic students will be forbidden to read it.

The new history text book is the work of Prof. Angelo Pernice of the University of Florence and Prof. Carlo Capasso of the University of Perugia, famous history instructors. Prefaces were also written by Prof. Arrigo Solmi of Pavia university, Luigi Federzoni, president of the senate, and Alfredo Rocco, minister of justice.

The Civilta Cattolica objects particularly that the last three men, all Catholics, should have indorsed a book which contains teachings running counter to the principles of the church. These histories, it maintains, are based on German historical rationalism which denies the divine foundation, organization and mission of the Catholic church, and that, for this reason, the history books cannot be reconciled with the church's right to give a Catholic education to young Fascists.

The alleged glorification of the reformation as a salient fact of the modern age is also condemned as false and unworthy of historians by the Civilta Cattolica. The history books are thus denounced by the paper as unfit for the education of the youth of Italy.

WHO IS CHAPLIN? GANDHI ASKS AS CHARLIE CALLS

Finds Out When Throng Mobs Film Comedian.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, Sept. 22.—"Who is this Charlie Chaplin person?" Mahatma Gandhi, India's nationalist leader, asked when told that Mr. Chaplin was at the door and wanted to visit the "holy man" at the home of Gandhi's Indian physician in London's east end tonight.

Gandhi was informed that the caller was a man who had made millions laugh.

"Well, then let him in," the mahatma requested.

And it was well that the famous film comedian was permitted to enter. Hundreds of children and grownups were at the front of the house giving Chaplin a noisy welcome. His clothing was almost torn from his back by the enthusiastic east enders.

Several Are Trampled.

The mob was so great that it crushed the railings outside of the house, and several persons were trampled. Charlie was forced to make a speech from the window to subdue the cheering throng.

Then Gandhi and the film star chatted for half an hour, the "holy man" interrupting the conversation at prayer time and bidding the comedian to stay.

Chaplin did and squatted on the floor alongside Miss Madeleine Slade, Gandhi's English disciple. Chaplin appeared to be fascinated as the two chanted mysterious hymns in Hindustani. Thereafter the two idealists continued their talk, discussing a perfect world and pastoral life, both laughing and chatting vivaciously.

"A very charming man," Gandhi observed as Chaplin departed.

"He seems like a great man," was Chaplin's comment.

Gandhi Angry at Britain.

At the round table conference today Gandhi expressed indignation at Great Britain's action in forcing the rupee down with the pound sterling without even consulting Indian interests.

"While we all sympathize with the British nation in this crisis, I must express my surprise and sorrow over the manner in which this action has been taken in India," Gandhi said.

"What pains me is that the decision was taken over the heads of the Indian legislatures, which is a striking proof of the unbending attitude of the government of India," he declared. "Evidently in matters of the greatest importance we are not yet considered fit to be consulted, much less to decide what is good for us. I am unable to give my support to measures which Sir Samuel Hoare, the secretary of state for India, has asked."

PLAQUES GIVEN 37 CONCERNS IN SAFETY CONTEST

Championship plaques in a six months' safety contest were awarded last night to 37 industrial and commercial concerns in the Chicago area at the annual fall dinner of the Chicago safety council in the Congress hotel. The championships, arranged in two divisions, were won by companies with the lowest accident averages in their groups.

Twenty plaques were awarded in the interfleet drivers' contest and 17 in the interplant accident prevention contest. More than 400 executives, representing approximately 80 concerns, attended the dinner.

RESCUED OCEAN FLYERS PUT ON N. Y. BOUND SHIP

S. S. STAVANGERFJORD, at Sea [by Radio], Sept. 22.—(AP)—Willy Rody, Christian Johannsen, and Fernando Da Costa Viega, trans-Atlantic airmen, were transferred to this vessel today from the motor ship Belmoira, which picked them up off the Newfoundland coast after they had clung to the wreckage of their plane for six days. The Stavangerfjord will arrive in New York Friday.

Rudy and Johannsen were in excellent condition, but Da Costa Viega was in the ship's hospital tonight with a slightly injured knee. Capt. Irgens of the Stavangerfjord said their condition was remarkable, considering the length of time they drifted without food, in the wreckage of a land plane, through stormy weather.

The transfer to the Stavangerfjord took only 20 minutes. It was made in the ship's lifeboat at 10:20 a. m. [Chicago time] in latitude 48:05 north, longitude 48:24 west, less than 200 miles off Cape Race, Newfoundland.

CABINET CALLS BRITAIN'S CRISIS NO PERIL TO U. S.

Sees Chance of Benefit Instead.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The British government's temporary suspension of gold payments and its possible effects upon the United States was the principal topic of discussion at President Hoover's meeting with the cabinet today.

The opinion of the President and his advisers at the close of the meeting was that there is no reason for alarm in this country over the effect the devaluation of the pound sterling will have on our foreign trade and that no action by the American government is called for as matters now stand.

Whatever may have been the tenor of the talk in the cabinet room the discussion of the subject outside its doors by members of the administration was extremely cautious. Despite the fact that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in his official statement had used the words "go off the gold standard," administration officials contended that there has been no abandonment of the gold standard.

Only Fixed Standard Abandoned.

What has happened, they said, is that a fixed gold standard has been abandoned temporarily and a variable gold standard adopted. But transactions will continue to be measured in gold. The only difference will be that the pound sterling will have a variable instead of a fixed value.

As the administration views it, the British government was compelled to take the step as a result of the continuously increasing adverse balance extending over a long period. England could not pay for her imports from exports and profits on foreign investments and at last was compelled to pay the difference in gold. To halt this drain of gold specie, payments were suspended.

Administration officials professed to take no stock in the theory that the drain of gold resulted from a flight of capital superinduced by fears that the stability of the British government was threatened. Mr. MacDonald referred to this flight of capital which had been most pronounced since the mutiny of the sailors of the British fleet a fortnight ago. This mutiny is supposed to have spread fear that a revolution was impending inasmuch as many revolutions, including the German and Russian, have been prefaced by mutiny in the navy or army, or both.

Called National Economic Force.

The official view here is that nothing so sensational was at the bottom of the course forced upon the British government. It is regarded as merely the outcome of naturally operating economic forces in the wake of a great war such as took the United States off the gold standard during the civil war and delayed the resumption of specie payments until 1879.

So far as effect upon the United States is concerned, the administration takes an optimistic view. The blow had been impending for a long time, it was pointed out, and as a consequence there was much uncertainty and apprehension in the world of international trade and finance. Now that the blow has fallen the realization is found not half so bad as the anticipation.

As a result of the decline in the value of the pound, Americans will be able to buy British products more cheaply. This is because a given number of dollars will buy more pounds with which to pay for such purchases. Hence British exports will increase in volume.

May Increase U. S. Exports.

The increasing British export trade will encourage an increased output of British factories, which in turn will increase employment and increase the demand for raw materials, many of which are supplied by the United States. Cotton and copper are among the leading raw materials Britain buys in large quantities from the United States.

That the standard of living in the British isles will decline as a result of the drastic step taken by the government is not denied. The decrease in the value of the pound will be reflected in higher prices of commodities. Only a commensurate wage raise would enable the workingman to buy as much of the necessities of life as before.

Inasmuch as the price of articles imported into Great Britain will rise also, the volume of imports may be expected to decline. The effect will be tantamount to that of a protective tariff for which there is increasing sentiment in Britain. For that reason some falling off in American exports to the British isles may be expected.

Will Need Raw Materials.

At the same time there is reason to believe that the decline in American exports to Britain may be inconsequential. Raw materials constitute an extremely large proportion of American exports to the British isles. Inasmuch as British industry boomed by the cheapening of the pound will demand an increased volume of raw materials, any decrease in British demand for American finished products will be largely if not entirely offset.

With respect to the influence of the British government's step on British foreign trade in competition with American foreign trade, the administration feels that there is little to fear. Consumers will be able to buy more cheaply in the British than in the American market.

GETS $100,000

FLORENCE SMILEY CARR.

Miss Florence Smiley Carr, debutante daughter of Robert F. Carr, Chicago school trustee and president of the Dearborn Chemical company, came into an inheritance of $100,000 yesterday from the estate of her mother, Mrs. Louise Smiley Carr, who died in 1925. Miss Carr celebrated her 18th birthday on March 28, shortly after she returned to Chicago from France, where she had been in school. Yesterday Joseph L. Lisack, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, closed the guardianship of her father and turned her estate over to Miss Carr. She gave her address as Shadowbrook, her father's Lake Forest estate.

man in the British empire. He possesses the trust of the whole people. Even the Laborites do not dare attack him in the house of commons and he is almost in the position of a dictator.

The decision whether he will carry on, or go to the country is entirely in his hands.

It is considered extremely likely that in view of the developments Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor opposition, may join the national cabinet and bring with him to support the new government all but a handful of "the wild men" of Labor's left wing. If that happens, there will be no election and the government can carry on for two years and probably adopt a tariff without troubling to appeal to the country.

Mr. Henderson's price for joining will be a scaling down of the 10 per cent reduction in the dole for the unemployed.

Lady Astor Twits Laborites.

Lady Astor was the central figure in a scene in the house of commons tonight during a discussion on the economy bill when the question of the recent "mutiny" of sailors of the British fleet over pay cuts was brought up again by C. G. Ammon, Laborite.

Both Lady Astor and Sir Austin Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, deprecated the reopening of the discussion, Lady Astory strongly rebuking the Labor member for dragging the navy into party politics. She insisted that foreign opinion had completely misunderstood the action of the sailors, and that, in fact, the sailors themselves deeply regretted the occurrence.

Lady Astor Interrupted.

Considerable interruption from the Labor benches greeted Lady Astor, who twitted the women members of the Labor party for not having the courage to do what was unpopular even for the sake of their country. This led to an interjection by Mrs. L. Manning, Laborite, who said:

"You are wasting your pity!"

"Is that what you got up to say?" Lady Astor replied.

"Yes, it was, and I feel like never sitting down again," Mrs. Manning replied.

Immediately came cries from the Labor benches: "Hurrah! You ought to be in the music halls."

Mr. Ammon's amendment to omit from the bill all reference to the renumeration within the army and navy was rejected.

GERMANY AND FRANCE PLEDGE UNITED FRONT IN WAR ON DEPRESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Germany, Sept. 22.—"Franco-German coöperation is essential to effect the rescue of the world from its present crisis," was the keynote of the speeches by President Paul von Hindenburg and Andre Francois Poncet when the latter presented his credentials as new French ambassador today. Germany's president expressed his personal conviction that only the coöperation of all the nations could stem the great danger which is threatening the world today through the exceptional economic crisis.

"Fate has entrusted Germany and France with the special task of uniting to ward off distress and collapse," he said. "The crisis can only be solved to the benefit of Europe and the entire world if both countries approach it with a desire for understanding and a true spirit of coöperation."

FATHER URGES BOY SLAYER TO PLEAD GUILTY

Perry Swank Jr., 15 year old high school boy of Creston, Ind., who has confessed that he murdered Eugene Duckworth of Lowell, Ind., during a robbery on Sunday evening, was held to the Criminal court on a charge of murder yesterday, when he was arraigned before Magistrate John E. Crust at Crown Point.

Young Swank's father, a worker in the steel mills at East Chicago, visited his son in his cell and urged him to plead guilty. The boy indicated that he would follow the advice. He continued to maintain that he killed Duckworth, 69 year old proprietor of a filling station, in an attempt to get money to pay for school books.

Residents of Lowell said that Duckworth, who was for many years town marshal, had always been known as a friend of boys and had given them fatherly advice instead of locking them up when they got into mischief. The police added a belief that he could have shot Swank with the pistol he carried, but did not draw it to defend himself.

Charles Miller, 32 years old, who claims to be an university graduate, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $40,000, and his companion, Alfred Erickson, 28 years old, 7903 Calumet avenue, was held in bonds of $20,000 on robbery charges yesterday by Judge Fairbank.

13 MILLION LEFT BY FOLGER, FORMER HEAD OF STANDARD OIL CO.

Mineola, L. I., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The gross estate left by the late Henry Clay Folger, former president of the Standard Oil Company of New York who died at Glen Cove, L. I., on June 11, 1930, amounted to $13,719,635, according to an intermediate accounting filed in the Nassau county Surrogate's court here today by the widow and executrix, Mrs. Emily C. J. Folger.

Income received from the estate after Mr. Folger's death amounted to $363,120, bringing the gross total to $14,082,745, the accounting showed.

Mr. Folger's stock holdings amounted to $9,005,000 and the accounting revealed that losses on the sale and distribution of stocks amounted to $4,-$55,373.

HUNT, FORSYTHE ACCUSED UNDER NEW PISTOL LAW

Sam Hunt and James Fawcett, alias "Red" Forsythe, arrested on Monday after an episode near the Art institute, which appeared to be a gang assassination gone awry, are the first gangsters to feel a new law passed by the last legislature in an attempt to curb gunmen.

They were booked last night on charges of carrying concealed weapons and of defacing the serial numbers on revolvers, the latter being the new gun charge. It carries a maximum penalty of two years in jail and a $200 fine.

Hunt and Forsythe were booked on the orders of Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court, before whom writs of habeas corpus were sought yesterday morning. They posted bonds of $2,000 each and were released by police last night.

South Park Policeman Henry Fogelsang arrested both men Monday afternoon following a mysterious shooting on the Monroe street viaduct east of Michigan avenue.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD ANNOUNCES

Fall Passenger Schedules

EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 27

The Liberty Limited quickens schedule to Washington

Now no faster way except by air

Four 20-Hour Flyers to New York

To Washington

THE Liberty Limited, long famous as the de luxe Pennsylvania flyer to Washington and Baltimore, cuts more than half an hour from its running time with the new fall passenger schedules, and becomes one of the fastest trains in America. There is now no faster way from Chicago to Washington except by air. To Baltimore The Liberty Limited is the fastest train by a wide margin.

From the diner, with its exceptional cuisine, to the observation lounge, The Liberty Limited provides the utmost in travel luxury. And the roadbed is one of the smoothest in the world.

The Liberty Limited leads a fleet of thirteen trains daily to Washington and Baltimore.

To New York

SEVENTEEN trains daily speed from Chicago to New York, over a route that is more than 50 miles shorter than that of any other railroad with trains of comparable schedule. Four 20-hour flyers lead this swift fleet; four additional trains make the trip in 21 hours or less; and three more in less than 23, 24, and 25 hours respectively.

This is one of the most flexible schedules ever devised between two great cities. You can virtually choose your own hour of departure, your own hour of arrival.

There is no faster way to New York than the Pennsylvania's four 20-hour flyers, except by air. And the roadbed is laid with 130-lb. rails all the way—the longest single stretch of such heavy rail construction in the world.

His captors gave him $3 "for expenses" and drove on.

Representative Curran left his home at 1314 South Ashland avenue in the morning. About noon he started for Springfield. While he was still a con- siderable distance north of Kankakee an automobile in which three men were riding drew up along side his car and a machine gun and a shotgun were thrust toward him.

Forced Into Other Car.

Representative Curran was com- pelled to get into the robbers' car. One of the trio took Curran's car and rode in it alone, until Momence, Ill., was reached. There the robbers' automobile was abandoned and all drove on in Curran's.

Although the way was roundabout they reached Williamsville, thirteen miles north of Springfield, in the late afternoon. At a crossing the car was stopped by State Highway Policeman Willard Mester.

"Whose car is this?" he demanded.

Representative Curran said it was his and that he was on the way to Springfield.

When the policeman demanded that he display his identification, Repre- sentative Curran reached for his card case. The robbers had taken it. One of them suggested that he look in a pocket of his coat, which was lying on the seat. The representative found the card and Policeman Mester waved the party on.

Representative Curran later ex- plained that he feared to mention the status of his hosts, or guests, for fear they would kill the policeman. He added that although the kidnaping may have been a result of his activ- ity in trying to obtain the release of John J. Lynch, owner of a race news information service who was held for ransom in August, he was inclined to believe the robbers merely wanted money and an auto.

Woman Ends Her Life by Lying in Path of Train

Mrs. Nickita Perkovic, 50 years old, 1464 Sherman avenue, Evanston, com- mitted suicide yesterday by lying in the path of a northbound Chicago and North Western railroad train at the Davis street station in Evanston. The body was identified by the husband, Paul, a picture framer. Perkovic told the Evanston police that his wife had been despondent recently because of a prolonged separation from her chil- dren who are going to school in Jugo- Slavia. He had lost his life's savings, $10,000, in a real estate deal, he dis- closed, and this had made it impos- sible to bring the children to this country.

Thousands of Wild Animals Die in So. African Drought

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 23.—Reports from Durban, Natal, today said cattle and wild animals are dying by the thousands in the low veldt of Zululand owing to drought. Herds of game in a des- perate attempt to find water have broken out of their preserves and the bushveld and valleys are alive with animals wandering along the river beds, which are dry.

HEIR TO $300,000 ASKS ACCOUNTING BY STEPMOTHER

Gets Injunction Against Mrs. Jacob Mayer.

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yes- terday issued a temporary injunction restraining Mrs. Augusta Mayer, 5496 Hyde Park boulevard, widow of Jacob Mayer, head of the Belding Brothers' company, silk manufactur- ers, from disposing of Mr. Mayer's $300,000 estate.

The injunction was asked in a bill for accounting filed by Benjamin A. Mayer, 6802 Clyde avenue, stepson of Mrs. Mayer, and heir with his brother, Irving Lee Mayer of San Francisco, to his father's estate at her death.

Others Made Defendants.

The restraining order also applied to Mrs. Mayer's children by a former marriage, Ben Winston and Mrs. Maud Heilbrunn; her son-in-law, Simon Heilbrunn, and her grand- daughter, Adele Heilbrunn, as well as the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank, the Hyde Park Safe Deposit company and the Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

Benjamin Mayer charges that his father's estate has been reduced by extravagant living by his stepmother and alleges that she has transferred money, created trust funds and de- livered blocks of stock to her chil- dren, her son-in-law and granddaugh- ter. According to the terms of the will, Mayer charges, the estate was to be a life trust in the hands of Mrs. Mayer, who was to make transfers and sales of stock and property only in a manner to benefit the estate.

Bill Accuses Stepmother.

For five years before Jacob Mayer's death at the age of 80 on May 29, 1929, the bill recites, he had been in- competent and unable to carry on his business as a result of a paralytic stroke. Mrs. Mayer took advantage of her husband's condition to trans- fer funds into her name, to assume ownership of a large block of stock, and to influence her husband in the making of his will, her stepson al- leges.

Mrs. Mayer refused to file her hus- band's will for probate until more than a year after his death, and then only after her stepson had appealed to Judge Henry Horner, the suit charges. At that time, Mayer alleges, she denied that the property she con- trolled was part of his father's estate.

POLICEMAN AND HOLDUP SUSPECT SHOT IN CHASE

Policeman Richard Farrell of the Des Plaines street station was slightly wounded early this morning in a pis- tol battle with two robbers who were fleeing after they had held up three men in the Ideal hotel at 1005 West Madison street and taken $10 from the cash drawer.

Farrell, despite his wound, followed the robbers. He and Policeman Jos- eph Crowley took up the chase after Harvey Royal, the clerk in the hotel, pointed out the bandits on the street. The pursuit led to 1041 Monroe street, in front of which the policemen shot and wounded George Johnson, 31 years old, 1031 Adams street.

At the county hospital it was found that one of the robbers' bullets had grazed the abdomen of Farrell after being slightly deflected by books he carried in a pocket. Johnson's wounds, in the chest and the left arm, were serious. He was taken to the Bride- well hospital, where he denied he was one of the holdup men.

CITY DEMANDS FREE REPAIR OF FAULTY LIGHTS

$211,284 Excess Profit in Contract Charged.

William A. Jackson, city commis- sioner of gas and electricity, yesterday ordered officials of the Electrical Con- tracting company to repair at the company's expense all defective work on the recently completed installation of 6,905 street lights. Unless the de- mand is complied with the city, Mr. Jackson said, will refuse to pay $160,- 000 still due the company under the contracts. The contract was let by Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity under the previous city administration.

The order to repair defects in the lighting system was given at a confer- ence between Harry A. Johnson, presi- dent of the company, and Mr. Jack- son. After the conference Mr. Jack- son announced that Johnson had asked for several days in which to consider the order. The commissioner quoted Johnson as saying that he couldn't believe the company's work had not been up to contract specifications.

Commissioner Jackson in giving the order to the company revealed that he had first informed Mayor Cermak that many light posts had been improperly installed. He said the mayor told him that if any of the work was defective to compel the company to do it over again.

Swanson Starts Inquiry.

Meanwhile State's Attorney Swan- son began an investigation into charges of "official collusion" in the letting of the contract. He assigned Homer A. Dodge, an assistant, to in- vestigate reports that some electrical contractors had been warned not to bid. Dodge was reported to have had no success in confirming rumors that electrical union officials had intimi- dated any contractors.

Another development was the sub- mission last night by the Citizens' association of the results of its three months' investigation of the contract to the governor's revenue commission. In its report the association charged that the contract price of $1,063,365 was excessive by $211,284.

Declaring that excess profits consti- tute the largest item of waste in con- nection with the local governments, the association's report refers to the contract as one "by which the contractor was allowed an enormous profit under circumstances which in- dicate official collusion."

Former City Officials Hit.

The features of the contract char- acterized as outstanding by the asso- ciation were summarized as follows:

"1. Culpable contract making by city officials, indicated by the apparent lack of real competition in bidding, by failure to prepare an engineer's estimate of the fair cost, and by an excess profit of more than $200,000, after allowing 25 per cent for profit and overhead.

"2. Scamping of an essential part of the contract work, aided by lax in- spection."

Only two bids were received by former Commissioner Kennedy on the street lighting project. The second bid was that of $1,125,000 submitted by the Contracting and Materials com- pany. This offer is alleged by the Citizens' association to have been an "accommodation bid," put in merely to give an appearance of competition.

Faulty Foundations Found.

The alleged scamping, according to the association's report, was found in the construction of foundations for the lamp posts. Although the specifi- cations called for foundations 42 inches deep, a number of foundations ranging in depth from 20 to 32 inches were found, both by the association's investigator and by Mr. Jackson.

Further condemnation of the man- ner in which the contract was handled is contained in the report as follows:

"This great lump sum contract was awarded without the preparation of an engineer's estimate such as is univer- sally recognized as an essential safe- guard in the letting of contracts for the construction of large public works. As no information was given in the specifications regarding the unit prices or the quantities of the materials re- quired in the work, the lack of such an engineer's estimate and the lump sum form of the contract served to screen the unreasonableness of the contract price.

Inspectors Under Fire.

"Faulty work found by our investi- gators indicates that the city was also heavily victimized by that means, while city inspectors neglected their duties."

The city inspectors who are still on the pay rolls, as well as J. A. Meur- ling, city electrical engineer in charge, will be examined by Mr. Jackson. If evidence of negligence or collusion is found they will be taken before the civil service commission, Mr. Jackson said.

In concluding its report the Citi- zens' association recommended that the governor's revenue commission consider means of better protecting the taxpayers in the letting of con- tracts. The association recommended a law to require the preparation of a detailed estimate of the probable cost of proposed contract work in advance of the opening of the bids, and another law to compel all contractors on pub- lic works to keep a uniform system of accounting.

Calls Contract Unusual.

Commissioner Jackson declared the street light contract was unusual in form. He characterized one paragraph as the "sweetest" provision he had ever seen in a contract in his 27 years of experience. The paragraph read:

"It is the intent of these specifica- tions that the bidder shall determine his own quantities from the drawings made a part hereof, and shall deter- mine for himself the conditions to complete the contemplated work."

Commissioner Jackson said he inter- preted this to mean that although the specifications required certain items, the contractor at his own discretion could furnish other items.

A development that particularly in- terested the investigators, it was said, was the information that workmen on parts of the job had been paid with checks of the U. S. A. company, which was involved in the sanitary district scandal. Records in the city hall do not show that permission was given to the Electrical Contracting company to sublet any part of the work.

LUNCH WRAPPERS GIVE CLEWS TO VAULT ROBBERS

Grocer Tells of Trio Who Visited Store.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Sam Franklin, Lawrence Shelby and Joseph Hudson, robbery, sentenced to one year to life each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Walter Stanton.

Frank Miller, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge G. Fred Rush.

Sam Brady, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary by Judge J. J. Keily.

Thomas Campus, larceny, sentenced to one year in the county jail by Judge John Prystalski.

Wrappers on food eaten by bandits who looted 106 safe deposit boxes in the vault of the Wicker Park Safe Deposit and Vault company, 1564 Milwaukee avenue, of an estimated $100,000 in currency, jewelry, and negotiable securities over the week-end, last night gave police their first definite clew to the bandits.

The wrappers were found on the floor of the basement of the store adjoining the vault and were traced to the grocery of Frank Mirchiniak, 1610 North Winchester avenue, who told detectives he had sold the food to three men who drove up in a new sedan about 9:45 o'clock Saturday night. He was to be taken to the bureau of identification in an effort to identify the men.

A woman reported seeing seven men walking down the alley near the vault company's office with bundles under their arms on Sunday night.

Trace Stolen Torches.

Detectives under Chief of Detectives Norton traced the acetylene torches and other equipment used and abandoned by the vault bandits, to the Chicago Welding Sales company, 3611 Ogden avenue, which was robbed of the equipment by burglars last Friday night.

William Kerhow, owner of the Automotive Radiator company, 5149 South Ashland avenue, revealed that the tank of oxygen used by the robbers had been stolen from his shop on the night of Sept. 12. He said he did not report the theft then because he did not consider it important.

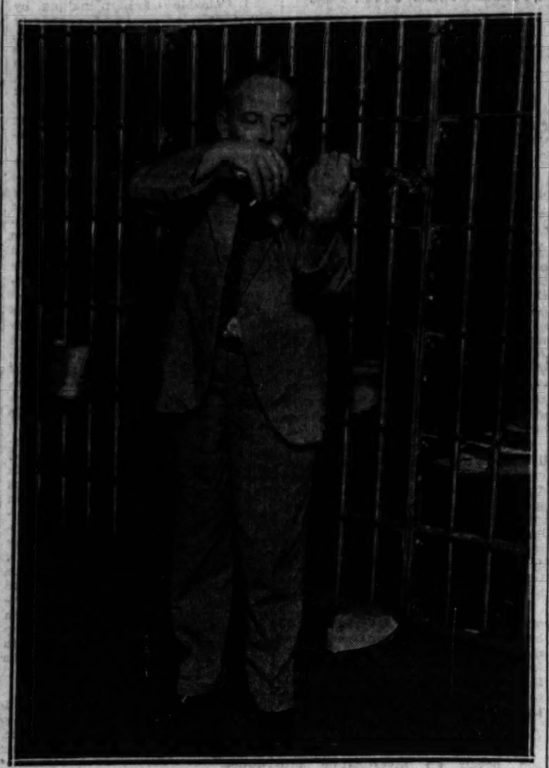
Three Still Held for Quiz.

Police continued to hold James Henry Davis and his son, 19 years old, for further questioning. Davis and his son live above the safe deposit company and both possessed keys to the basement door through which the bandits were supposed to have entered to pierce the vault floor. Percy Brown, 4155 Broadway, who sought to provide bail for them also is held.

FIVE YEARS FOR MAIL THEFT.

Jack Gordon, 20 years old, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Wham to five years in Leavenworth penitentiary on a plea of guilty to stealing mail and impersonating an officer in cashing several checks he had taken.

He Fiddles Jail Blues Away



Louis Lanwell, 6310 Maryland avenue, is happy anywhere—even behind the bars—when he has his 214 year old violin along. He was arrested last night after his automobile had a couple of collisions, but he consoled himself with sweet music, as shown above.

BRITISH ASK SHIPS TO HUNT CRAMER; MAY STILL LIVE

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The British Broadcasting company, in its general radio service tonight, included a message to all shipping in northern waters asking that a careful lookout be maintained in the possibility that Parker D. Cramer, Chicago aviator, whose plane was wrecked in the North sea while flying from Detroit to Copenhagen, may still be alive.

The message also was directed to the inhabitants of the islands off the northeast coast of Scotland, where it was believed the aviator and his companion, Oliver Pacquette, might have taken refuge. The wreckage of Cramer's plane has been discovered. The message broadcast tonight follows:

"From the wreckage discovered it is believed possible that Cramer may still be alive on one of the islands off the northeast coast of Scotland. It is requested that a careful lookout be kept to see whether any trace of Cramer can be observed."

TELEGRAPHER IN PRISON "TAKES" HIS OWN PARDON

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Jack Corder sat at his "key" at the Southern Illinois state penitentiary at Menard, Ill., today doing his regular duties as telegrapher and contemplating his unrosy future.

He still had several years to serve for the slaying of a woman in Vermillion county nine years ago. In the second place he had been informed by the prison physician that he was suffering from a serious disease.

Suddenly his thoughts were interrupted by the clicking of the telegraph instrument. He slipped a piece of paper into his typewriter and began transcribing dots and dashes into letters.

"Warden James A. White," the message was addressed. "Gov. Louis L. Emmerson today commuted to expire at once the sentence of John F. Corder, No. 6,790."

Tomorrow Jack Corder will leave the prison on a quest for health.

JURY EXAMINES STATEMENTS OF WAUKEGAN BANK

Rogers Park Institution Closed by Board.

Two financial statements made by the Waukegan State bank and sworn to before a notary as true accounts of the condition of the bank before its closing last June were being investigated yesterday by the Lake county grand jury.

David R. Forgan, a director of the National Bank of the Republic before its merger with the Central Trust company and of a prominent Chicago banking family, was one of the witnesses heard yesterday. William H. Miller, vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, and five former employés of that bank, Peter Cole, P. D. Rocco, C. B. Kennedy, Edward Bernard, and Lawrence Calking, were also witnesses, and it was understood they were questioned about a transfer of money from the Waukegan bank to the Chicago bank just before the Waukegan bank closed.

Other Witnesses Heard.

J. W. Jedlan, a director of the National Republic corporation; R. N. Wilder, first assistant to State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who was indicted for misfeasance in office for not having closed the Waukegan bank earlier, and Joseph Stenger, former cashier of the Waukegan State bank were other witnesses.

Stenger, a brother of Carl R. Stenger, former chairman of the board of the Waukegan bank, who was named in a true bill, was questioned about the bank statements. According to State's Attorney A. V. Smith, the bank published a statement on Dec. 31, 1930, in which, Smith says, $200,000 listed as assets should have been listed as due the National Bank of the Republic. On March 31, 1931, according to the prosecutor, the bank listed assets of $550,000, which should have been classified under bills payable.

Close Bank in Rogers Park.

The Rogers Park National bank, 6979 North Clark street, was ordered closed at the finish of business yesterday by the board of directors. Heavy withdrawals during the last few days was given as the reason. The bank had deposits of $392,000, a capital of $100,000, surplus of $50,000, and undivided profits of $42,000.

W. H. Creber is president; Otto E. Freund is chairman of the board, and Roy C. Clark is vice president. Other directors are J. R. Hastie, Dr. H. A. Potts, and W. B. Himmel.

Central Republic Dividend.

The board of directors of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, at a meeting yesterday, declared an initial quarterly dividend of $3 a share payable Oct. 1, 1931, to stockholders of record Sept. 22. The transfer books are to be closed from 2 o'clock yesterday until 9 o'clock of the morning of Oct. 1.

Lawyer's Wife Is Granted $45 a Week Pending Suit

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday granted Mrs. Martha N. Schmidt, 1225 Chase avenue, temporary alimony of $45 a week from Attorney Anthony Schmidt, whom she is suing for divorce.

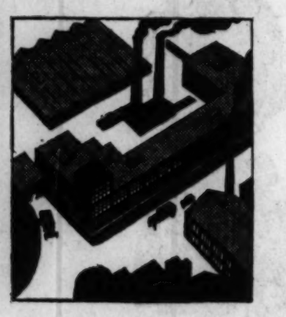
3893 FIRMS IN 211 CITIES BOUGHT EDIPHONES THIS YEAR



BECAUSE MANUFACTURERS

find it just as unprofitable to use notebook dictation in the office, as to have two men doing a one-man job in the plant. With Ediphone service, they have accomplished more in building business in less time, with less energy, and with less expense.

GENERAL OFFICES

find executives and assistants able to clear their minds of dictation, reports, memoranda, ideas and instructions regardless of what stenographers may be doing. Again, two people are not required to do a one-person job. As a result, secretarial assistance becomes more productive.

PROFESSIONS

including lawyers, doctors, engineers and literary men find with Ediphone service, that briefs, medical histories, engineering proposals, or manuscripts can be dictated at any time and in less time. These advantages are essential because time to them is vital.

SALES ORGANIZATIONS

today who are driving for increased business, find Ediphone service invaluable. It not only gives them more time in the field, but also enables them to supplement their personal contacts with well planned correspondence that fits the prospect's problems.

SMALL OFFICES

find it is not the volume of correspondence that determines their need for Ediphone Service but the value of their time. Responsibilities frequently fall on one or two men. With Voice writing correspondence, reports, ideas are all handled as they come up or at any convenient time.

In studying the special problems of these 3893 Ediphone users we have secured many valuable ideas. Phone or write us without obligation.

FAVOR NEW TAX LEVIES TO SOLVE COUNTY PROBLEM

Attitude of Governor's Committee Indicated.

From the trend of its discussions yesterday afternoon and last night it appeared that the executive committee of the governor's revenue committee is more or less definitely committed to halt a dozen legislative recommendations for the financial relief of the Chicago and Cook county taxpayer.

Although no announcements will be made for a few days, these additions and changes in the law seem to represent the views of a number of members of the committee:

1. A revision of the county taxing machinery which would probably include the substitution of one assessor for the present board of five.
2. A state income tax.
3. A sales tax, not general, but likely to include luxuries and tobacco.
4. Limited bond issues for those taxing bodies worse stricken than others.

A Cook County Gas Tax.

It is one cent gasoline tax for Cook county for the especial benefit of the board of county commissioners.

The last suggestion first came to light last night during the questioning of Dennett Whealan, president of the county board, at the session of the governor's investigating group at the Union League club. It was made by Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago, North Western railway and one of the committee's most active members. While there was no indication that either of his colleagues favor the plan, no objections were made.

Two of the important planks in the financial program, which are designed to find sources of revenue—the income tax and the sales tax—were recommended during the afternoon by representatives of the school teachers' organizations. Four of their number addressed the committee, the principal talk coming from Robert C. Moore of Springfield, secretary of the Illinois State Teachers' association.

Urges State Income Levy.

"No matter what we say, Illinois must come to an income tax," he said. "Why not now? There must also be heavy taxes, but the teachers do not favor a general sales tax."

Miss Agnes S. Clobesy, president of the Chicago Elementary Teachers' union; Miss Dorothy Well, president of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, and James A. Meade, president of the Men Teachers' union, also spoke. Mr. Meade voiced a belief that pressure was being brought to bear for a reduction in teachers' salaries. Mr. Sargent remarked:

"It seems to me that the teachers are grossly underpaid. Their salaries should be increased rather than cut."

Earlier in the afternoon, J. J. Spain of the school engineers' union and W. McFettridge of the school janitors' union appeared, to present, they said, proof that their members work hard at their jobs, are not overpaid and are loyal to the schools even in the present crisis. Mr. McFettridge said the janitors work fourteen or fifteen hours a day and don't average $115 a month each.

On Wage Reduction.

Mr. Spain gave the scale for the engineers as from $3,600 to $5,640 annually. At one point in his questioning, Mr. Sargent asked Mr. Spain:

"Don't you think that in this crisis, the like of which has never been seen before in the entire economic history of the world, we might take a chapter from the book of Ramsay McDonald and everybody do just a little to help? What some of us have felt is that the wages might be scaled down temporarily all along the line. There is no money to pay the teachers, nor to pay you. Wouldn't you receive that approach in a friendly way?"

Mr. Spain replied that his members didn't favor a wage reduction, but that he believed that if there was a deficit at the end of the year, they might favor donating their time without pay to make it up.

Differ on Salary Question.

"There is not a unanimous agreement in this committee as to wage and salary cuts," observed Victor A. Olander, secretary and treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor and a member of the commission.

"But don't you think," challenged Mr. Sargent, "that if one dollar is available, two men should be paid fifty cents each rather than pay all of the dollar to one man?"

"That sounds enticing," replied Mr. Olander, "but if the United States had followed that all the way through, I fear there wouldn't be a United States."

Mr. Whealan and Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, told the commission that the county needed $11,000,000 to pay all its debts. Mr. Sargent asked if either of them had calculated how much revenue might be obtained if the gas tax were applied and Mr. O'Connor estimated that it would probably yield $5,000,000 annually.

Threat Against Teacher Reveals Impersonation

Left to right: Judge J. William Brooks of the Boys' court, Daniel Altier, who impersonated his brother in high school to win credits which would admit the brother to university and threatened to beat up his teacher when he failed to get the credits; Rocco Altier, the brother, who didn't want to give up his job to attend school and permitted brother to attend in his place; Mrs. Anastasia Springer, the teacher, and Attorney James Cronin. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

YOUTH FLUNKS OUT IN PLOT TO "PASS" BROTHER

Threatens Teacher and All Is Exposed.

A story of brothery love that went awry was unfolded yesterday in the Boys' court. Daniel Altier, 17 years old, 1113 Vernon Park place, was arraigned in the court on a charge of threatening a teacher in the Crane Technical high school after he had failed in a summer course in geometry.

"My brother, Rocco, needed credit in the course to enroll in the University of Illinois this fall," Daniel told Judge J. William Brooks. "He had a job and our folks need the money he earned so he couldn't attend summer school. I told him I would go under his name and he would get the credit."

Rocco Pleads for Brother.

Rocco, who is 19 years old, confirmed his brother's testimony. "He only tried to help me, judge," Rocco said, pleading for his brother.

The teacher, Mrs. Anastasia Springer, 25 years old, 334 South Trumbull avenue, said that on July 21, when the summer session ended, she was unable to give a geometry credit to Daniel, whom she knew as Rocco. The young man threatened "to beat her up" unless she gave him credit for the course, she said.

It All Comes Out in Court.

Mrs. Springer obtained a warrant for Rocco's arrest. When Rocco was arraigned the whole plot was exposed. The teacher said the prisoner was not the youth in her class. Daniel was arrested and both brothers were in court yesterday.

The circumstances of the case together with an apology from Daniel to Mrs. Springer led the judge to be lenient. He placed Daniel on probation for a year, adding that he would punish the youth with "a drastic sentence" if he again bothered the instructor.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS GROUP TO REWRITE CORPORATION LAWS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson late today announced the appointment of seven members who with four state senators and four members of the house of representatives, will form the commission to revise and rewrite the laws of the state, governing business corporations, authorized by the enactment of house bill 1,215 by the 57th general assembly.

Gov. Emmerson's appointments are Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Roger Sherman and Charles G. Little, Chicago; L. V. Hill, Hillsboro; Frank T. Miller, Peoria; Walter M. Provine, Taylorville, and Robert K. Welsh of Rockford. State senators appointed by Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling, are Arthur A. Huebach, Brookfield; Harold Kessinger, Aurora; George M. Maypole, Chicago, and Arthur A. Miles, Rosiclare.

House members on this commission are Representatives John P. Devine of Dixon; D. Logan Giffin, Springfield; R. V. Libonati and Arthur of Vandalia.

DECLARATION IS FILED IN SUIT OF $100,000 ON LOVE

The declaration was filed in the Waukegan Circuit court yesterday in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Harold O. Emrick, a young baker of Casey, Ill., against Earl Phillips Sedgwick, 64 years old, president of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company. Emrick was represented by Attorney Cassius Poust.

Emrick charges that Sedgwick won the affections of his wife, Mrs. Leah Ottie Emrick, 28 years old, now divorced, by accompanying her on trips to Chicago and other cities.

Governor's Board Meets on Gasoline Tax Inquiry

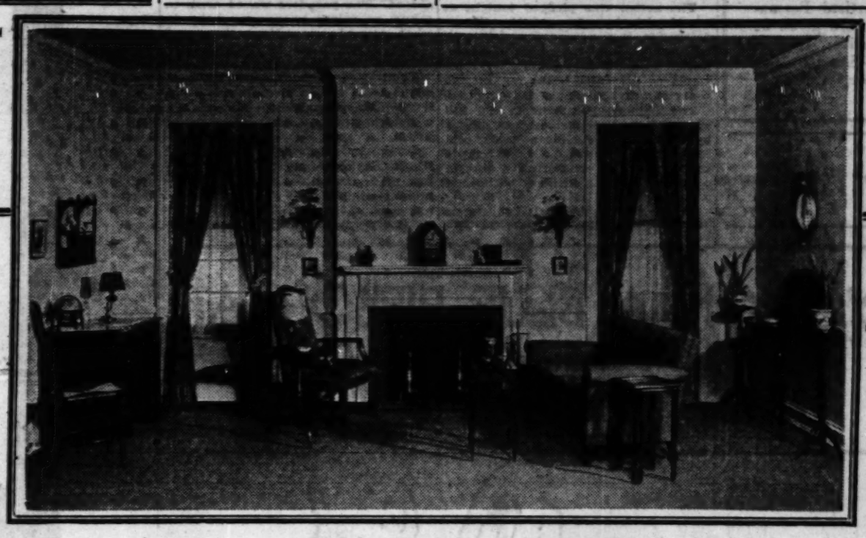
The gasoline tax investigation committee, appointed by Gov. Emmerson ten days ago, met in Chicago yesterday to formulate plans for hearings on all matters pertaining to the tax. It is expected that the committee will give the public an opportunity to testify about specific violations or evasions of the law at a meeting next week.

OLD TIME 'SQUAD RIGHT' ON SKIDS IN ARMY DRILL

High school R. O. T. C. units will exhibit a new form of close order infantry drill at Senn High school next Monday. According to Maj. Frank L. Beals, supervisor of physical education and military training in the high schools, the new formations may cause a complete revision of the army drill regulations.

"If these drills are successful," said Maj. Beals, "the old 'Squads right' will be a thing of the past. The new system is in reality not new at all, but a return to the old Roman method of moving men. It is far simpler and about three times as efficient as the modern system."

Under the new regulations, which were developed at Fort Benning, Ga., the unit of organization is formed by three ranks of eight men each, at arm's length interval from each other with a 40 inch distance between ranks. A column is formed simply by a right or left face and the marching formation may be either single or double columns of threes.



Our Decorating Studios Have Created

A "Berkeley Square" Living Room

To be Transplanted to Your Home Complete

Just count up the number of objects in this room — then look below at its price complete. And the remarkable part of it is that each piece is an example of fine period design, and the relationship of the pieces, one to the other, is the result of careful thought and study. It has a Georgian tone — might have come to life in 18th Century Berkeley Square — yet its gracious beauty will be perfectly at ease in your modern home. See it displayed in our Wabash Avenue window, and on the Sixth Floor, as well.

LEGION'S STAND ON LIQUOR LAW NEAR DECISION

Leaders Decide 'Politics' Barrier Passed.

be thrashed out at this convention. The proponents argued successfully that prohibition is no longer a political issue, but a vital problem affecting the welfare and prosperity of the entire nation.

Three Resolutions Offered.

Finally the subcommittee decided to submit three resolutions on the issue to the resolutions committee, with a recommendation that one of them be selected for presentation before the committee. These were as follows:

1. A resolution calling for immediate repeal of the 18th amendment.

2. A resolution proposing that congress modify the Volstead act to permit the manufacture and transportation of light wines and beer and its sale for consumption in homes and hotels only. This plan is patterned after the Canadian system in Ontario and Quebec, except that in Canada the sale of hard liquor is permitted.

3. A resolution memorializing the national congress to order a referendum in all the states on two questions—first, the repeal of the 18th amendment, and second, the modification of the Volstead act to legalize light wines and beer.

May Be Minority Report.

These resolutions will be considered by the resolutions committee tomorrow morning. It is believed the debate in that committee will delay the matter so that it cannot be taken before the convention before Thursday. It is possible that the resolutions committee will vote down all the proposed resolutions, but in this event a minority report will be submitted on the floor of the convention.

The action was pledged tonight at an 11 o'clock caucus of the Illinois delegation, it was learned, and Illinois' representative on the resolutions committee promised that a minority report would be presented if the majority of the committee defeated the proposal.

The Legionnaires, now in the full swing of the practical demonstrations by which they exhibit a frank contempt for the Volstead act, have made their occupation of Detroit a sort of combination of an artillery battle and a grand soiree.

In the principal hotel bootleggers go up and down the corridors banging on doors and offering their wares. A number of bootleggers exhibit large buttons on which appears the notice: "Department aides committee—special service—Detroit—1931," and in the center of the button is the official Legion emblem. One of these bootleggers announced that he had been given the button by the convention officials, and that all bootleggers wearing such buttons are certified sources of supply, guaranteed to furnish good liquor at fair prices.

A motor vehicle built in the shape of a locomotive, brought here by a Chicago delegation, made so many trips back and forth between Detroit and Windsor that the customs officers finally waved it by without requiring a stop.

Half Million See Parade.

Today the Legion gave Detroit the greatest and most colorful parade in its history. Registration figures showed 50,000 Legionnaires participated while a sweltering cheering throng estimated at fully a half million jammed the line of march. Many spectators and some marchers collapsed under the blistering sun, the temperature reaching 81 at 2 p. m. The victims mostly were women. Two children were trampled, but not seriously hurt.

Starting at 11 a. m. at Grand boulevard and Jefferson avenue, the parade required more than five hours to move through the downtown section. In the reviewing stand were Commander Ralph T. O'Neil and a number of distinguished guests from home and abroad. The paraders waved arms in salute as colors were carried by in what seemed an endless picture of divisions snapping to the military greeting.

There was a continuous blare of music from 200 or more bands.

The Illinois marchers were led by a detachment of Chicago motorcycle police.

Portland, Ore., probably will get next year's Legion convention. The time and place committee voted to recommend that city. The choice was without opposition in the committee.

JUSTICE FISHER SAYS DRY LAW IS SOURCE OF CRIME

Prohibition is the chief cause of crime in the United States, members of the Illinois Women's Democratic club were told yesterday at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman by Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court.

"Some of our troubles are due, of course, to inadequate policing and to the heterogeneous character of our states," said the jurist, "but it is the profits of the liquor business that make crime worthwhile. In 1920 there were 4,000 men in state penal institutions in Illinois; now, after eleven years of prohibition, there are 10,000."

WINDSOR POLICE ASKED TO MUFFLE LEGION CORKS

Told to Prevent Pulling of Them in Public.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—While the Ontario liquor board sat in solemn session today considering "the situation" and Ontario's professional drys were publicly and privately whispering of "orgies" of public drinking on the part of American Legionnaires, Windsor's grizzled police sergeant, James Jones, smilingly assured the press that the Legionnaires "are a fine bunch of boys. They aren't giving us any trouble at all."

It does seem, apparently, that the lid has been taken off for the Legionnaires in Windsor in respect, for instance, of public drinking, and it is this feature which caused today's hurried Toronto conclave between Sir Henry Drayton, Ontario liquor board chief, and his fellow commissioners.

Provincial Police Sent.

The result of this conference was a phone order to Windsor provincial police to take necessary steps to prevent public pulling of corks. A special detachment of provincial police was despatched to Windsor at the opening of the Detroit convention to take care of any situation.

More than twenty thousand of the American Legion delegates, it is estimated, came to Windsor Monday, overlooking the presence of President Hoover on the other side of the river, and about half of the Legionnaires, it is said, took out liquor permits. They and their comrades who shared the benefits of the permits spent more than one hundred thousand of good American dollars in Windsor's "beverage shops," which were specially manned in readiness for the invasion. Permits were being written out simultaneously at ten Windsor centers.

Long before ten o'clock Monday, when the liquor and beer stores opened, until eight o'clock closing time, there was a long line of Legionnaires waiting to be served. The intersection of Goyeau and Wyandotte streets was so congested between six and eight that five traffic officers were assigned to regulate the lines of thirsty veterans. Hundreds of disappointed customers were turned away.

Ontario drys, notably R. S. Redd, president Ontario Prohibition union, are out tonight with statements that it would be more hospitable to the American veterans to close up Windsor's liquor emporiums during their Detroit convention.

At Toronto tonight Premier George Henry of Ontario characterised as a "gross exaggeration" a four hundred word telegraphed protest from the Rev. Ben H. Spencer, a well known Ontario dry, declaring Ontario to have been "disgraced by the way in which the Ontario liquor control board is putting the bottle to her neighbor's lips and making him drunken." Spencer charged wholesale drunkenness among America's legionnaires and said their celebrations "turned Windsor into a city of a thousand bar rooms."

Attorney General Price tonight telephoned a dozen prominent Windsor citizens asking for admissions of what had transpired on Windsor streets and was informed that while there was some drunkeness, the crowds were orderly "and there was nothing to complain about."

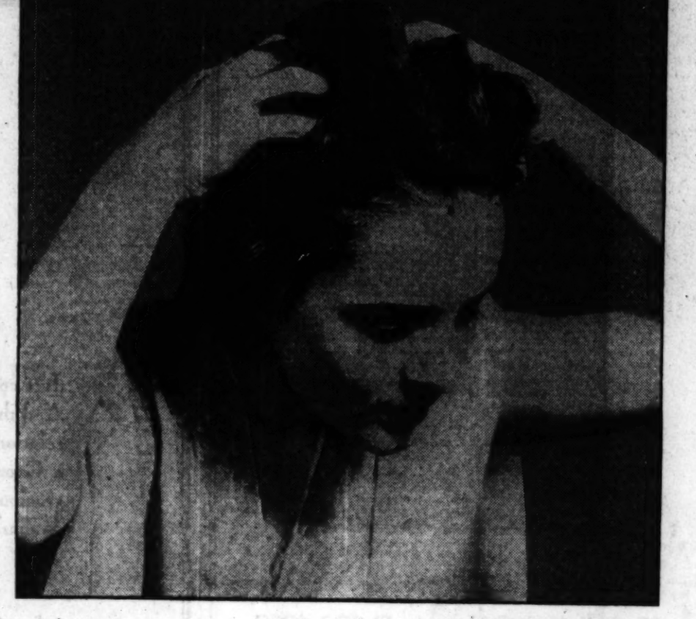
DANDRUFF



Use It Once A Week

WHENEVER you wash your hair—and most people do it once a week—douse full strength Listerine on the scalp either before or after the rinse. Then massage the scalp and hair vigorously for several minutes.

You will be simply delighted by the wonderful feeling of cleanness and exhilaration that follows this refreshing treatment.

Moreover, it is unquestionably one of the best treatments for loose dandruff—for preventing it, and for overcoming it once it has started. Many hundreds of women have told us that since making Listerine a part of the weekly shampoo, their scalp feels better, their hair looks more attractive, and they are never troubled with loose dandruff. Of course, if dandruff does get a start, it will be necessary to repeat the Listerine treatment systematically for several days, using a little olive oil in conjunction with it if the scalp and hair are excessively dry.

Listerine removes and dissolves the dandruff particles and heals and soothes the scalp. Also, if infection is present—and most dermatologists define dandruff as a germ infection—Listerine immediately combats it.

Incidentally after a shampoo when the hair is unruly there is nothing like Listerine to make it set nicely. The same applies to a finger wave.

AWARD ACTRESS 6 CENTS DAMAGE AGAINST RAILWAY

Also Wins Full Title to Disputed Land.

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Margaret Mayo, playwright and actress and former wife of Edgar Selwyn, won a suit today from the New York Central railroad in a series of actions, in one of which she was awarded 6 cents. In another she won the several thousand square feet of land which had been before the courts since June, 1929.

Miss Mayo has had a long career as actress and dramatist. She wrote "Polly of the Circus" and "Twin Beds." When she first brought suit she claimed that certain lands belonging to her estate had been appropriated by Carrie, John, and Harry Sherwood and by the railroad.

She said that the land was hers through letters of patent granted to Stephanus van Cortlandt in 1697, which created the manor of Van Cortlandt, including ten miles along the Hudson river and extending to Connecticut. The Mayo estate, she said, formed part of that land grant. The New York Central denied there was an unbroken claim to title.

Much of the property under dispute is tidewater land and is under water during most of the year. The first action gives to Miss Mayo 2,600 square feet and the second awards her 2,800 square feet. In her suit for damages against the New York Central Miss Mayo was awarded 6 cents by Supreme Court Justice Paul Close of White Plains.

The land awarded to Miss Mayo does not include the New York Central's tracks, but in the event that the railroad desires at a future date to build more tracks in Harmon it will have to take the matter up with Miss Mayo.

JUDGES TURN LOOSE ALL DEFENDANTS IN NO-WARRANT RAIDS

Municipal court judges yesterday continued to dismiss defendants in gambling and vice cases when police admitted they had made the arrests without first obtaining search warrants. All such defendants arraigned before Judge Robert E. McMillan in the South Wabash avenue court were thus dismissed.

Judge Howard Hayes in the Pekin Inn court discharged Philip Levy and twelve other men arrested at 2309 South State street. The police had raided the place and seized racing sheets and other betting equipment but admitted that they had no search warrant.

Sitting in the Morals court in the morning, Judge Hayes continued his policy of fining incorrigible women from $1 to $50. To women forced into the streets to avoid starvation, he gave another chance. Charges of pandering against Claudia Woods, owner of a resort at 3240 South Michigan avenue, were continued to Sept. 29 on her plea that her lawyer was not in the city.

BOY STEALS AUTO, MANGLES DRIVER IN DOUBLE CRASH

A 14 years old boy stole an automobile last evening, drove it into a motor truck at Racine and Washburn avenues, and then crashed into another car. William Feinberg, 21 years old, 1820 Hastings street, the truck driver, was so seriously mangled that it was necessary to amputate one of his legs at the County hospital. The boy, Thomas Trimarco, 826 South Loomis street, was captured by the owner of the stolen car. He is being held by the Maxwell police.

The stolen sedan was taken from Racine avenue and Harrison street, and Edward Zelak, 4221 West 21st street, its owner, saw the boy drive away. Commandeering a passing car he followed and was close at hand when the boy smashed into Feinberg's truck and then into a small sedan.

JAPAN TO BUILD RAILWAY FROM RUSSIA TO INDIA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Establishment of a direct railway connection between Russia and India, a move Great Britain has long feared, is about to become a reality. This was learned in London today. Agreements have been signed at Teheran, Persia, between Afghanistan, Persia and Japanese financiers for spanning Afghanistan with a railroad from the Russian frontier at Tolatan to Abdulahi, near Quetta, on the British Indian border.

Russia will supply the rails but Japanese engineers will do the work. They will also begin construction of a Persian railroad to link the gulf port of Bundar Abbas with the Afghanistan system.

It is understood a memorandum is to be submitted to Prime Minister MacDonald on behalf of colonial officials which will outline what they call a new Russian menace.

Persia and Afghanistan, largely through the intervention of Russia, have agreed to a customs union whereby Persian ports will be available for Afghanistan's imports and exports. These hitherto have been sent through Khyber pass and Karachi, India. Thus, Afghanistan ceases to be landlocked.

Japan benefits greatly by the deal and is understood to be getting $20,000,000 worth of mining and electrification concessions from Afghanistan. The first Afghanistan freight going out to Persian ports is to be carried by Japan.

The menace to India is held to be considerable. Hitherto Britain has forbidden any railroad to approach from Russia through Afghanistan. In the event of a combined Russian-Afghanistan attack, it has been held, Britain would be at a distinct disadvantage.

The Quetta district is also near Tashkent, the world's largest airdrome, owned by the soviets.

SUSPECTS GALORE IN COLLINGS CASE, BUT NO ARRESTS

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Possible solution, or at least new speculations, in the slaying of Benjamin P. Collings of Long Island sound nearly two weeks ago appeared tonight in paradoxical announcements from the prosecutor of Suffolk county.

FELIX DI MARTINI

District Attorney Alexander G. Blue said he was on the track of two suspects who "did not know" the Collings family but who were "tangled up" with the family. He would give no explanation of his statement.

Blue's new "lead" popped up on top of the remains of another "lead" in which many telephone calls to Wilmington, Del., finally established that two suspects held there did not fit the descriptions furnished by Mrs. Collings of the men whom she said threw her husband overboard and abducted her.

Detective Felix de Martini, engaged as a special investigator, worked today on the basis of Mrs. Collings' story as she told it to him yesterday.

Decision on Serritella Plea to Be Given Today

After Assistant State's Attorney Harold M. Keele had objected to a further delay, Judge John Prystalski, in the Criminal court, yesterday postponed until tomorrow the hearing of Dan Serritella, former city sealer, under an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud the public by permitting merchants to use short weights. Miles J. Devine, defense attorney, had asked that the case be sent to Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher for reassignment.

RAID DISCLOSES NATIONAL CHAIN OF LOAN SHARKS

Manager Here Denies He Knows the Owner.

The racket bureau of the state's attorney's office last night raided the Chicago office of what is believed to be a national string of illegal loan banks, who charge 240 per cent interest on small loans. One man and two women were arrested and another man is sought.

Norman Hoshell, 47 years old, 7719 South Seeley avenue, was seized as the manager. He was released on a cash bond of $1,000 to appear in the Chicago avenue court this morning charged with violation of the small loans act. The two women, released after questioning, are Mrs. Helen Beam, 215 West Oak street, and Miss Helen Janklow, 81 West Van Buren street. Both are employés and will appear as witnesses. Police are seeking Fred Jaskin, 120 East 20th street, another employé.

Denies He Knows Owner.

Hoshell told Assistant State's Attorneys Edwin Duffiey and Donald Thompson that he did not know who owned the bank and had never seen him. Every week the proceeds are sent to P. E. Leak, post office box 2054, Atlanta, Ga., Hoshell said.

Once a month an auditor visits the offices and no record is kept of accounts that have been paid, according to Haskell. He said he did not know to whom the auditor made his reports. All office expenses are deducted from income and are approved by the auditor. Hoshell said he was hired by his predecessor, J. Frank Lindsay, six years ago. According to the prosecutors Leak is a wealthy Atlanta attorney.

Hoshell denied that the bank was a loan company. He said their business was to purchase wage assignments. He said they paid $15 for a wage assignment of $16.50 to be repaid in two weeks or less, depending on the next pay day of the maker of the note. Other sums, from $5 to $25, are loaned on the same ratio.

Report Officers as Busy.

A warrant for Hoshell's arrest was obtained on the complaint of Joseph Gallagher, 5108 South May street, after Sergt. John Walsh had been denied admittance to the offices at 81 West Van Buren street. The place was running as Daniel & Co., and police reported many waiting to apply for loans.

Seven witnesses are to appear against Hoshell. Prosecutor Thompson said he will ask a continuance to permit further investigation.

Examinations of the records seized is to start this morning to seek if evidence warrants grand jury action. An investigation of Leak's affairs is to be made, the prosecutors said.

Seek to Identify Owner.

"Such loaning of money at exorbitant rates of interest to small borrowers is really a mild form of extortion," Prosecutor Thompson declared. "By conducting such a business in another state many of the operators have been safe from arrest. If there is any possible method of obtaining the names of the heads of the Daniel company we will do all possible to bring them here for trial."

The seven complainants against the Daniel company said they had continued to pay the exorbitant interest through fear of losing their jobs. All were employed by express and transportation companies having a rule providing for discharge of any employé involved in an assignment action.

IGOE PREDICTS HE'LL WIN IN GOVERNOR RACE

Speaking last night before an audience of several hundred in the Piazza hall at Harvey, State Representative Michael L. Igoe declared that he expected to receive the Democratic nomination for governor in the primary next April and to win the office against any candidate the Republicans might name.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Harvey Mike Igoe for Governor club.

Mr. Igoe has been elected to the Illinois house of representatives eight times since 1912. He was the Democratic floor leader at the last session. He is also a member of the Democratic national committee and has been a member of the south park board since 1924. In 1915 and 1916 he was an assistant United States district attorney.

HUNT EVIDENCE OF HIDDEN LOOT IN WOLF INQUIRY

Questioning of Walter E. Wolf, to determine whether he held any of the $3,666,929 which he embezzled from the Continental Illinois bank separate from his disastrous stock operations, and hid it away, will be taken up again today by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers.

WALTER WOLF.

Wolf was turned over to the state's attorney's office on Monday, after having been a voluntary prisoner of the employers for a month while they took his statements and completed an audit of the securities in the coupon department of the bank, of which he was the manager, at a salary of $75 a week.

Compared with Records.

Since Wolf's surrender, Prosecutor Ayers has been making a painstaking comparison of his statement to the bank officials with the bank records, which were also delivered to State's Attorney Swanson on Monday. Throughout his previous questioning Wolf maintained that the huge sums he embezzled all went into his fruitless deals on the stock market, and that during that period he lived within his salary.

Indictment of Wolf will be sought within two or three days, State's Attorney Swanson said. Wolf will not be taken before the grand jury unless other persons than himself are found to have been involved criminally, Mr. Swanson said.

The prosecutors plan to ask a number of indictments, probably ten, charging him with embezzlement. They will ask in the event of a plea or finding of guilty that the sentences under some of the indictments be made to run consecutively, instead of concurrently, as is the general practice with multiple sentences of a defendant.

In that way Wolf's prison term, one to ten years for embezzlement, would be extended to a much longer period before he would be eligible for parole.

NEW OIL BURNER harnesses RADIANT HEAT

Your own boiler was designed to take advantage of radiant heat. Nearly 50% of all the heat your boiler generates comes from the luminous radiance of the flame itself. That's what this new Petro-Nokol gives you...ideal, radiant heat that saves fuel. And for further economy...this flame is located right at the grate level...where it belongs...where the coldest water absorbs the maximum of heat.

At 60 miles an hour...through two panes of glass ...on the coldest day, you can feel the radiant heat from a bonfire 50 feet from the truck! You can't see it or smell it. It's just pure heat rays. The new Petro-Nokol puts it to work in your boiler.

First time ever accomplished by any oil burner selling as low as

Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil

The ideal form of heat...is radiant heat! The same intense heat you feel from the summer sun. It is just pure heat rays. No smoke. No odor. No sound. To harness these clean, silent, radiant heat rays and put them to work in your own boiler with the new Petro-Nokol Rotary Oil Burner is the supreme achievement of the world's oldest and largest oil heating organization.

OIL HEAT COSTS DROP STILL FURTHER

Now...at the lowest prices in oil burner history, the cost of heating homes with oil is reduced even further below the cost of heating with other fuels. And this new low-cost oil heat is assured for a generation at least, due to the world-wide overwhelming surplus of oil. In many cases, this new saving over other fuels pays the whole cost of the oil burner installation in a few years!

SAVE ON DOMESTIC HOT WATER, TOO

While you are heating your home for less than with other fuels, you can also enjoy all the domestic hot water for bath and kitchen you can use. Winter and summer. As hot as you want it...at a lower cost than with any other automatic system. A special heating element which operates with the Petro-Nokol makes this possible.

You will want to see this new Radiant Rotary Oil Burner...that surpasses in economy, simplicity and quietness last year's model that broke all sales records. With all its new advantages...the price remains the same...$295. And a $25 deposit starts it working in your heating plant...saving you money...giving you new, undreamed of comfort...and complete relief from all care of your heating plant. Be sure to see it today!

$295 is the price of a complete installation (without tank) for a small house. The size, type and cost of an efficient oil burner installation varies just as greatly as the type, size and cost of heating plants and the houses themselves. We have thousands of our automatic oil burners in various size houses installed completely with tank for as low as $390—$450—$525—$675 (depending upon requirements) and on up to a recent commercial installation amounting to $55,000. All approved by leading safety underwriters.

Our new Petro Automatic Boiler for oil or gas has the burner sealed and concealed inside a beautiful cabinet—in a variety of rich colors, as automatic and service-free as a modern refrigerator. Saves ½ to ⅔ on fuel. See it today!

$25 THRIFT DEPOSIT
puts a new oil burner in your home.

WE EVEN SUPPLY THE OIL

By supplying both the oil burners and the fuel oil, our responsibility to you is undivided. This assures you of the right oil for your burner and the right burner for your home.

Our fleets of fast, modern trucks deliver oil on a day and night schedule. See your Petro-Nokol dealer today for complete oil heating service.

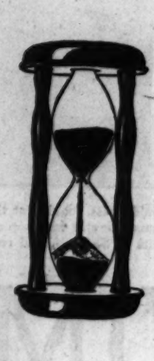
No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it FRESH ALWAYS!

Critics marvel at aroma and flavor of Hills Bros Coffee



As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time.

Matchless flavor produced by Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros' patented, continuous process

Rare blend is roasted evenly, continuously, a little at a time

Critical people everywhere, who have tried Hills Bros. Coffee, buy it again and again. For no other coffee is more dependable! Today, next month, next year . . . Hills Bros. Coffee tastes the same . . . mellow, smooth, refreshing!

Controlled Roasting does it! Instead of roasting in bulk, Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . evenly, continuously, by Controlled Roasting. This patented, automatic process doesn't permit any underdone or overdone berries to pass from the roasters, to the grinders, to the vacuum cans—to you!

Remember, Hills Bros.' cans are vacuum packed. That is important to you! Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. comes to you in its full flavor, always!

Words could never describe the delight you will find in Hills Bros. Coffee. You have to sip a fragrant, steaming cupful. Then, and then only, will you know what an improvement Controlled Roasting is over ordinary, bulk methods! Order Hills Bros. Coffee by name. Look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

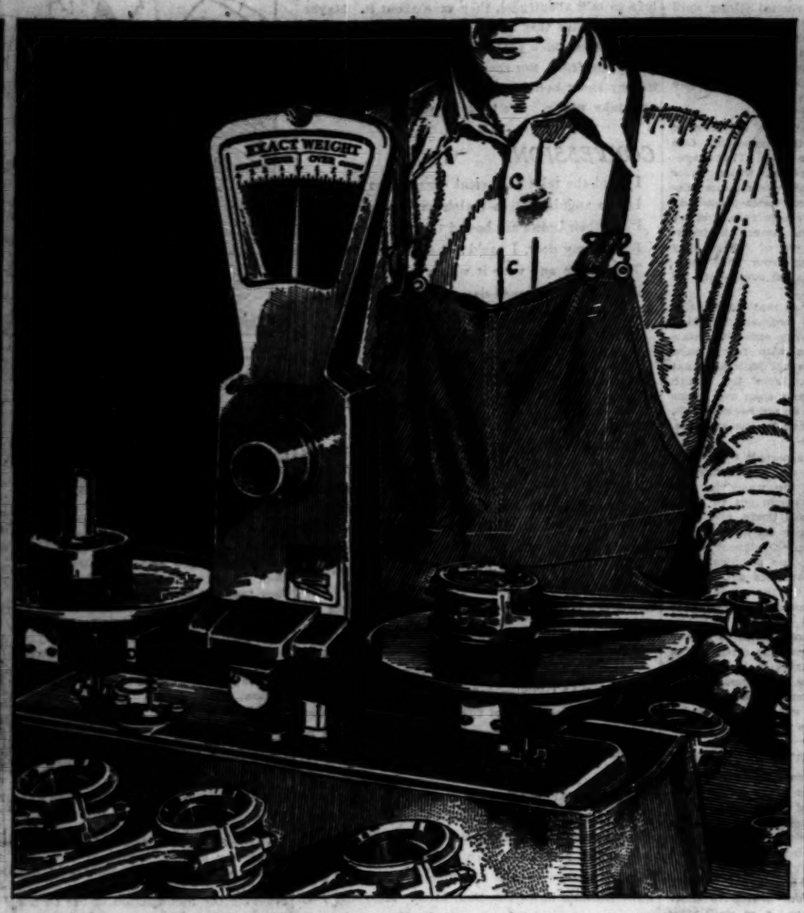
Possessing the basic goodness of sound design and fine manufacture

To achieve perfect fly-wheel balance, Chevrolet utilizes a special micrometer to hold every inch of the fly-wheel to a uniform thickness.



Chevrolet connecting rods are matched in sets of six to within one-quarter ounce, and are individually fitted by hand to the crankshaft. Bearings are of Babbitt metal cast into the rods under heavy air pressure and at 800 degrees Fahrenheit.

Chevrolet pistons are weighed individually, matched in sets of six to within one-half ounce, and fitted by hand to three one-thousandths of an inch clearance. Piston pins are individually tested for size on special micrometer gauges.

CHEVROLET

Countless miles of service, in the hands of several million owners, have established this fact about the Chevrolet Six: You can buy a Chevrolet and know you are getting a genuinely good automobile—soundly designed, soundly built, basically and technically right.

From the selection of raw materials to the completion of the finished product—each process of building, assembling and checking the Chevrolet Six is marked by extreme care and precision. An exhaustive system of test and inspection makes certain that every part meets specified dimensions exactly. Many of these parts are held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. Exact scientific machines, many of them developed in the General Motors Research Laboratories, minimize the possibility of human error.

No manufacturer in the motor car industry uses more care or precision in building and testing than Chevrolet. Chevrolet's twenty great factories and assembly plants, with their modern machines and precision equipment, represent an expenditure of millions of dollars. And Chevrolet considers this a good investment because it helps to safeguard the satisfaction of Chevrolet owners.

Just as every part of the car is soundly built, every feature is soundly designed. In planning the motor, Chevrolet engineers were not content to offer the public anything less than tried and proved design. They knew, as most people do today, that the only satisfactory way to get smooth, flexible power in a car is to use at least six cylinders. So they adopted the six-cylinder engine without compromise. And that is what you get in today's Chevrolet Six.

Important, too, is the fact that Chevrolet mounts the six-cylinder motor rigidly on the frame at three different points. This construction stays fixed and stable throughout the life of the car, and prevents the loosening of connections and other vital parts. Millions of miles of driving have proved the worth of this standard practice.

As a result of this sound designing and sound manufacturing, you can invest in a Chevrolet Six with full confidence of getting a genuinely good automobile! You can look forward to many seasons of dependable, economical service.

Thousands of miles, from the day of purchase, you'll be glad you chose a Chevrolet Six.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE LESSON OF THE POUND.

The act of parliament suspending the gold standard means that the product of the printing press called the pound sterling is no longer worth $4.86. What the pound is worth is something less, but how much less no one at this moment can say with any degree of certainty. On Monday pounds were bought in southern France for as little as $3.33 and elsewhere they brought as much as $4.60.

Certainly Americans will hope for a speedy financial recovery in Britain and a permanent one. If losses must be taken it is best that their full extent be known as soon as possible. If business in this country is to be disturbed by the British financial difficulties, it will be disturbed least by a prompt stabilization.

Wishes for a speedy recovery, however, ought not blind us to the fact that Great Britain's predicament grows out of a long period of overspending. Vast numbers of her population have ordered their lives in the belief that there was no bottom to the tax well. They have employed the government in taking money from those who have it and giving it to those who have not to the point where taxation has become a plain confiscation and British industry has operated under a severe handicap.

The reduction in the buying value of the pound is certain to become increasingly apparent as goods now on the shelves in England move into consumption and are replaced by new goods. The pound today is buying less raw cotton than the pound of a week ago, and in consequence cotton cloth made tomorrow will cost more, measured in pounds, than the cotton cloth of a week ago. While that increase may be tempered if wages rise more slowly than the gold value of the pound drops, it cannot be doubted that there will be an increase in prices, measured in pounds.

That means an increase in the cost of living to those whose incomes do not fluctuate with the pound. British owners of fixed income securities like government bonds will suffer, but in numbers they are relatively small and their political influence is therefore relatively negligible. The real danger to British financial stabilization comes from the vastly greater number who have been depending upon the government for their salaries, wages, doles, and pensions and who will now find that their grants will not buy as much as before. Their standard of living will be forced down precisely to the extent that prices rise, and that is likely to be considerable.

Not only will the pound buy less but the wages and doles, measured in pounds, have been decreased by recent government acts. That is a double blow aimed at enormous numbers of British subjects possessed of the franchise. They will find the change in their living standards almost unbearable. There is grave danger that they will make their political power felt and will insist upon living in future, as they have in recent years upon the accumulated capital of the nation as long as any of it remains to live upon.

Once an individual has been tempted to live beyond his income at the expense of his capital or his friends the tendency is to continue in that course as long as possible. No doubt most of the readers of these lines can recall instances of individuals who have gone that road. A nation is only an assemblage of individuals, and, to the extent that the British nation has been living off the earnings of others and of the past, it is in grave danger of falling a victim to its spendthrift habits. Only by determination to reduce government expenditures and keep them reduced can the devaluation of the pound serve to restore British solvency.

Americans are hopeful that all will turn out well. We are friendly and sympathetic to the British in their difficulties, but it is less important that we sympathize than that we profit from their example and avoid the desperate remedy which they were obliged to employ. If we are to do that we must avoid the error of governmental extravagance that has brought this catastrophe upon the British.

"I invite you," said President Hoover to the American Legion in convention at Detroit, "to study the relation of their governmental finance to the daily welfare and security of every man, woman, and child in the history of Europe during the last six months alone." That is an invitation which the American people cannot afford to decline. France has been living within its income. Britain has not. Germany has not.

If we are to avoid the fate which has overtaken Britain we must avoid the mistake. Governments, federal, state, and local, must slash their costs. While Mr. Hoover was speaking the Washington correspondents were informing the American people that the government departments were asking for larger appropriations for 1933 than their present appropriations, although the government this year is spending more than a billion dollars in excess of its income.

"Solid as the pound" and "strong as the Bank of England" were common phrases only a few years ago. Strong as our financial position appears to be today, it is no stronger than was the British position when those phrases were current. We can go the same way and we will go the same way unless we keep our government expenditures within reason.

JAPAN IN ACTION.

Owing to the inability of China to organize a strong and persistent resistance to Japanese encroachment, the crisis in Manchuria will work itself out in diplomatic negotiations which will strengthen the Japanese hold upon that rich province. There is and will be some futile fighting which were better suppressed. There will be futile appeal to the league of nations, which already is showing its familiar disposition to dodge the serious conflicts it was supposed to be created to prevent. Thus far our government has strangely but happily kept its fingers out of the fire. In the end there will be for those who respect realities a demonstration of the value of national preparedness.

Japan has taken advantage of the demoralization of Chinese affairs, as she took advantage of Russian conditions, acting with swiftness and force at a moment when Europe and America are preoccupied with their own difficulties and cannot use much pressure to restrain Japanese measures. Japan will cover her action in mollifying formulas which European governments and our own will be glad to accept and the futility of the league of nations will be hidden by the usual excuses, which our leaguists will be equally anxious to embrace. There will be a great saving of face, as the Chinese say, and Japan will emerge from the scene with the substantial profits of her military coup.

The American people will do well to look behind the façade of diplomatic pretense which our pacifists and leaguists would have us admire, as when one of our active pacifist agents, the Rev. Mr. Gulick, explained for us the altruistic purposes of the 21 demands. But the American people should draw from this incident a warning that their safety finally resides not in treaties and conventions but in the sufficiency of their military strength and in sound conditions of the nation's financial structure. At any moment that our defenses are vulnerable and the bases of our strength are shaky, Japan will not hesitate to strike, as she did at Port Arthur and Mukden, provided her estimate of benefits to be obtained from masterful action tempts her to such resort.

We are not charging Japanese statesmanship with any fixed hostility to the United States or with any peculiar ethics in international affairs. It is not unique in serving what it deems the vital interests of its own people, which are involved in serious complications. War between Japan and the United States, if it occurs, will not befall from any special belligerency of Japan or any peculiar unscrupulousness of her policy. It will occur because of the inability of the United States, through the influence of sentimental pacificism, to be ready at all times to defend its interests with its own organized strength.

Our aspirations for justice and peace will be realized only upon these terms, through our strength and not, as our pacifists would have us believe, through our weakness.

LAWS AND LAWS.

The governor of Iowa has not yet been moved to proclaim martial law, but he has turned out the National Guard to enforce obedience to the tuberculin test act. That the military should be needed or thought needed by the governor throws some light on the subject of lawlessness among our rural fellow citizens. Iowa is not so clamant in its self-righteousness as Kansas, but it is a community which strongly shares Kansas' sense of virtuous superiority over the lawless cities. Yet now we find not only disrespect for law but rebellion so serious as to induce the civil power to resort to the military to enforce obedience to a statute duly enacted by the legislature of the commonwealth and duly administered by its executive.

The embattled Iowa farmer is all against resistance to the dry laws. A citizen who thinks Volsteadism is a tyrannical invasion of his civil rights the Iowa farmer condemns on the theory that Volstead is the law. But so is the tuberculin test act a law. The Iowa farmer declares that while Volstead is the law it must be respected regardless of whether the individual citizen thinks it a good law or a just law. He does not apply that rule to himself in the case of the tuberculin test act.

Another question for the Iowa rural drys is how they expect the government to enforce a national law which something like half of the American people consider an improper and intolerable law, when the governor of Iowa is moved to resort to military force to compel obedience to a health regulation affecting one industry within the borders of one state.

Editorial of the Day

PITTSBURGH'S STRONG ARM PRIMARY.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Pittsburgh expected a "strong arm" primary, advance stories of Tuesday's voting in the steel metropolis had said. The expectations were fully realized. Rioting, kidnaping, wholesale arrests, defiance of court orders by the police were methods by which Pittsburgh expressed her political exuberance.

Cleveland and other cities which have had ballot scandals from time to have have no mandate to view the political turmoil of Pittsburgh from immaculate thrones set upon mountains of political purity. But without opening ourselves to indictment for hypocrisy we can honestly be thankful that so far we have abstained from some of the election practices tolerated in Pittsburgh.

Two facts of great interest to Cleveland emerge above the political storm clouds at the junction of the Allegheny and the Monongahela. Greater Pittsburgh suffers from an even worse case of municipalitis than does Cuyahoga. There are more than 200 governmental units in the county and in almost all of them the bosses and bosslets play lively politics. The primary gives them a chance to do their worst and apparently most of them did it. Pittsburgh used voting machines for the first time and found that in districts where the fight was close the machines shared the nervousness of the electors and became all tangled up. Which supports the fear that the most honest machine in the world may be corrupted by election officials who do not share its probity. Honest officials are more important than machines.

Happily there are thousands of Pittsburgh citizens who are anxious to give their city's politics a long overdue cleansing. A few more primaries like Tuesday's should strengthen their arm.

IS DISTILLED WATER DRINKABLE.

A. C. W. writes: Please discuss the advisability of using distilled water for drinking purposes, and its superiority over ordinary faucet water, from a therapeutic standpoint.

REPLY:

It has been several years since we had an article on this subject, but, in the meanwhile, very few facts have been added to our stock of information.

A naval surgeon advocated the drinking of distilled water, using as his argument the fact that the death rate of enlisted men in the navy from apoplexy and other high blood pressure diseases was low. His case seemed strong until somebody pointed out that the death rate from apoplexy and other high blood pressure diseases was always low among young people. Enlisted men in the navy rarely remain in the service long enough to reach the apoplexy age.

Those who advocate the drinking of distilled water have two arguments. One is that the water is safe. That argument is valid. Distilled water never transmits any of the water-borne diseases. However, in our cities practically all water supplies are now safe, and we can say the same of American drinking waters—irrespective of where they are—and not be far from the truth. Water is about the safest commodity we now have.

The next argument is that the mineral matter contained in ordinary drinking water is harmful. Very extensive trials and experimentations with fairly hard drinking waters have not indicated that they do any harm, from the health standpoint. They waste soap and cause boiler scale, but they do not harm health, as far as we can judge by the evidence.

It is sometimes asserted that hard waters are "hard on the stomach." Maybe they are, if the water is very hard. Instinct tells cattle not to drink alkali water in the bad lands, and there is a level beyond which no man can go in drinking hard water without doing himself harm. But, for practical purposes, public water supplies are physiologically harmless. On the other hand, distilled water is somewhat irritating to the stomach. Those who use it habitually because they are subject to kidney stones or for other reasons often add a little salt to their drink to prevent the water from irritating the stomach.

All things considered, the case for the use of distilled water as a regular drink for the average man is not strong.

OBJECTS TO LOUD SPEAKERS.

A Nervous Breakdown Sufferer writes: I would suggest that every owner of a radio should be taxed the same as automobile owners—in fact, heavier taxes for them. That would pay some of the expenses for supporting sanitariums and insane asylums, of which very many will be needed if something is not done in the near future to put a stop to those continuous noises from 8 a. m. until after midnight. How can people get rest, working all day under a dreadful strain, after arising at 6 a. m., and then return home to houses full of radio noises—one trying to exceed the other in loudness? Windows and doors are opened all around.

Why doesn't the department of health do something so that one neighbor should not be allowed to annoy another? If this keeps on much longer I am sure that some of those skyscraper office buildings will have to be turned into insane asylums. In addition, there is no consideration used for the invalids in many homes, who need absolute rest and quiet.

MARRIAGE EVASIONS LAW.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A's wife was granted a divorce in the state of Massachusetts two years ago. A has lived in the state of Illinois for the past five years. Six months after the divorce was granted A remarried in Illinois. Is A's marriage valid, inasmuch as the law of Massachusetts, where the divorce was granted, requires the libelee in the suit to wait two years before remarrying? Does A have to go through marriage ceremony to make his second marriage valid?

F. S. B.

The uniform marriage evasion law is in force in Illinois and it has substantially the effect of making the prohibitions of the state in which a person resides effective as to a marriage here. This would mean that if A resided in Massachusetts and intended to continue to reside there his Illinois marriage would be invalid. If, at the time of the marriage, A was a genuine resident of Illinois and intended to continue to reside here we would incline to the opinion that the marriage was valid, but since future proof of these facts might be difficult it would seem the wisest course to celebrate a new marriage after the expiration of the Massachusetts two year period.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

RAIN GUTTERS.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if something could be done about the people residing to the north of me. Ever since having their home remodeled they have failed to put drain pipes on their home. When it rains all the water gushes down on the walk of the next home and goes on into the basement. In the winter the icicles drop and can easily injure any person passing over the walk. I would appreciate it if you could do something about this matter. J. W.

You are advised that, due to a former complaint, the following notice was served on the owner: "Provide rain gutter and downspout, properly connected to sewer, for north side of building." This matter will be followed up until compliance with the foregoing order has been obtained.

HERMAN N. BUNDESEN,

DEPORTATION.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. May an alien be deported for begging? 2. May an alien be deported for asking aid from any charity such as lodging in one of the houses operated by the Salvation Army? 3. How can I get a duplicate of my army discharge papers which I lost by fire? P. J.

1 and 2. No.

3. Take the matter up with the veterans' department, Hines, Ill.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

EVERYBODY'S TALKING about England, giving gold a kick in the pants. But, after all, who's got a gold dollar in his pocket? Don't all speak at once. And how many of you get your pay in gold or ever did get your pay in gold? Or when you paid the grocer, the butcher and the iceman how many of you paid in gold? Nobody! After all, about the only gold we ever saw was when we grinned wide into the looking glass and saw the gold the dentist had put into the holes in our back or front teeth. Or when we clubbed in and bought the boss a gold watch. Anyhow the jeweler called it a gold watch, but if the boss ever tried to hock it he would be in luck if he got five berries on it. Or in the days long ago when you used to give somebody a gold headed cane. And of course there's the gold fish; and then there were the gold bricks that the kind-hearted philanthropists used to sell to people who had just come in from Jasper county. No, while we all got pretty excited over England's giving gold the bum's rush, after all, when we cool down and think it over, gold hasn't such a great place in our lives. About the only people who are going to be hit hard because gold has been pushed off its throne are the poets. Poets love to talk about gold, they rave about it. Maybe that's because they never saw any. England can go ahead and kick gold all over the place so far as we're concerned, but they can't make us mad. But if they shoot holes in dollar bills then we'll sit up and take notice. We've got one of those things.

CONFESSION.

I mind the tales of ancient queens who wore
Love's anguish like a matchless diadem
Upon their brows nor bowed their lovely heads;
But oh, my dear, I could not share with them
That crown and wear it with a splendid pride
If you some darkened day should leave my side.
I fear, bereft of that which is my breath,
I should become a beggared ghost instead
And through my length of days could not be sure
Which one of us still lived, which one was dead.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

"WE WANT BEER!" shouted the American Legion at Detroit after Mr. Hoover had concluded his speech. And soon afterwards the customs people took away over two thousand five hundred bottles of beer, champagne and whisky from veterans returning across the river from Canada. All of which makes us deeply interested in what the vets will do when the expected resolution against the sacred eighteenth is brought before the convention. They will probably—but wait, Laura, let us wait and see.

SOME BANDITS raided a Chicago fur store yesterday and stole a lot of fur coats and other winter clothing. Which we would say was the zenith of optimism.

WHAT HAPPENS when you won't recognize a divorce? Jack Dempsey gets himself a nice A1 guaranteed dyed in the wool hand-made Reno divorce, and Mrs. Jack Dempsey says she will not recognize same even if she meets it in broad daylight walking down the Boul Mich. Marriages, we always understood, are made in heaven, but divorces are manufactured everywhere and the Reno brand seems the most popular article on the market today. But if one-half of a married pair insists he is divorced and the other half says not at all, we're married, then what to do? What to do?

They're Tough Babies Down There in West Virginia.

(Glimpsed by E. B. B. in the W-G-N.)

CLARKSBURG, W. Va.—[Special.]—A mob of 10,000 men surrounded the Harrison county jail here late last night in an attempt to lynch Harry F. Powers, Bluebeard murderer. A dynamite bomb was exploded by the would-be lynchers. No one was hurt, although one rioter was slugged unconscious by a policeman and several others were seized.

"WAS SURPRISED and deeply pained," moans Roy Murray, "at your recommending people to carry a raw potato around in the hip pocket to ward off rheumatism. A raw potato will do nothing of the kind and besides with the hip flask taking up all the space there is no room in the hip pocket for potatoes, raw, fried or baked. The only sure cure for rheumatism is the buckeye. You can carry it in any pocket or put a string through it and wear it around your neck. A buckeye will cure rheumatism without fail." We thought somebody would bob up with that old buckeye thing. Just the same, we're hanging on to our raw potato. We know a man who's carried one all summer and he hasn't had the rheumatism yet. That ought to prove it.

OLD BEN COHEN met us in the hall yesterday, you know how hot it was, and he sez, sezze: "You otto come into the art department oftener, honest we say the funniest things in there, you'd jest split your sides laffin' and you'd get enough to fill the column before a jackrabbit could get across the street. Now ferexampel, but wait, sew your buttons on, lissen, a minute ago and one of the art fellers looked up and he sez: 'Well, speakin' of the news from India, what is sauce for the goose, is sauce for the Gandhi.' Howszat?" Gosh, we just laffed and laffed.

WHEN THE COPS ARE AWAY

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 23, 1915.

LONDON.—A French aerial squadron raided Stuttgart, capital of the kingdom of Württemberg, and according to reports dropped 100 bombs on the royal palace and the railway station. A report from Berlin says that four persons were killed and "a number of civilians and soldiers" wounded. It adds that "the material damage was quite unimportant." The raiders also dropped bombs on towns and villages passed in the trip to Stuttgart from the French lines and on the return.

LONDON.—The Balkan situation holds the center of interest in Europe. Out of the mass of conflicting rumors these facts stand forth: German and Austrian artillery are bombarding every position of military value along the northern boundary of Serbia; Bulgaria has mobilized its entire army, but the foreign minister announced that the Sofia government had pledged to neither side; and that at the conclusion of a conference between King Constantine and his cabinet a decree ordering the mobilization of the Greek army on the Bulgarian frontier was signed. Serbia has demanded an immediate explanation of the massing of Bulgarian troops on its borders. The Bulgarian army is already on the move.

CHICAGO.—Tinker's Chicago Whales of the Federal league battled the Newark Peppers fifteen rounds to a 4 to 4 tie, when darkness ended the game. Mike Prendergast, the "iron man," went the full fifteen rounds in the box for the Whales. Ed Reulbach for the Peppers gave way to Kaiserling in the thirteenth inning.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 23, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Seven thousand men and women crowded into the Coliseum last night to listen to words of praise for President McKinley and denunciation of the teachings which make possible the assassination of heads of organized governments. The principal speaker of the evening was Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver of Iowa. Other speakers were Edgar A. Bancroft, Samuel Alschuler, P. H. O'Donnell, and the Rev. T. E. Cox. Senator Dolliver's address dealt largely with anarchy and the cures for it that must be enacted. In an afternoon meeting at the Coliseum Senator Mason and Gov. Yates spoke to 5,000 persons. Both urged death penalties for Reds whose teachings cause murder.

CHICAGO.—John Alexander Dowie and 200 of his Chicago followers carried war into the stronghold of Methodism yesterday [Sunday] when Dowie preached his first "sermon" in his new temple in Evanston. Expected trouble materialized. "The people of Evanston are pig eaters; they are anarchists!" shouted Dowie, who for nearly two hours heaped bitter abuse on the residents of the town. "Gag him!" and "Get a rope!" were among the cries that greeted his talk. Two men were arrested.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 23, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—During this afternoon there were signs that the body of President Garfield had commenced to decompose, and it being understood in such event that it was the wish of Mrs. Garfield that the features of her husband should be free from public gaze, the lid of the coffin was closed by order of Secretary Blaine at 6:30 o'clock. Notwithstanding this, the crowds which passed through the rotunda of the capitol remained undiminished. It is estimated that from 7 o'clock this morning 80,000 persons visited the capitol. The funeral services will take place tomorrow [Saturday] at 3 p. m. in the rotunda, where the body will remain until taken to the train. The Rev. Mr. Power of the Christian church will officiate. After the services the remains will be taken to the hearse and thence to the Baltimore and Potomac railroad depot, where the same train that brought them from Long Branch will convey them to Cleveland for final burial. An immense basket of flowers was presented by the queen of Great Britain.

WASHINGTON.—The formal induction of President Chester A. Arthur to office took place at noon in the Vice President's room at the capitol. He took his second oath of office, which was administered by Chief Justice Waite of the United States Supreme court.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—The letter which appeared in the Voice of the People some time ago commenting on the five dollar memorials for war veterans prompts me to ask leave to present the full story regarding these memorials to your readers.

Soon after the civil war a United States senator representing a state rich in marble deposits, and as interested in selling this product to the government as the present Senator Watson is in selling Indiana's limestone for federal buildings, succeeded in having marble specified for these markers, the price at that time being around three dollars, increasing to about five dollars, excepting where the veteran's name was Buzceknwplowski or Polychronopoulos, where the price was $6.98. The workmanship is execrable, particularly the lettering, which looks as if it had been scratched in with an old shoe.

For years the G. A. R., Spanish-American War Veterans, and recently the American Legion have violently protested against these grave desecrations, but in vain. It may be said the memorials that mark the graves of our overseas dead were shaped and lettered by foreign workmen out of foreign marble. Before the contract was let I wrote to the battle monuments commission asking this work be given to Americans, and American product be specified, receiving a reply advising me to take this matter up with Strangler Lewis.

It's too bad that this question had to come up during the present administration. It may attract the attention of some efficiency expert, who in his zeal to balance the budget might chase us into the cemetery, recommend we be buried four in a grave, and in place of the cheap marble substitute sheet metal stamped out by machine and lettered with a punch press, one marker to four veterans. THOMAS K. DAVEY,
Former President Chicago Branch, Granite Cutters' International Association, and Chaplain Englewood Post No. 61, the American Legion.

EXCUSE IT, PLEASE.

SCHOOL BOARD ECONOMY.

Chicago, Sept. 18. — With teachers' salaries unpaid for five months, classes crowded to the limit, all work stopped on new buildings, we return in September to find $6,000 worth of new dictaphone equipment in a high school that must tax its pupils to supply soap and paper towels for the washrooms. This equipment was neither asked for nor required. Can any one tell us befuddled teachers what hold the Dictaphone company has on a board of education which professes to be pursuing a program of economy? TAX PAYING TEACHER.

GAS RATES.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 2.—Your editorial of Aug. 28, "Natural Gas for Chicago," in which you commend the Peoples Gas company in making the gas available and in the prospective saving of a million and a half dollars to consumers, must have been based entirely on the statement of the company appearing in THE TRIBUNE the previous day.

Their statement that the gas rate to practically all domestic users will be reduced 3½ per cent and that the new rate would be equivalent to a little less than 87 cents a thousand cubic feet instead of 90 cents, the present authorized rate, is entirely false.

The vast majority of domestic consumers are those that burn eight thousand feet or less per month; in other words, those who now pay a monthly gas bill of $7.20 or less. And it is within this range that the company sells its great bulk of gas. Under the rate applied for the company would receive for this great bulk of gas an average of 92½ cents per thousand feet. For the small home owner and those living in apartments and using three thousand feet or less, or who pay monthly $2.70 or less, the company will receive an average of 99½ cents per thousand feet. Instead of the new rate being lower, it is higher. The consumer who uses one thousand feet will pay at the rate of $1.12 per thousand feet.

In view of the confidence the average TRIBUNE reader has in the truthfulness of its editorials, THE TRIBUNE owes it to itself to correct this misstatement of facts. It would be well also to remember that the gas company has no authority to charge at the rate of $1.12 per thousand for the first two therms, as they say they have been doing for the last year. This makes a fixed additional charge of 24c on each customer's monthly bill; also that the maximum cost of the gas in Texas is 3 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas containing 1,050 B. T. U.'s, equivalent to less than 1½ cents for 530 B. T. U. gas, which the present rate is based on; that the pipe line carrier and the gas company are distinct and separate corporations; and that it is the Peoples Gas company and not the consumer that is applying for this change of rate.

WALTER M. LOWE.

PEGLER.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—If THE TRIBUNE can't do better than Westbrook Pegler they ought to quit. The way he ridicules the struggling White Sox is something scandalous. Those boys are comers, but such articles not only discourage them but also discourage the fans whose support they need to cheer them on to a pennant. Mr. Pegler should have more respect for a great ball club.

TRIAL OF PASTOR ON CHARGES OF WOMAN OPENS

13 Churchmen Hear Case Behind Closed Doors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Hearings on the charges of misconduct brought by his former secretary against Dr. William A. Shelton, 56, prominent Methodist pastor of this city, were opened in Alexandria, W. Va., today before a trial board of thirteen ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

THE REV. W. A. SHELTON.

The nature of the charges is unknown, as the session today was conducted in utmost secrecy behind the barred doors of the Alexandria Methodist Episcopal church, South. The identity of the members of the trial board was also unknown except that the presiding officer is Dr. W. B. Hammond of Martinsburg, W. Va.

John Curris Williams, Dr. Shelton's former secretary, who made the charges against the churchman some time ago, was the first witness for the prosecution. She did not take the stand, however, until both the prosecution and defense had set forth in opening statements what they expected to prove.

Dr. Shelton, who has been suspended from the pastorate of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal church, south of Washington, came here from Atlanta, Ga., in October last year. He is a graduate of Yale, and of the University of Chicago, and has been a member of many scientific exhibitions. Dr. Shelton was a member of the church court that tried Bishop James Cannon Jr., in Dallas, Tex., two years ago.

Infantile Paralysis Victim Dies Despite Respirator

Thomas Smith Jr., 14 years old, an infantile paralysis victim, who was brought from his home in Morris to Chicago in the hope of saving his life, died yesterday in the Drinker respirator at St. Luke's hospital. He was placed in the respirator Monday when his respiratory and throat muscles became paralyzed.

WORKERS ON STATE HIGHWAYS INCREASED BY 45,000 IN AUGUST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—There were approximately 45,000 more workers employed on state highway work in August than in July, according to reports received today by the President's organization of unemployment relief. About 370,000 men were employed on state roads in August, the organization said, as compared with 325,000 in July.

"While contracts made by state highway departments for road construction are naturally decreasing at this time of year," it was stated, "figures received from 38 states covering the month of August show a very appreciable increase in employment over any other month this year."

It was pointed out that the figures do not include any work being done by cities or counties or by the federal government. State road contracts let in August totaled $44,698,173, the organization said.

In Illinois contracts totaling $702,450 were let during the month, while 12,600 men were employed on state highway work, according to the reports.

ENGAGING PERSONALITY

The new clothes have tremendous personality. It's the way they go on that makes them so engaging. The way a little hat jams down over one eye. The way a coat fastens high over one shoulder. The way the long collar line of a gown makes a peplum at the waist. Everything has a smart, new way of doing things this fall. Scarfs are oftenest worn "askew", gloves for evening are either very short or very long, buttons are highly amusing. SOLDIERS TAKE FIELD FOR IOWA CATTLE BATTLE

Resisting Farmers Rally by Hundreds.

Tipton, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—This city, the center of the Iowa cattle rebellion, became an armed camp late today when the first units of National Guard troops arrived to enforce the state cattle test law against the embattled farmers of Cedar county.

Militia was ordered out Monday night when sixty-five state officials went to the J. W. Lenker farm to protect the state veterinarians in their work but were repulsed by a group of 300 farmers who were armed with clubs and pitchforks. Several of the state men received bruises about the face and the tires of several of the officers' cars were cut or pierced by pitchforks.

Some 2,000 troops arrived in special trains today and pitched camp on the Cedar county fair grounds.

Adjt. Gen. W. H. Bailey said martial law would be declared in the county as soon as the troop movement had been completed.

Farmer Army Gathers.

All day long groups of farmers straggled into town. This evening several hundred were gathered in the streets. They were quiet for the most part but several declared to resist the cattle test law to the limit.

The showdown is due Thursday, when state veterinarians will resume attempts to test cattle on various Cedar county farms for tuberculosis. Meanwhile Gov. Dan Turner, who yesterday authorized the use of troops to deal with the objectors, was preparing to hurry here from Washington, D. C., where he has been in the interest of farm relief. He stated yesterday that he would wage an "unrelenting campaign" against the recalcitrant farmers.

What It's All About.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The establishment today of martial law in Cedar county brings to a head opposition to compulsory bovine tuberculosis tests that has been evident since 1929 when the law was passed.

The farmers in Cedar, Des Moines, Keokuk, and Lee counties, all in southeast Iowa, are banded together in a protective association whose purpose is to prevent testing of their cattle for tuberculosis under the Iowa law.

Their objection to the tests is based on the argument that the injection system causes abortion in their herds and that it fails to identify cattle that are worst infected and does brand as infected healthy cattle.

Some of the argument against the tests is to the effect that the test is designed by unscrupulous politicans and money interests to confiscate the property of small farmers.

The method of indemnifying farmers whose cattle are declared infected with tuberculosis is as follows:

The animal's worth is appraised by the owner and veterinarian.

The carcass of the animal may be sold for meat at some establishment under the inspection of a government inspector.

The amount of "salvage" allowed on the animal goes to the owner.

The remainder of the appraised value of the animal is divided into thirds. The federal government pays one-third to the farmer and the state pays the farmer a like sum. Thus the farmer must bear the loss of one-third of the appraised value of the animal, minus the amount he has received for salvage.

If a condemned cow is appraised at $150 and the salvage amounts to $25, the federal and state governments each will pay the farmer $41.66, and the farmer will have received for his condemned cow $108.32.

EX-CONGRESSMAN ROWBOTTOM UP FOR PAROLE IN OCTOBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—(AP)—An application for parole from Harry E. Rowbottom, former Republican representative in congress from the old First Indiana district, who is serving a term of a year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary, will be considered at the October meeting of the federal parole board.

The justice department announced today that a member of the board had visited Leavenworth to study the facts in Rowbottom's case.

The former representative, who resided at Evansville, was convicted of fraud in connection with the appointment of postmasters. He began serving his sentence April 21. The time required to be served before a petition for parole can be filed expired Aug. 21.

RULES GIRL CAN'T KEEP RING AFTER BROKEN TROTH

A diamond engagement ring cannot be claimed and retained as liquidated damages by a girl in case of a broken engagement, Judge Freeman L. Fairbank ruled yesterday in the Felony court. The judge dismissed a charge of larceny by bailee against Charles E. Jensby, 3239 Walnut street, and allowed him to keep a $1,054 diamond ring which he regained by a strategem from Miss Sylvia E. Hoshek, 2727 South Keeler avenue, after she broke their engagement of four years standing.

Jensby testified that they met in 1927, and that after he showed her a selection of diamond rings she selected an expensive one and consented to become engaged. But before they married, he charged, she demanded that he put $3,000 in a bank in her name. When he refused she broke the engagement, but insisted that she would keep the ring as recompense for the time "she had wasted" on him.

He called at her home and by some manner which was not made clear in the court proceedings, persuaded his former sweetheart to let him take the ring. Before she yielded it she made him sign an agreement to return it. He never returned, however, and she charged him with larceny by bailee.

FARM GENERALS RALLY TO OLD EQUALIZING FEE

Plan Praised by Lowden and Senator Capper.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Revival of the "equalization fee" idea, battle scarred veteran of the political campaign of 1928, is already drawing support from farm bloc senators and from Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, one of its foremost advocates three years ago, according to organized agriculture.

FRANK O. LOWDEN.

The directors of the American Farm Bureau federation, opening their two days' session yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, spent the day debating whether to go into the electrical business at Muscle Shoals, and after postponing action until more information is obtained, prepared to take up the equalization fee at today's conferences.

The leaders say indications are that in the next session of congress in December, lines already appear forming for a more vigorous effort than before to put the principle of the old McNary-Haugen bill into operation as an appurtenance of the federal farm marketing act.

Letters were made public last night from Col. Lowden, who was a presidential candidate at Kansas City in 1928 but withdrew his name after the delegates turned down the western agricultural plank, and from Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas. The messages were comments in response to the August speech at Madison, Wis., of Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, saying the demand must be renewed for the "equalization fee."

"I have read with exceeding interest the excerpt from your speech," Mr. Lowden wired to Mr. O'Neal. "I congratulate you upon your pronouncement."

Senator Capper amplified the idea in his message to the federation.

"I am in favor of the equalization fee as an amendment to the agricultural marketing act," he wrote. "The government could do more towards restoring prosperity to industry and to industrial workers through putting the equalization fee into effect than through federal charity."

A proposed measure for submission to congress is to be discussed today.

RAIL WORKER KILLED BY ENGINE.

Noted Clinic Head ✣ Tells how Yeast Keeps Intestines Clean ✣ Add it to Your Diet!

PROF. DR. MUELLER-DEHAM heads the clinic for internal diseases in the Vienna Versorgungshaus.

IN HIS FAMOUS CLINIC, Prof. Dr. Mueller-Deham demonstrates where yeast gets in its good work. "Eaten regularly, fresh yeast will correct constipation and prevent its recurrence," he explains.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

EAT YEAST just plain, or dissolved in a third of a glass of water, or any other way you may prefer.

In this Celebrated Vienna Clinic

. . . the action of fresh yeast is demonstrated in cases of INTESTINAL FATIGUE. Read what Professor Dr. Mueller-Deham says about this trouble

IMAGINE you are visiting one of Europe's foremost medical clinics . . . the clinic for internal diseases of the Versorgungshaus, famous hospital and welfare institute run by the city of Vienna.

And imagine you are listening to a lecture being delivered by the head of this celebrated clinic . . . Professor Dr. Albert Mueller-Deham, of the University of Vienna.

Dr. Mueller-Deham is telling about that commonplace ailment which afflicts nearly all of us from time to time . . . that old, unpleasant malady, Intestinal Fatigue.

He says . . . . .

"People who suffer from an unclean condition of the intestines are a prey to headaches, sore throats and other infections . . . Intestinal poisons also tend to hasten the process of growing old.

"In recent years medical science has discovered that excellent results may be obtained by prescribing fresh yeast.

"Yeast is a food, of very special nature. It has many advantages. Regularly used, it will correct constipation in a very natural way.

"Fresh yeast keeps the intestinal tract free of poisons. It increases the flow of gastric juices. It corrects stubborn skin troubles such as pimples and boils . . . The whole system is cleansed and fortified against disease."

Now isn't that a clear-cut medical statement? A statement worth acting upon?

Fresh yeast, you know—such as the foil-wrapped Fleischmann's Yeast which you know so well—is a simple, three-times-a-day addition to your diet . . . a food, with a remarkable effect in cases of Intestinal Fatigue.

Eaten faithfully, a cake before each meal, or between meals and at bedtime, Fleischmann's Yeast moistens and softens accumulated waste masses in the intestinal tract.

In addition, it stimulates the action of the intestines, helps your body throw off undigested residue in a natural way. Thus, poisons from stagnating food wastes no longer flood the body to cause bad breath, bad skin, headaches, indigestion, etc. Your color returns—appetite renews itself—you feel energetic and alert!

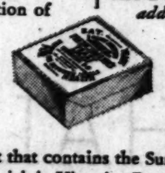
DON'T put it off any longer! Go to your grocer and place a standing order for three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day. Eat a cake before each meal, or between meals and at bedtime—in water, milk or plain.

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast, you know, at restaurants and soda fountains as well as grocery stores, and each cake is rich in three health-giving vitamins—vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D. Why not add it to your diet—starting today?

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast... the only kind that benefits you fully.



Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

King Making Too Much for 'Scaramouche'

Critic Finds Sabatini's New Book Dull.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Scaramouche, the King Maker," by Rafael Sabatini. [Houghton-Mifflin]. Published today.

Rafael Sabatini, after having published previously eighteen volumes, mostly historical novels, with one or two volumes of unpublished history, published a book called "Scaramouche." It was the story of a youth elegantly labeled "bastard" and his amazing career as strolling player, lawyer, fencing teacher, political aspirant in the French revolution and all around adventurer. After seventeen volumes of fairly medium success "Scaramouche" became an international best seller.

The name of Rafael Sabatini became known wherever English is read and wherever assorted languages "Scaramouche" achieved in translation. Since then Mr. Sabatini has written other new books and has seen most of his old books published in duodecimo editions. The tenth volume after "Scaramouche"—a sort of decade celebration for it—is "Scaramouche the King Maker," the story of a year in the life of the intrepid young man whose ideals of a constitutional monarchy led him away from the revolution and into the camp of the anarchists.

His love for a beautiful girl, Aline, who was his affianced bride, the daughter of a stanch follower of the regent, led him into a passionate devotion to the cause of restoring the royal family to the throne through a subtle and delicate wrecking of the revolution. It was the plan of Scaramouche to undermine the revolution by showing that its leaders were venal [previously making them so by a lavish system of bribery] and, when the moment was rife for the return of the regent, to offer a wiser rule to a sadder people to him to rule. His plans worked out perfectly.

The moment was that precise second when the luscious apple drops ripe to the ground with the fullness of perfection when he was given irrefutable proof that all of the time he had been risking his neck for, often by the minute, the regent had been trying to persuade the girl Aline to add herself to the royal list of mistresses. When Scaramouche heard of that his interest in the royalist cause suffered such a sea change that he burned up all of the documents which would have convicted the revolutionary leaders, and, at the request of his fellow patriot, he went to the regent and told him exactly what he had practically delivered Aline into the hands of the revolutionists after having won her for the regent. "Scaramouche, the King Maker" is one of those unwritten pages of history that historical novelists love upon.

"Scaramouche" was an exciting book. It was a real thriller, and its uncommon use of style and manner were cleverly adapted to its material. "Scaramouche the King Maker," instead of being another "Scaramouche" which keeps you awake until the last page is finished, seems to me a grand novelette. Its pages floated before my eyes in a medley of pompous writing. It is full of such sentences as "some days before, poor little Leopoldine had [Marriage], had been immolated by her brothers on the foul altar of mammon. . . . Chabot, the unclean, Capuchin, turned fop, was installed in the handsome apartments on the first floor of the Frey's house, and there to be regarded as its inmate." That sentence is grabbed at random from page 250 of the four hundred and twenty pages. Page 367 would yield as tidy a bit of words. They are the kind that you read two or three times, and still feel a little hazy about the author's intention. "Scaramouche the King Maker" took me as long to read as George Dorsey's "Man's Own Story: Civilization."

German Singer Holds Screen in This Talkie

Space Seems Too Small for His Acting.

German production.
Presented at the Punch and Judy theater.
Featuring Michael Bohnen, Olga Tschechowa, Trude Lieske and Ralph Arthur Roberts.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND — German musical comedy that's short on both music and comedy.

ACTING—The leading man, Michael Bohnen I believe is the name, of "Metropolitan Opera house fame," is a huge blond who acts all over the screen, which, when he sings, can scarcely contain him. Others in the cast do as well as could be expected considering the vehicle. The girl who plays Mabel is a beauty.

DIRECTION—Terrible, I thought.

PHOTOGRAPHY—Not bad.

SETS AND SCENERY—Rather a conglomeration.

STORY — Complicated to the non-German and stupid and overdrawn, I imagine, to intelligent Teutons. Better glance at the English synopsis on the program before entering the theater.

See you soon.

Patented Flowers to Feature Show Given by Florists

A fall flower show in which patented blooms will be exhibited was planned yesterday at a meeting of the Allied Florists' association. The government has been patenting new varieties of roses and chrysanthemums since April 1. All members of the association plan to have exhibits at the show. The object of the association, of which more than 1,000 growers, wholesalers, and retailers are members of the Illinois branch, is to popularize flowers as an expression of sentiment.

Earrings of Court Ladies of Babylon Displayed Here

Four gold earrings, which experts believe were worn by ladies at the court of King Nebuchadnezzar who ruled over Kish and Babylon 2,500 years ago, are now on exhibition in the Stanley Field hall of the Field Museum of Natural History, it was announced yesterday. The ornaments were found by the Field museum-Oxford university joint expedition to Mesopotamia in Babylonian graves on the site of the city of Kish.

Flavor, Variety, Quality of Bread Discussed by Bakers

In bread as well as in other commodities there must be variety, members of the American Bakers' association were told yesterday at their annual convention at the Hotel Sherman by Ross E. Anderson of Los Angeles, president of the American Society of Bakery Engineers. Bread must have individuality, that is, of different shapes and sizes and of many varieties, the bakers were told, if sales are to be increased.

EPISCOPAL DEPUTIES VOTE MORE POWER FOR DEACONESSES

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Women will be admitted to a special ministry in the Episcopal church. At least a resolution adopted by the house of deputies today in the 50th triennial general convention here which gives such a status to deaconesses. Before the resolution becomes canon law, however, it must pass the house of bishops. The deaconnesses attending the sessions were jubilant. They say the action of the house of deputies is the first step toward the admission of deaconnesses to the chancels and sanctuaries of the church with full clerical rights.

The resolution was presented by the Rev. Dr. Howard C. Robbins of New York, former dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. He explained the resolution does not provide full authority of women as ministers, but that it designates the order of deaconesses as "the one and only order of the ministry which we can recommend" at this time.

The report of the Lambeth conference of bishops held in London in 1930 points out the function of the deaconesses as being practically the same as deacons. In the Episcopal church there are three orders of the ministry, bishops, priests and deacons.

Banker Welcomes Daughter and Clerk After Elopement

Miss Frances Cady Oleson, daughter of John P. Oleson, vice president of the First National bank, eloped to Waukegan early yesterday morning and was married to Fred Floyd, a junior clerk in that institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Oleson welcomed the young couple to their home at 240 Woodstock avenue, Glencoe, later in the day. The bride and groom had known each other for three years, and while the elopement was a surprise, their marriage had been expected sometime in the near future, Mr. Oleson said.

The bridegroom lives in Evanston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John David Floyd of Salisbury, N. C.

Ice Fund Returns Gift Judge Sent; Total Now $2,758.74

Another gift for THE TRIBUNE free ice fund arrived yesterday, bringing the total to $2,758.74. The contribution of $5 was accompanied by a note requesting that only the initials, E. K., be used in acknowledgment. It was incorrectly stated in Thursday's TRIBUNE that the $100 sent to the ice fund by Judge Samuel Heller was raised by fines imposed in his court. This money, he said yesterday, was raised through the donation of offenders appearing in court. The money has been returned to Judge Heller, as donations raised in this manner are not accepted by the ice fund.

Hoover Reminds Ohio Woman She's 106; Others Send Letters

New Lexington, O., Sept. 22.—(AP)—President Hoover has reminded Mrs. Susan Palmer Kennedy that today was her 106th birthday anniversary.

The President's congratulatory message came with similar greetings from Gov. George White of Ohio and served as a reminder to Mrs. Kennedy that she was to have another birthday.

"I might have forgotten all about it," she said; "had so many of them, you know."

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item yesterday about the shooting of Herbie Schaeffer, a pugilist, stated that Schaeffer lived at 4509 Oakenwald avenue. The managers of the building say no such person lives at that address.

Patients at the Edward Hines Jr. hospital sent a communication to THE TRIBUNE yesterday regarding an item printed Sept. 18 about the departure of Arthur Lee Hayward in a wheel chair for New York and then to Europe. The item referred to Hayward as a major and said he had been a patient at the government hospital nine years. These statements were said to be erroneous. According to a record supplied Hayward enlisted Oct. 29, 1918, and was discharged as a sergeant, and not as a major, on April 28, 1919, nearly six months after the armistice, and he had never been in a battle and was not wounded. He was treated at the hospital for multiple scelerosis, a disease of the spine, and he was a patient only nine months and not nine years, according to the communication.

Eckstein Loss at Ravinia $187,884.68

Guarantors Share Deficit of $279,829.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

For the privilege of presenting opera at Ravinia during the summer just ended, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eckstein have guaranteed and assumed the sum of $187,884.68, the largest amount in the history of the company. Last year it was $139,107.20.

Opera giving is an expensive business, as the statement of the summer's operations reveals, and many things have worked against Mr. and Mrs. Eckstein. It is true that the cost of the company was less this year than last, $594,381.86 as against $625,727.33, but the income shows a greater disproportion, $314,552.18 as against $284,548.38, making the net loss for this summer $279,829.68 when last year it was $241,178.95.

In addition there is a subscription guarantee fund shared by 250 to 300 other persons. That fund, too, shows a falling off. This year it amounted to $91,945 and last year it was $102,071.75.

In an explanatory statement to the subscribers, Mr. Eckstein sets out that on the basis of the present loss an endowment fund of $6,000,000 would be needed to finance the undertaking.

"The present guarantee fund is, of course, wholly inadequate," he adds. "What the future is to be under these conditions, time alone will tell. But it is certain that no one man should carry indefinitely the burden and strain of the artistic direction and in addition contribute of his own resources 67 per cent of the deficit."

What is not contained in the statement comes as a postludial comment from Mr. Eckstein directly. He says Ravinia is not going to close. Nothing is going to stop it from opening again in the summer of 1932. He quotes Samuel Insull when that other magnate of opera was regarding the figures on the last season of the Civic Opera company:

"I am not licked yet."

MUSIC DEPARTMENT OF U. OF C. STARTS OCT. 1; CARL BRICKEN HEAD

Through a special gift from an anonymous donor, the University of Chicago has been enabled to begin the development of a new department of music with the appointment of Carl Bricken, Pulitzer prize winner in 1929, as assistant professor of music. Mr. Bricken will give his first classes during the autumn quarter, which opens Oct. 1.

CARL BRICKEN.

Mack Evans, director of the University choir, will cooperate with Mr. Bricken.

"Our plans for the department of music necessarily are modest at present in view of the stringent financial condition, and we were able to appoint Mr. Bricken only through the assistance of a friend of the university who made a special gift," President Hutchins said yesterday.

Mr. Bricken received his B. A. degree at Yale in 1922, and conducted the Yale symphony orchestra for two years. He graduated from the Mannes School of Music in New York in 1926. He also studied composition with Rosario Scalero for six years, and studied piano in Paris with Alfred Cortot in 1926-'27.

Lake Forest Academy in 74th Year; 202 Students

Convocation exercises, held yesterday afternoon in Reid hall at the Lake Forest academy, marked the opening of the school for the seventy-fourth consecutive year. The number of students registered was 202, twelve more than the 1930 enrollment on opening day.

Addresses were made to the students by John Wayne Richards, head master of the school, and Dr. Herbert Prince.

Reid hall, which was damaged by fire last May, has been restored and made fireproof. Class rooms have been modernized by the elimination of the old fashioned school desks and their replacement by easy chairs.

Jelly, Sandwiches from North Shore Collected for Poor

Hundreds of glasses of jelly were donated yesterday by north shore commuters who left their contributions at the booth established by the Chicago Plant Fruit and Flower guild at the North Western station, from where they were taken to six distributing agencies. The jelly gifts were the result of a special one day drive of the Garden club of Evanston.

Many of the donors brought sandwiches, hundreds of which were taken with the preserves to the following institutions:

The Visiting Nurses' station at 3458 South State street; the House of Happiness, 3052 Gratten avenue; the University of Chicago settlement, 4830 Gross street; the Visiting Nurses' station at 734 West 47th street; the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, 4448 South Michigan, and the Old Peoples' home, 4724 Vincennes avenue.

Appreciation of the gifts was expressed by Miss Edna Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurses' association, who asked for a continuance of the work.

Mrs. Edwin Sherman, flower guild chairman of the Evanston Garden club, was in charge of the booth yesterday. It has been operated in cooperation with similar receiving booths at other railroad stations on scheduled days. This was part of the usual summer plan of the Flower guild, which this year began its operation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE lilac time on May 15. The program for 1931 is to close Friday, Oct. 2.

Brother Cyprian to Retire as Teacher After 36 Years

The retirement of Brother Cyprian, C. S. C. as a teacher at Notre Dame University was announced yesterday. Brother Cyprian has been a teacher for 52 years, 36 of them at Notre Dame. Three heart attacks in the last two years and consequent paralyzation of his right arm brought an end to his teaching days. In 1895 Brother Cyprian went to Notre Dame to become associate professor of accounting. Since then he has taught thousands of students in bookkeeping and accounting. He was graduated from the Hollingsworth Business College in Covington, Ky., in 1876 and after joining Order of the Congregation of the Holy Cross he spent sixteen years in varous schools throughout the country before going to Notre Dame.

Illinois Artists' Show Fits Spirit of Present Markets

These are goods days for Illinoisans to brighten their homes with the work of Illinois artists, according to the sponsors of the All Illinois Society of Fine Arts. That organization is holding an exhibition at the Stevens Hotel. There the artists, realizing the present state of the various markets, have priced their work at $10 to $100.

THE STAGE

STEPS have been taken to allay the congestion of premières announced for Oct. 4 and 5. Walker Whiteside, coming to the Blackstone in a drama called "Cape Forlorn," will select a date in the preceding week, probably Oct. 1. "Girl Crazy," scheduled for the Garrick, will wait until the tidal wave of openings has rolled by and will make its bow Thursday night, Oct. 8.

The booking of "Girl Crazy" at the Garrick means, of course, that "A Modern Virgin" is nearing the end of its string. The engagement will end Saturday night, Oct. 3, and the company will then go on tour.

The mystery over the theater in which the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society's company will offer its productions has been cleared up. The Majestic will be the place; the date of the première remains unchanged at Oct. 19. The company is rehearsing at the Princess.

George M. Cohan will pass on from the failure of his latest play, "Friendship," to the production of a comedy by Arthur Goodrich called "Perfect Marriage." He plans for a New York première in November. The locale of the play is a suburb of Paris, and its story deals with the celebration of a golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Cohan himself will not appear in the cast, and will entrust the stage direction to his veteran colleague, Sam Forrest.

The Dramatic League of Chicago has informed its subscribers that after four weeks of "The Venetian," opening Oct. 5, it will offer "Mrs. Moonlight," "Melo," "The Improper Duchess," "Lean Harvest" and "The New Colony"—the latter by Pirandello. "Pilate," with Philip Merivale as star, is a possibility for the season; and probably this is the drama, written by a pair of Chicago newspapermen, that once tempted George Arliss.

Mady Christians, an actress highly esteemed on the operetta stage of Germany, and also in the German film industry, reached New York a few days ago under contract to the Shuberts. She will be starred in "Arms and the Maid," a musical piece with a score by Jean Gilbert, who has composed many a Berlin hit. Guy Robertson will be her tenor auxiliary. C. C.

Ambitious Struggles of Adults Revealed in Night School Sessions

Young and old from almost every conceivable walk in life comprise the more than 52,000 persons who are attending Chicago public night schools, Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools said yesterday. The night school sessions opened Monday.

In one high school class there is a woman 67 years old. In one of the shops a physician works at a lathe beside an attorney. In an abandoned coach in the Santa Fé yards, a class of 30 char women meet nightly to study English.

There are in all 210 classes studying English and civil government. This is an increase of 61 classes over last year. Teachers for this and other specified courses are provided on request of groups of 30 or more persons.

WIFE REMINDS HIM OF THEIR ANNIVERSARY, GOV. EMMERSON SAYS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—When it comes to remembering his wedding anniversary, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson is like any one else. He and Mrs. Emmerson celebrated their forty-fourth wedding anniversary today, but he forgot about it until his wife reminded him—at least that is what he told Lieut. Gov. Fred Sterling over the telephone.

The governor and lieutenant governor were to visit Beardstown today, but the chief executive had to cancel the engagement.

A brand new wrist watch was Mrs. Emmerson's anniversary present to her husband. He had it on today, but he would look at it askance every now and then and remark that he never thought he would be "wearing a wrist watch."

Tonight the governor's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watson, were with the rest of the family at the executive mansion to celebrate the anniversary.

Science Studies Growth of Ideas in Human Mind

Power of Habits Is Told at U. of Chicago.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The age-old problem of the relationship between the mind and the body, how habits are acquired and how ideas are built up through experience, forms an important chapter of the syllabus of biological learning that is to be taught under the new plan of education that begins at the University of Chicago this week. This course has been prepared by thirteen faculty members, covering eleven scientific fields.

The attempts to solve the mind-body problem are set forth as follows:

1. Accept a dualism of mind and body.
   A. Psychophysical parallelism: Two distinct orders of reality running parallel. No attempt to explain the connection.
   B. Interactionism: Mind a force—mind has effect on body; i. e., the two forces interact.
   C. Epiphenomenalism: Body has effect on mind, but mind, being an epiphenomenon, has no effect on the body. [The doctrine that consciousness is secondary result of nervous system.]
   D. Divine harmony: When two things are correlated both may have a common cause [God the cause].
2. Mind or matter absolute [monism].
   A. Materialism: Mind explained in terms of matter. Mind is merely atoms in motion. Everything ultimately explainable in terms of physics and chemistry. Matter absolute.
   B. Psychic monism — [idealism]: Mind absolute. All we know is experience. Matter an illusion.
3. Mind and matter aspects of larger reality [monism.]
   A. Double aspect theory: Mind and matter merely to aspects of the same thing.
   B. Phenomenalism: Mind and matter workings of phases within a system.

The discussion of these theories is built upon the laboratory approach to the problems of learning. A process of learning is defined as the acquisition of a mode of response adapted to a problematic situation.

"A habit is an acquired mode of response or pattern reaction, and makes up the largest part of human behavior. . . . We are free only if we are supplied with effective habits. . . . Lack of balance between impulses and habits of control gives rise to various abnormalities. . . . Automatic handwriting is a running loose of some portion of the subject's habit systems. . . . Perception is the cognition, through any sense, of a present object in relation to some act of adjustment. . . . The object and the perceiving organism are inextricably bound up together."

On the nature and function of ideas the syllabus gives this teaching:

"An idea involves a thinking subject, a certain amount of past experience, something to think about and something to represent it. An idea is a representative process, a present object of experience in symbolic form. Ideas are substitutes for perceptions. They are of three kind: Memory, imagination and conception.

"Imagination is based on memory and depends on past experience for its content. What is new in imagination is the new combination or arrangement of its ideational items.

"John Locke established the modern doctrine that all ideas find their roots in sense experience. We are not born with ideas. We build them through experience. The symbols of thought may be sensations, images, or combinations of the two. According to the behaviorists, thought is implicit speech. Thought also goes on in terms of images. As a matter of fact, an object can be thought of in any way that it has been experienced.

"Thought tends to go out into overt action. To think of a thing to do is normally and naturally to do it. To think of doing a thing and not doing it is advanced and sophisticated behavior, involving reflection, inhibition and a system of values.

"Ideas may be aroused by perceptions, by other ideas and by intraorganic conditions. If one hears 'The Perfect Song' he may think of Amos and Andy. Mental telepathy has been suggested as another possibility of the arousal of thought. Today, science neither denies nor affirms, but considers the telepathic hypothesis highly improbable. Other suggested possibilities of the arousal of thought are spiritualism, the spontaneous arousal of ideas from the unconscious, and perseveration.

"Ideas, then, are substitutes for perceptions. We may think of a thing when we can't perceive it. Ideas are dynamic as well as cognitive processes. Involving nervous current as they do, they act as stimuli; they 'do something.' As the behaviorists insist, ideas as conscious processes do nothing. Consciousness is thus thrown out as ineffective and noncausal. It is the dynamic aspect, involving released nervous energy, that does effect behavior. Ideas may arouse moods and emotions; distract, disrupt, inhibit, or facilitate a present activity; give rise to motor acts; stimulate respiration; promote glandular responses, and other internal changes. Continued suggestion may cause illness or make for health.

"What thought arises and what it leads to depend on a variety of circumstances and conditions: Where you are, what you are doing, how you feel, and what your purpose or interest at the moment may be. Thought serves us in adapting to the world much as does perception. Objects of thought may represent the goal of our activities. We previse the future and by means of ideas attain or avoid our ends."

(This is the third of a series of articles on the new general courses at the University of Chicago. The fourth will be on the evidences of evolution.)

Girl Thinks Boy Is Beneath Her Because His Dad Runs Market

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 20, as is he. But there is a decided difference in our stations in life. His father runs the neighborhood fruit market and my friend is in partnership with his dad.

"I am well educated and come from a fine home. I've attended college, play the piano and violin very well, and have been brought up in luxury, as I'm the only child, while he comes from a respectable but very poor home. He apparently is fond of me. While I don't think I am a snob, still you can see how I would be the target for wagging tongues if we continued. And I am thinking, too, of my parents, who would never approve because of our different social stations. CAROLINE B."

Just a bit of a snob, "Caroline!" Not a full sized one! If there wasn't some of the virus in your veins the question of the social differences wouldn't be so keen. But that's perhaps not your fault. It may be the fault of your parents and it may be the fault of our faulty democratic training. As a democracy, it must be admitted, America does entertain a brand of snobbishness that can't be duplicated in any other country.

Where there is a social caste difference felt it's bad business mixing marriage into it. Some one is going to suffer. Two some ones, more likely.

But I thought you young moderns had a way of figuring things out on your own. That you didn't let parental prejudice sway your course where those prejudices had no more basis than in the case presented. That you would defy conventions that prevented association with decent young men who might not happen to be as financially well born as yourself.

The son of a neighborhood fruit dealer has just as much chance of becoming tomorrow's leading citizen as the son of your own dad, did you have a brother. But, as I say, if you feel a gap in your social standings, for the boy's sake he'd better be let go free. If the wagging of neighborhood tongues would matter, it would be better for all concerned not to start them wagging.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

It Takes Two to Quarrel.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl who disagrees with me in practically everything I say, thus encouraging continuous quarreling. Should I continue seeing her? PETE."

Surely there are other girls who would make more agreeable companions for you.

Graceful Gestures Enhance the Beauty of a Woman's Hands

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Pretty but dumb could aptly be applied to certain pairs of hands. Hands that just look "p. but d." Hands that haven't a spontaneous gesture; hands that look lazy. But you know what I mean.

Now, as I've said many times before, we beauty editors do not have to talk about fingernail upkeep. O, there are lots and lots of fingernails that aren't kept up, but nobody knows it better than their owner when they're not. Nobody knows better than she what should be done about them.

On the whole, however, the feminine hand condition in our country, so far as the nail tips are concerned, shows an awareness that their neatness is as imperative as brushing the teeth. Of course, some of these aware ones may be overtinted, undertinted—nevertheless, their nails can't be accused of lack of attention.

But that isn't enough for hand beauty. It's no deficit, to be sure, to have hands of pearly whiteness, with slightly pointed nails, carmined and brilliant. But gestures are what make the hand really lovely. It is much the same idea as a perfect figure in action being lovelier than one not in motion, the grace of movement being the beauty feature.

There are hands that are spontaneous of gesture and gracious of gesture. There are hands that have a magnetic warmth even in silence. There are hands that are utterly fascinating to follow in their graceful course. And there are hands that are positively ugly in every movement they make. The latter are tense hands, hands with nails pressing into the palms, hands extended finger wide and stiff as boards, and hands that are guided by a wrist that acts as if it were held in a vice.

Poised women always have the more gracious hand movements, if you'll notice. Women who are sure of themselves. Women who have nerves under control. They're the ones who can give the hand that last touch of beauty—grace and ease of movement.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

J. C.: BLEEDING GUMS ARE AN indication of trouble. It may be the first stage of pyorrhea, or maybe due to a tartar accumulation on the teeth which should be removed. Visit your dentist semi-annually.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Tommy had just started to school. When he got home his uncle was three, and Tommy told him he had received 100 in arithmetic. His uncle said to him in a teasing voice, "How much would seven roses, three roses, and two roses make?" Whereupon Tommy hesitatingly replied, "A bouquet?" J. I. M.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss La Della Rayney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Rayney of 2231 North Kenneth avenue, to Walter Schmals, also of Chicago, is to take place at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Mission Covenant church in Austin.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Voss of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Heaton, to John Newton Barbee Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Barbee of Chicago. Miss Voss is a senior at Northwestern university and a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Barbee was graduated from Harvard in 1928 and is a member of the D. U. club.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

"I am a widow and have four children. The boy is 8 years old and the girls are 14, 12, and 10. I have been out of work for about 9 months and cannot buy them the clothes they need for school. Can you help me by getting some for them?

"Miss J."

One risk no woman can afford

Unknown substitutes are health risk . . . you know Kotex is pure

THERE'S one chance no woman can afford to take. That's the chance of poorly made sanitary protection.

It may look like Kotex. But who made it? Where? How? Who guarantees safety, health protection?

You know you're safe with Kotex. It's a hospital product—last year 10,000,000 pads were used in hospitals alone. Kotex is pure, clean, immaculate through and through. Don't sacrifice this assurance ever. Kotex is available everywhere . . . you need never accept a questionable substitute, whose makers you do not know.

In addition, Kotex offers every comfort. It is amazingly soft, and its softness lasts.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Tom Corbin arrives in Thrace for a week's vaudeville engagement, with her dancing pal, Philippe de Rodriques, and their pianist, Tom Libby. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Philippe grabs the first vacancy, a room and bath at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Irma Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham.

INSTALLMENT III.

AMONG THE HICKS.

It was two o'clock when the party broke up. The Clarks waited in the lobby while Bill went to pack. Irma was engaged in conversation with Wallace Graham. She could not be snatched from him. Not till Bill was at the foot of the stairs again.

It was now that Mrs. Clark was not within earshot, then whispered: "What's the matter, girlie? Scared to go upstairs at the same time as the big, terrible man? I was only going to pack."

"Say, listen, a girl's a fool to go in the show business, but there's no excuse for being a damn fool."

"I was merely interested in getting my clothes, I assure you.' He chose to be cold and hurt.

Irma laughed. "That's why you noticed I wasn't with you, huh? Bees' feathers, Fitzroy, my good man; bees' feathers."

He smiled, too. "Don't I even get a kiss for giving you my room?"

"Sure." She kissed him lightly on the cheek.

The Clarks stared. "Come on, Bill," they said. "It's late."

"Were you serious about that dinner date?" Graham asked anxiously.

"I never was seriouser."

"I'll be here for you. Good-night."

"Good-night."

They went then. Bill Fitzroy, the Clarks, Wallace Graham. Irma stood alone in the lobby of the finest hotel she had ever lived in. There was a frown between her eyebrows. Life was so funny. A short while ago she had heard the music and had longed to be part of that bright, noisy crowd in the Marble room. She had known no one in Thrace and now she knew at least a dozen people. She had had no bed and a man of whom she had never heard before had given his, and it was all because of Tommy Libby.

She pursed her lips tightly and shook her head wonderingly as she entered the elevator. The clerk saw her so obviously in communion with her thoughts and was glad that the Marble room was not part of his responsibility. It had been bad enough making certain that Mr. Fitzroy was really out of his room for the night, without worrying what he served his guests in the way of refreshment.

Upstairs Irma arranged that portion of her belongings which were not to be worn in the morning to the theater. A comb, a brush, two sets of underwear, some stockings, the extra dress, the clock. That was about all. There was much left in the suitcase. Things to be used in the theater.

She was not sleepy any more. She still had that warm, happy glow within her bosom, however. She thought now that perhaps it was not the champagne. She was a vaudevillian, with a vaudevillian's good natured contempt for men and women not of the theater and the vaudevillian's unshakable belief that a dumbbell is a person who doesn't know anything about vaudeville. She hated to think that the warm glow came from having enjoyed another a bunch of hicks. They were hicks, weren't they? They didn't live in New York. She knew that she had enjoyed it and she was ashamed.

Irma thought her life with Philippe's act a tough one, but she would not have called it lonely. There were always a bunch of people in the theater. It had never thought, and did not think now, how little companionship her life with Tommy and Philippe were nothing but annoyances to her. Customarily they played on a bill with an act that had a lone girl. She and the girl would eat together, perhaps shop together, then the week ended. Sometimes there was a man, but they did not make good companions for a girl to lead her life that she could stay virtuous. Usually it was Irma and a vaudevillian.

Tonight had been different. She had talked to people, laughed with them, danced for pleasure. Yes, she had enjoyed it.

She took pleasure in thinking how she must have looked to them. She knew she was good looking, and had no hesitation in reminding Phil that she was. Great humility is rarely practiced or appreciated in the theater. She was proud of her wavy black hair, her dark eyes beneath the sweeping, well defined brows. Her figure was good and her skin was perfect. She wondered if the assembled inhabitants of Thrace had noticed her teeth. She hoped so. She was her only point of beauty which got any special care or pampering.

She thought of Wallace Graham. He was nice. She thought of Bill Fitzroy. He was nice, but dangerous. She wondered if he'd be big about being turned down, or would he be pettish and nasty? Well, what was the difference? Only a week in the town. Bad or good, only a week.

She took her hair down. It fell about her shoulders. She ran the comb through it absentmindedly, then walked to the window. The main street cut out from the steps of the Bartrum and ran for a mile. Beyond in the distance there was a black fuzz that might be anything. Trees, hills, or houses. Thrace looked beautiful to Irma as she surveyed it from the fifth floor of the Bartrum House. Peaceful, happy, prosperous. She felt all warm and kindly toward Thrace.

She undressed in the dark and got into bed. O, such a bed! She had forgotten that there were mattresses like this. Thrace was so nice. Just before she fell asleep she remembered that she hadn't asked how much the room was going to cost.

Bill Fitzroy rang the phone at ten o'clock. Was Irma ready for breakfast? He was downstairs in the lobby. She told him to wait, that she'd be along in twenty minutes. It gave her a luxurious feeling to have the phone directly at her bedside and to have a good looking, prosperous man impatiently awaiting her. She smiled, remembering that as a kid she had thought her business was nothing else but comfort and good looking, prosperous men. She jumped out of bed and bathed and dressed quickly. Her clothes were certainly shabby. She eyed them sorrowfully. How nice it would be to have smart sport clothes and enter the lobby looking trim and feeling that sweet confidence that can come to a woman only with the knowledge that her clothes are correct, becoming, and absurdly expensive.

Irma's makeup went on more carefully than usual. She had to draw Tommy's eyes away from the little hat that had been sat on and rained on, and from the dress that was wrinkled and had a cigaret burn somewhere on the hem.

She found him reading the Thrace Democrat. He said "Hello, there! You did your sleep. Say, you're even good looking when I'm sober."

"Thanks," she answered. "The same to you."

Tommy looked in on them as they idled over their coffee and cigarets. He had been to the theater. It was his job to find out what time the act went on and to rehearse the orchestra. These duties were bad for his disposition. Orchestra leaders had a habit of being thick on Monday mornings.

Bill and Irma were happy in each other's company and feeling contented with the satisfying breakfast they had consumed. They greeted Tommy pleasantly and Bill invited him to sit down.

"No, thanks. I had breakfast an hour ago. We go on at three-fifty-five, first."

He strode away.

"He's sore about something," Irma said.

Irma went to the theater early. There was so much to do on opening day. Her stage dresses had to be pressed and her slippers given a hasty lick and a promise with an utterly inadequate cleaning fluid.

Philippe came to her dressing room while she was pressing the red gown that she used in the tango.

"Say, nobody's using the stage now," he said. "Let's get up there and run through the waltz."

"Why the waltz? We've never had trouble with it."

"No, but it's tricky and I don't want you to glue it up."

"You're crazy. Why should I glue it up? I never have."

"No, but you've never walked into the theater before with a hangover. You can't fool me. I can see that you were drunk last night."

"You can see? O, you big jackass! As though I didn't know that Tommy would run and tell you that I went to a party. Did he tell you that I slept with an old friend of his?"

"Don't get fresh, now. You can't afford it. Let me tell you something."

"Can I stop you if I've heard it?"

"You think you're good, don't you?"

"Sure I do. I know what I look like on a stage and I'm a darn good dancer."

"Dancer, me eye! Say, there's a little local girl right here who can dance circles around you."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Considerate Stranger.

Riding on the "L" one morning I happened to sit next to a young man who was reading the paper. He turned to the comic section, and I, not having a paper of my own, was all eyes.

So interested was I in the losing of Henrietta's wig that when he turned the page, evidently having finished first, I unconsciously said, "O!" He looked at me, smiled, turned the page back and said, "Haven't you finished yet?"

Was I embarrassed? No, not much so I muttered, "That's all right."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frederic Pruyn now at her summer home, Club Island, near Clayton, N. Y., will join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan at 510 Park avenue on Oct. 1.

Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Reginald De Koven, Mrs. John Aspegren, and Miss Amy Aspegren are at Virginia Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner and Miss Julia B. Scribner have gone from New Marlboro, Mass., to Far Hills for the autumn.

Mrs. Marion McMillin has returned from Murray Bay.

Noted Chicago Family Plans Brief Visit Here

BY THALIA —

THE Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylors, whose visits in Chicago have been increasingly infrequent in recent years, it seems, are coming through from California to the east in a few days. Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor, however, is not to tarry at all, and he will be here for only a few days They are to arrive on Sunday from Santa Barbara, where they have been at their estate, Far Afield, in Montecito Mr. Chatfield-Taylor will be with his son and daughter-in-law, the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors, until the following Thursday, while his wife goes straight on to Detroit where members of her family live.

Before going to New York for the fall season there, Mr. Chatfield-Taylor plans to visit his daughter, Mrs. Hendricks Hallett Whitman (Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor), and her family in Boston, and his son, Robert F., who is now settled in Albany. Other Chatfield-Taylor news is that Otis, now an established playwright and critic, and his bride, the former Miss Janet Benson, are living in New York City. I read somewhere that they had been entertaining quite a lot on their yacht The Flip all summer, and that one of the enjoyments of their evening cruises was the playing of a large collection of foreign phonograph records. The Wayne Chatfield-Taylors plan to go to their place in Virginia a little later on for several weeks.

Women Monopolize Golf Course at Onwentsia.

The ladies took possession of Onwentsia yesterday and monopolized the club golf course from early morning until late afternoon for their annual powwow. More than 100 feminine golf fans took part in a series of games and stunts that were interrupted only for luncheon and the appointment of next year's committee.

Mrs. Charles Dennehy (Virginia Wilson of sports page fame) won the prize for the low gross, 18 holes, and Mrs. E. H. Brewer made the low net. Mrs. George F. McLaughlin won her share of glory for the lowest number of putts in 18 holes, and Mrs. Duncan Hodges gave a demonstration of plain and fancy driving. Mrs. Frederick Childs won a prize, too, for something or other that we couldn't make out over the long distance telephone.

Mrs. John Bancroft Hammond, who was Miss Betty Williamson before her marriage last May, is here from Peterboro, Canada, for a visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Williamson. Last year she had a benefit bridge party at the Williamson residence at 1517 North Dearborn parkway for the Service club, and she is to do the same thing this coming Sunday. The party is to be from 4 to 7 o'clock, and the tickets are a dollar a person.

Arthur Meekers Return to Chicago from Santa Barbara.

For good measure—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker are just back in their Lake Shore drive apartment after a long and pleasant summer in their new house in Santa Barbara. . . . Mrs. Arthur A. Burrows and her two sons have returned to Lake Forest after spending the summer in Hawaii. . . . Mrs. Harold C. Strotz, who was there for part of the time with them, returned a couple of weeks ago. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Cochran Supplee and their son, Billy, have moved into town from their summer place in Barrington and are at the Webster hotel. . . . Miss Elsa Armour, daughter of the A. Watson Armours, and W. Irving Osborne are to be married in November, but the plans are still tentative. . . . Mrs. Charles C. Buell returned from Europe on the Minnewaska, landing on Monday. . . . The Leroy W. Fullers have returned from a stay in Santa Barbara.

The Woman's City club will open its season with a reception on Monday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Murry Nelson, presiding. Mrs. John Stuart Coonley and Mrs. John MacMahon will pour. Assistant hostesses include Mrs. Fred Atkins Moore, Mrs. Benjamin F. Langworthy, Mrs. Andrew MacLeish, Mrs. Horace K. Tenney, Mrs. Willoughby Walling, Mrs. E. H. Ochsner, and Mrs. Edward G. Pauling. Mrs. Arthur F. Planck is chairman of the hostess committee.

Marjorie Bertha's Debut Plans; Helen Powell to Marry.

Miss Marjorie Bertha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bertha of 1320 North State parkway, will make her debut at a tea on the afternoon of Dec. 23 at the Fortnightly club. Miss Bertha, who attended Smith last year, is leaving this week to take some special courses at Radcliffe preparatory to returning to Smith next season. Her brother, Edward Bertha Jr., and his roommate, Charles Daniel Frey Jr., will depart in a few days for the Berkshire school at Sheffield, Mass.

The marriage of Miss Helen Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Perry Powell of 747 Kenesaw terrace, to William Warden Wallace will be solemnized at 11 o'clock in the morning of Wednesday, Oct. 7, at the residence of the bride's parents. Only the immediate families will be present at the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception at the Blackstone hotel. Miss Alice Bremner will attend Miss Powell as matron of honor and Miss Frances Weary and Miss Marjorie Murphy will be the bridesmaids. Norman Gerlach will be best man for the groom and the ushers will be Daniel McGuire and John E. Powell.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover, honorary president of the Girl Scouts of America, and about twenty-five members of the executive council left the White House this afternoon for the President's Rapidan camp. There they will hold their regular meeting and Mrs. Hoover will entertain them for a couple of days. Mrs. Hoover has invited the members of the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia to a garden party at the White House Oct. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. David St. Pierre Gaillard and their children have returned to their suburban home, The Rocks, from their summer home on Mackinack island, adjoining the summer home of Mrs. Gaillard's mother, Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett.

Paris Turns Back Leaf in the Style Notebook

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The gored skirt of the Gibson girl and the starched dicky of other days are details that keep on repeating themselves as the fall parade of Paris fashions marches by. They come back from the limbo of lost styles to make our newest clothes look new, for though the gored skirt and the dicky have a fashion past, they are new the way that Paris presents them today.

The four and six gored skirt of the Gibson girl, as rendered in 1931, is a twelve and fifteen gored skirt, minus the length and hair cloth hem of its ancestor. The new gored skirt is fitted like its forerunner, but being worn over a natural figure, as you see in the sketch, it looks very little like the old.

This new gored skirt is practical and graceful, and is being featured with one piece dresses and sports suits by French dressmakers. In the picture here the gored skirt is part of a one piece frock made of Algerian blue, drawn-thread, woolen, and has a stairstep yoke attached by a bias band at the hips.

The second new-old detail is the starched dicky that gives freshness and chic to the very simple blouse of this frock. This dicky is made of piquélike silk, and is only slightly stiffened to hold its shape. It extends around the shoulders and down the front in a U-shaped piece that buttons on to the dress with white porcelain buttons. It is trimmed with narrow ruffles of Irish crochet lace, and there is a bow of blue wool at the neck. The cuffs and ruffles are of Irish lace.

Singing by Audience Adds More Beauty to Negro Spirituals

No question about it, the Negro audiences of this city and presumably every other American city know things about community singing that white assemblages have hardly begun to dream about.

There was a Negro jubilee and concert at Soldiers' field last night. Its object was to provide a fund for the relief of the unemployed. Its material was mostly the music of the race, spirituals now wailing now jubilant, art songs from the pens of such eminent Negro composers as J. Rosamond Johnson and Nathaniel Dett, a large band conducted by Chauncey Murdock and George E. Duff, choruses directed by J. Wesley Jones, James A. Mundy, Edward Boatner Elmer A. Simpson, William Henry Smith, and others. Incidentally there were remarks by Congressman Oscar De Priest, and a reading of the Lincoln emancipation proclamation by J. R. Lynch, a major in the civil war, later a congressman, feeble of step, but firm of voice. But an important part of the program was the community singing directed by William Myrick and C. A. Guliatt.

I wish that all who ever indulge in community singing could have heard the voice of an unknown baritone who sat about fifteen feet from me, full toned, unforced, velvety and resonant at the same time. It was an education in agreeable singing to hear him. Between phrases he nonchalantly puffed on a cigar, but he knew his tunes and his words, and when the spirit moved him, his voice soared and floated and fairly hypnotized with its quality. Now multiply that voice by several thousand of those who were in the choruses and those who were not, and you can get some idea of what community singing means in a Negro gathering. Any huge chorus is likely to be impressive, because of its numbers, but when that chorus is mostly made up of fine voices, the effect just as tone is almost beyond description. E. M.

Snappy Results in Discipline Found a Poor Way to Success

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Here is part of a letter after my own heart:

"Our little 3 year old girl is a sturdy, sunny, and sweet natured cherub and so advanced for her short two years that we find ourselves often expecting more than we should of her. We have always explained everything to her fully from the time she was a tiny baby, and it surely pays in every way.

"I recently made an error in punishment that turned into an amusing boomerang, and it took one of your recent articles to give me the clew to correction. Bettie had picked up the habit of shrieking and screaming when things displeased her. One afternoon following her nap she was simply impossible and after trying out all the usual methods of relief I dumped the young lady back into her bed and told her she would have to stay there until she quit that screeching.

"She came out a bit later so sweetly chastened that I was, of course, encouraged to try the threat of putting her to bed the next time she screamed so violently. It always worked—but she, of course, changed immediately from the little girl who always went to bed and to her naps without a murmur into one who howled herself to sleep. And I am still trying to undo the damage."

Perhaps one of the most difficult things about which to convince people in connection with the training of children is that methods which may give snappily successful results at the moment are not always the best in the end. A sharp slap may make a small child take her hands off something she shouldn't have, but it isn't the way to develop her sense of touch and to train her in intelligent use of her hands. A threat may quiet a crying child instantly, but it doesn't form the basis for a consistent means of guidance.

So, what is convenient at the moment isn't always wisest. Often it requires keen insight and a great deal of self-control for a mother to work through a slow process of management which her intelligence approves when she has authority enough with her child to gain her ends speedily by another route.

Food Talk.

Methinks there were promises of grape jelly and jam recipes made with pectin scheduled for this morning. While we are on the subject of pectin, remember that you don't need to buy it, if you feel in the mood to manufacture your own. I make mine out of tart, hard apples, and I'll be glad to forward the recipe, if you wish it.

GRAPE JELLY [PECTIN].

4 cups [2 pounds] juice.
7½ cups of sugar [3¾ pounds].
½ cup of fruit pectin.

Stem and wash about three pounds of fully ripe grapes, and crush thoroughly. Add ½ cup of water; bring to a boil; cover, and simmer ten minutes. Place fruit in a jelly bag to drip through for juice. Measure the sugar and juice into a large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over a hot fire, and at once add the fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for ½ minute.

Remove from the fire; skim, and pour quickly into sterile glasses. Paraffin the jelly after it has cooled. Yield: About eleven eight ounce glasses.

GRAPE JAM [PECTIN].

4½ cups [2¼ pounds] of prepared fruit.
7 cups [3 pounds] of sugar.
½ cup of fruit pectin.

Slip the skins from about three pounds of fully ripe grapes. Simmer the pulp, covered, five minutes. Remove the seeds by sieving. Chop or grind the skins and add to the pulp. Add ½ cup of water and, if desired, the grated rind of one orange. Stir until the mixture boils. Simmer, covered, thirty minutes. Measure the sugar and prepared fruit into a large kettle; mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over a hot fire. Stir constantly before and during boiling. Boil hard for one minute. Remove from the fire and stir in the fruit pectin.

Pour quickly into sterile glasses. Paraffin when it is cool. Yield: Eleven eight ounce glasses.

Many requests for meat recipes have found their way to us lately. Hope you like this one.

STUFFED BEEF ROLL.

1 slice of round steak 1 inch thick.
1 cup of suet ground fine.
1 tablespoon of chopped onion.
½ teaspoon of sage.
1 cup of bread crumbs.
½ cup of chopped celery.
Salt and pepper.
Flour.

Upon the slice of beef sprinkle three-fourths of a cup of the suet. Add a layer of the dressing made of the bread crumbs, onion, celery, and seasonings. Roll up the beef tightly and tie together with a piece of string. Melt the remaining suet in a baking pan, and when it is hot, put in the meat which has been dredged flour. Brown on all sides, and then add 1 cup of hot water to the pan. Cover and cook slowly for three hours at an oven temperature of 275 degrees Fahrenheit.

When you finish baking, remove the meat to a serving platter and make a gravy with the drippings in the bottom of the pan.

DAIRY FARMS OF WISCONSIN BRING AMPLE PROFITS

Careful Farming Methods Prove Out.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Harvest time in southern Wisconsin where silos and haylofts are filled, and where potatoes, apples, and home grown meats as well as butter and cream will afford three square meals a day for all the family this winter, makes farm life look pretty good to hundreds of city folk these days.

And in a farm to farm survey this week, it is disclosed that the dependable dairy cow, plus cheap feed and farm buildings not too heavily encumbered, have given the dependable, quiet Wisconsin dairymen that same sort of satisfaction.

A better feeling is noted in this fertile country this fall than has prevailed rurally in more than a decade, although you will find quasi-farm leaders and politicians unheedful of the fact.

"I guess we're getting back to normal," said more than one farmer whose practices over recent years have been such that he can effect savings and avail himself of the wide spread between dairy products, poultry, and feed costs this season to keep out of the red.

Farms Without Indebtedness.

An unusual condition. Yet one indicative of how some good farmers are showing up the poorer ones was found near Darien, Walworth county. A six mile highway was cut through, and in acquiring the right of way it was found that only one 57 acre farm had any indebtedness whatever against it.

In general the weather that has made some parts of the state the driest in memory of old timers, has carried other sections through to fine crops. Heavy rains in September have retrieved both physical and mental conditions in agrarian Wisconsin to a point where local authorities claim that northern Illinois and these eastern and southern counties are in better shape than any other farm area of similar size.

Recent rises in dairy and poultry prices have been accompanied by a long delayed return in sales of dairy cattle and eggs from Wisconsin. More than a trainload of cows have been shipped into New Jersey, New York, Illinois, and the Ohio valley in August and September.

John Harris, Elkhorn banker, and Frank Johnson of Darien will show you that mixed feeds are selling at 50 to 55 per cent of their prices in January, 1930, while milk prices have dropped but 30 per cent.

Cheap Feed for Hogs.

Several hog farmers declared they expected to "break even" at least with hogs at a nickel a pound, because they could buy barley, corn, and oil feeds at less than half what they cost when hogs were selling at 9 to 10 cents.

These are the men who can carry through, some of them owners of farms, some tenants. In the main the successful men are relatively free from debt, are able to keep labor within the family and a hired hand are not needing new buildings or machinery because they cared for what they had, and who kept soil fertility up constantly while their neighbors were being "spoiled" by war time prices.

There is not a county in the southern half of Wisconsin that does not have ten to forty such farmers, able men who were ready for these "weeding out" times—but you don't hear from or about them till you meet them at work.

"If it were not for the increase in taxes I would have just as much net profit this year as I had any year since 1921," declared John M., Rock county farmer.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The growing importance of Milwaukee as a great lakes port is shown by a study just completed by the board of engineers for rivers and harbors in coöperation with the bureau of operations of the United States shipping board. Although tenth among great lakes ports in 1930 in terms of trade tonnage, Milwaukee ranked first from the standpoint of domestic commerce handled.

"Due principally to the great volume of car ferry traffic in valuable goods, Milwaukee in 1930 ranked first in lake ports, from the standpoint of domestic commerce handled, although in terms of tonnage its total trade was exceeded by ten other lake ports," the war department stated. "It is prominent in the grain trade, being one of the group of four great lakes ports which ship practically all of the enormous volume of grain flowing eastward over the lakes. "Its position in this trade, the report states, is due to the fact that its natural tributary area on the west, which includes the principal grain producing states, is one of the most important grain growing territories in the world.

HELD FOR DEATH PLOT AS BOMB IN AUTO SLAYS TWO

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Believed to be the victims of a misdirected murder plot, Albert Farmer, 21, was killed, and his brother, T. S. Farmer, 18 years old, was injured fatally near here today when a dynamite charge exploded underneath the seat of an automobile truck which they had borrowed.

Harvey Thompson, brother-in-law of Mark Wanless, owner of the truck and a welder in Harrisburg, was seized by Sheriff Eugene Choisser and held for questioning. It was reported that Wanless recently beat his wife, who is Thompson's sister.

Fire Bullets from Auto Into Restaurant Window

Men in a passing automobile fired several bullets early this morning into the restaurant of Henry Raymond at 212 East Erie street. Raymond ran to the street and returned the fire. A little later more shots were fired into the restaurant. Raymond told the Chicago avenue police he knew of no motive for the shooting.

CHICAGO PILOT AND PASSENGER DIE IN CRASH

Andrew Kelson, Chicago pilot, and his passenger, Charles W. Suhr of Beverly Hills, Cal., were killed yesterday when a Lockheed Vega plane owned by Ray Navin of Chicago and piloted by Kelson on chartered trips crashed in a field in Leavenworth county, Kansas. Kelson was 32 and resided at 6252 South Central avenue. He is survived by his widow and smal son.

Farmers reported Kelson was attempting a forced landing because of fog, and had descended close to the ground when the engine sputtered and a wing dragged, causing the crash. Suhr chartered the plane early yesterday and planned to leave at 2:30 a. m., but the start was delayed until 4:30 a. m. by weather conditions.

ROBBERS TIE UP VICTIM; HOLD HIS FLAT FOR 4 HOURS

Two armed men entered the flat of James Hart and Charles Roberts on the third floor at 7145 Yates avenue and bound and gagged Hart early last evening. They then packed all the clothing of both men in eight suitcases. After waiting more than four hours for Roberts, the robbers left shortly before 1 a. m., taking the suitcases with them. Hart was released by Roberts when he returned home.

GRIFFITH TESTS SCHAAF'S RING PUNCH TONIGHT

JEAN ARMSTRONG LOSES TO MRS. VARE IN U. S. GOLF

...SS VAN WIE IS ONLY CHICAGO PLAYER TO WIN

Gale Raises Havoc with Shots.

Today's Pairings

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Pairings for the second round of the women's national golf championship tourney here tomorrow are:

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare vs. Mrs. Charles Eddis.

Miss Maureen Orcutt vs. Miss Jane Weil.

Miss Virginia Van Wie vs. Miss Frances Williams.

Miss Marion Hollins vs. Miss Helen Hicks.

Mrs. Leona Pressler vs. Miss Enid Wilson.

Mrs. L. C. Nelson vs. Mrs. L. C. Nelson.

Miss Marjorie Kerr vs. Miss Jane Brooks.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A blustery gale, which swept in from the Lake Erie, did not deter Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare from advancing toward her sixth national women's golf championship here today, when she defeated Joan Armstrong of Chicago, 4 and 4, in a first round match.

Or how they call it a lake breeze. In Chicago it would be a gale. And what it did to the balloon ball was a sight. The light pellet acted like a big ping pong ball as it described wide arcs and went about everywhere except the places intended.

Mrs. Vare had trouble with her own control for the first few holes, but she soon pulled away, to win as she pleased.

Miss Brooks Beaten.

In the biggest upset of the opening round, Jane Brooks, Nyack, N. Y., defeated Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, 3 and 1. Miss Brooks had been off her game all summer and was not figured to put up much of an opponent with the western champion, who yesterday tied for the qualifying medal.

Maureen Orcutt, flashing a burst of 40 per cent golf, advanced to the second round when she trounced Jane Broadwell of Springfield, Mass., 4 and 3. A sensational start stood Maureen in good stead, inasmuch as she slipped on wet ways after clicking off the first six holes in three under even par.

Enid Wilson, British women's champion, scored a 3 and 1 victory over Estelle Brewer of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Leona Pressler, former western champion, defeated Martha Parker of Westchester, N. Y., 1 up, in an exciting match that went to the final green.

Mrs. Lake Off Game.

Enid Wilson, West Virginia champion, defeated Mrs. Harley G. Higbie of Detroit, 1 up. Mrs. Higbie was one of four players who tied for the qualifying medal yesterday.

Mrs. L. C. Nelson of Dayton, O., moved into the second round after a hard struggle with Ada McKenzie of Toronto, former Canadian champion. The match ended on the home green with Mrs. Nelson winning, 1 up.

Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, Long Island women's champion, fell before Virginia Van Wie of Chicago. Marion never could get started and rounded the turn in 40 strokes to be 3 down. She played on even terms on the incoming holes, but the holes soon ran out and she bowed out of the picture on the 16th green.

Mildred Hackl Loses.

Helen Hicks, metropolitan and eastern women's champion, pounded her way through the gale to a 6 and 5 triumph over Mildred Hackl of Chicago. Frances Williams of Philadelphia, last year's eastern titlist, eliminated Betty Abernathy of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Leo G. Federman of Long Island, semi-finalist in this event last year, moved a 6 and 4 victory over Mrs. Leon Solomon of Fort Worth, Tex., while Mrs. Helen Payson Cornish, former Canadian champion, was defeated Mrs. Henri Prunaret of Paris, 6 and 3.

Marion Hollins, 1921 national champion, advanced a step when she downed Mrs. Roy Green of California, 3 and 2.

Miss June Beebe, another Chicagoan, carried Marjorie Kerr of England to the 20th hole before she finally succumbed to the English woman's sturdy game. Mrs. Charles Eddis of Toronto, Ont., entered the second round by defeating Mrs. Arthur Harmer of Buffalo, 3 and 2.

NEW RACE TRACK LEASE IS PASSED BY COMMISSION

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Illinois commerce commission today approved a lease by John Patton of Lake Forest of land from the Illinois Central railroad in Cicero, to be used for a horse racing track. The tract was leased for three years at $1,500 a day.

DE PAUL BEATS DETROIT, 12 TO 0, IN FOURTH PERIOD

Doody, Roach Score in Surprise Victory.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—De Paul university's football team tonight gave Chicago Legionnaires, here to attend their national convention, something to cheer about by defeating the University of Detroit, 12 to 0. The result was regarded as a surprise even to the Chicagoans, who apparently did not realize their power.

Both touchdowns came in the final quarter, the first when Doody, who replaced Flood at quarter back, went around right end for three yards, and the second when Roach intercepted a pass and raced 48 yards.

De Paul's players, appearing heavier and more rangy than the Titans, never permitted Detroit to make a sustained march. And for three quarters the visitors could make little headway.

De Paul Nears Goal.

When the fourth quarter started De Paul was within the Detroit 20 yard line. Steffen went around end for four yards and Jablonski plunged through center to the two yard line. The Titans then threw Butcher for a yard loss.

De Paul immediately called time out and Coach Eddie Anderson sent Doody to quarter back. On the next play the newcomer dashed around end for the first touchdown. Steffen missed the try for the extra point.

Detroit then received and started a march that had the De Paul forces worried. O'Neill carried Steffen's kickoff 25 yards to his own 35 yard line. O'Neill picked up 17 more yards on an end run. The Blue Demons held Shearer, but on the next play he made five yards. O'Neill's pass was grounded and on fourth down Shearer tried his luck at passing. The ball sailed into the hands of Roach, De Paul end, and he sprinted 48 yards to cross the goal line. Steffen again missed the extra point, but the Chicago Legionnaires didn't mind as the game ended a few minutes later.

15,000 Fans Attend.

The evening was ideal for the 15,000 spectators, but not suitable for football. Lineup:

DETROIT [0.]		DE PAUL [12].

CARDINALS VOTE TO SPLIT MONEY INTO 30 SHARES

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Cardinals, 1931 National league champions, today voted to split into 30 equal shares their winnings in the coming world series with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Each one of the 25 players, Manager Gabby Street, Secretary Clarence Lloyd, Coach Clyde Wares, Trainer Harrison Weaver and Assistant Trainer Kirby Samuels, will come in for one-thirtieth of the team's "take," which will be either 60 or 40 per cent of the competing teams' pot from receipts of the first four series games. The team winning the world championship gets the 60 per cent.

The players also voted $500 to Groundkeeper Bill Stockesick,

FOOTBALL for the FAN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In football the ball is put in play by a kickoff. The ball is returned to play by the same procedure after the try for the point following a touchdown, after a field goal and at the start of the second half.

At the start of the game the team captain who has won the toss of the coin has the right to choose [1] which goal he will defend, or [2] if he will kick off, or [3] if he will receive the kickoff. The other captain has the choice of the remaining alternatives.

Do not forget that a team defends its goal. It advances toward its opponent's goal line. As a result when a team is said to be on its OWN 40 yard line, it is 60 yards from its opponent's goal line, or, in short, it is 60 yards from a touchdown.

Ball Cannot Be Teed for Kickoff.

The ball is kicked off from the kicking team's own 40 yard line or back of it. The ball may be held by a player, but it cannot be teed up or held above the ground. All members of the kicking team, except the man holding the ball, must remain behind the line from which the ball is kicked until it is sent on its way. The penalty is loss of five yards.

No member of the receiving team may approach nearer than 10 yards before the ball is kicked.

Both teams [22 players] may recover a kickoff.

The ball must be kicked at least 10 yards before the kicking team has the right to recover unless it is touched by an opponent.

If the ball is kicked out of bounds along either side line without any player catching and holding it [called gaining possession and control], although he may have touched the ball before it went out of bounds, the ball is kicked off a second time. If it again goes out of bounds as described the ball becomes the possession of the receiving team which puts it in play by scrimmage on its own 40 yard line.

Kick Into End Zone; It's a Touchdown.

If the ball is kicked into the receiving team's end zone and is recovered by the receiving team the receiving team puts the ball in play by scrimmage on its own 20 yard line. This is a touchback and has no scoring value.

If the kicking team recovers the ball in the receiving team's end zone it is a touchdown.

The receiving team, of course, may run with the ball. The receiving team also may pass the ball laterally or backward. It may kick the ball back to the team which has just kicked off. This return kick is seldom used.

If the team which kicked off recovers the ball the man recovering cannot run with the ball.

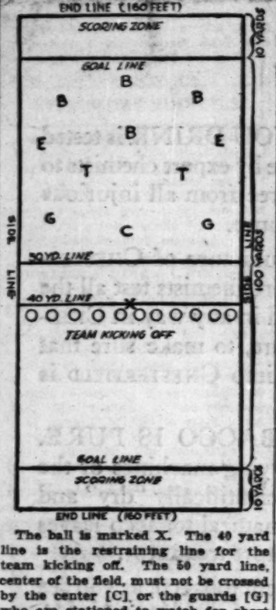
At least one of the players of the team kicking off does not race down field. He could, but the coach prefers to have a "safety" man who watches for a return kick or is a last defense to stop a runner who has eluded the other men. This is accepted gridiron strategy. Sometimes two players may be kept back.

Receiving Team Begins Lining Up 10 Yards Away.

The receiving team's players may line up in any position providing they remain 10 yards distant from the line from which the ball is kicked. Customarily they spread out to cover the field.

If the ball is kicked over the goal posts or cross bar of the goal posts [a distance of 70 yards since the posts are erected on the end line], it does not score a field goal. It is automatically a touchback and the receiving team gains possession.

A diagram of the field and the customary lineups of the kicking and receiving teams follows:



The ball is marked X. The 40 yard line is the restraining line for the team kicking off. The 50 yard line, center of the field, must not be crossed by the center [C] or the guards [G] who are stationed to watch for short kicks. The other players are indicated as tackles [T], ends [E], and backs [B]. Thus, on most kickoffs the players best equipped by speed and ability to carry the ball will receive the ball.

[Tomorrow's article will describe the touchdown, field goal, and safety. The safety frequently is confused with the touchback.]

Jens, Manske Lead Duel for N. U. End Post

Art Jens and Ed Manske, two sophomores, appear to have the edge in the free for all struggle for the left end job on Northwestern's football squad.

Although neither Jens nor Manske has shown signs of being another Frank Baker, their work in yesterday's long scrimmage was satisfactory. Jens hails from Wheaton, Ill., the same town as Ollie Olson, a full back candidate. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. Manske, who comes from Nekorsa, Wis., also is tall, being 6 feet 1 inch.

Backs' Catching Improves.

A number of backs have displayed improvement in the aerial department which may result in another shuffling of the back field combination. Among those showing a knack at catching passes were Moore, Jakie Sullivan, and George Potter, the latter two being sophomores.

Sullivan, a product of Loyola academy, caught the eye of the coaches in spring practice and continues to prove

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—The weary White Sox hobbled off the Washington baseball sward this afternoon, licked again, 7 to 2, for their tenth consecutive defeat in a tour of the east that began with an exhausting spell of 46 innings in two double headers in two days. Without reserve strength and with most of their regulars pretty well worn by the heavy duty at the beginning of the invasion, they came to the end of their eastern season in a jolting defeat today.

Red Faber, the Sox starting pitcher, wasn't right and the first six hitters to face him and Al Thomas, who rushed to his relief, had scored before a man was out. Thus, the decision was reached in the first few minutes and the remainder of the game was merely a forlorn effort of the Sox to come from behind and a calm, easy program of defensive work for the Senators.

Blue Stakes Sox to Run.

Lu Blue began the entertainment with a hit and staked his troupe to a run before the customers had helped themselves to the peanuts. Sullivan's deft sacrifice sent him to second, a wild pitch by Carl Fischer put him on third and Jolley scored him with a fly to center.

That run wasn't many runs when the Senators began to trifle with Faber. Myer beat out a hit to Blue and Rice put him on third with a single to center. The reliable Blue then pulled a faux pas, cuffing Manush's grounder, so Heinie was safe, Myer scored and Rice took second. West singled to right, scoring Rice. Cronin's double brought Manush in and sent West to third.

Plainly, by now, all was not entirely well with Faber, so Donie Bush ran up signal flags calling in Al Thomas, who walked Kuhel, filling the bases. Bluege then hit a long drive to left, clearing the bases, and the score was 6 to 1.

Spencer Helps Out.

Spencer, the eighth hitter, was the first man out, on a fly to right, but Fischer seemed to want some more runs for his margin, so he singled to short and advanced on Myer's sacrifice. The firing ceased when Rice hit a fly to Fothergill.

Fothergill pulled the greatest trick of the series in the second. Manush had singled. West went out to Norman and Cronin now singled to Fothergill, who fumbled long enough to

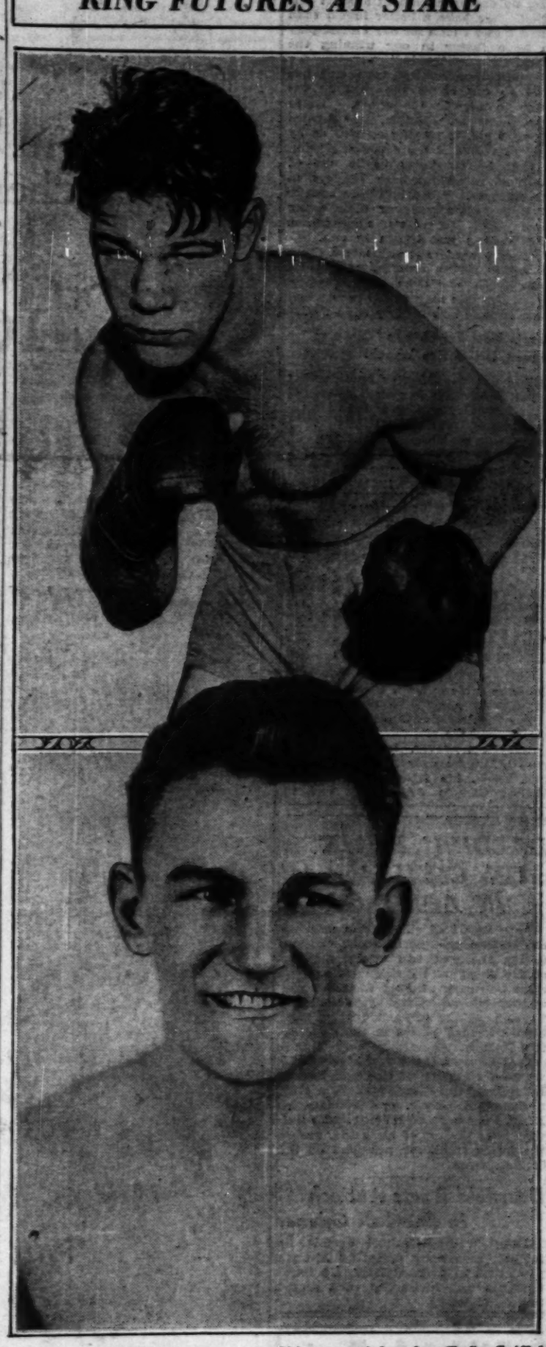
RING FUTURES AT STAKE



Heavyweight boxing returns to Chicago tonight when Tuffy Griffith (above) seeks reinstatement to the headline ranks by victory over Ernie Schaaf (below) of Boston. Schaaf is after his eighth consecutive knockout. The bout opens the Stadium's indoor season.

LOUGHRAN JABS SEKYRA TO 10 ROUND DEFEAT

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia's dancing master, jabbed his way to a victory on points over Joe Sekyra, Dayton, O., heavyweight, in a ten round bout at the Queensboro stadium tonight. A crowd of nearly 15,000 saw the bout.

Loughran, a heavy favorite as a result of his recent victories over Max Baer, Tuffy Griffith, and Victorio Campolo, was hard pressed to beat back the determined challenge of the Dayton Bohemian.

Sekyra made a fight of it all the way, and in the seventh round had Loughran in distress with a right cross to the jaw. With a possible knockout in sight, the Ohioan charged in with both fists and gave the Philadelphia veteran a bad beating about the body.

Loughran, however, weathered that storm and in a majority of the other rounds piled up a margin on points with his left hand. Only in the sixth and tenth rounds did Tommy flash any of the punching power that so surprised the experts in his match with Campolo. He hurt Sekyra with rights in the sixth round and had the Dayton trial horse bewildered with a two fisted attack in the tenth.

BOSTON BOXER SEEKS EIGHTH STRAIGHT K. O.

Open Indoor Season at Stadium.

Tonight's Card

Tuffy Griffith vs. Ernie Schaaf [10].
Leo Scozza vs. Larry Johnson [8].
Dave Maier vs. Tiger Thomas.
John Schwake vs. Salvatore Ruggirello [6].
Kelly Schuman vs. Hymie Wiseman [3].
Phil Ross vs. Pep Juste [3].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight who has been knocking fighters right and left in eastern rings, meets Tuffy Griffith tonight at the Chicago Stadium. It marks the opening of the indoor boxing season.

Schaaf is seeking his eigth consecutive knockout. His devastating blows have stopped Jim Maloney [twice], Jack Gagnon, Leo Williams, Andy Snyder, Vittorio Campolo, and Roberto Roberti since last spring.

In the last year Griffith has won six fights and lost two ten round decisions. Tommy Loughran and Young Stribling have beaten him.

Sharpshooters Divided.

On these figures tonight's match appears to be the best heavyweight contest Chicago will see this winter, since it is unlikely that Schmeling, Sharkey or Loughran [who are ranked ahead of Schaaf by the National Boxing Association] will meet a major opponent here.

Schaaf and Griffith concluded their training yesterday. Both are reported in condition. They will appear at the offices of the Illinois athletic commission this afternoon for examination.

As usual, when Griffith fights there is diverse opinion of the outcome. Some critics believe Schaaf's superior weight and his powerful left hook will produce victory. The counter claims match Griffith's intelligence and speed against Schaaf's advantages.

Schaaf to Get $10,000.

The controversy has produced excellent box office business. President Sidney Strotz of the Stadium yesterday predicted a $40,000 sale. In his opinion 15,000 will see the fight.

Schaaf will receive $10,000 for his performance tonight. Griffith will be paid a percentage of the net receipts, which, however, probably will exceed Schaaf's salary. The last time Griffith appeared in a Chicago ring he defeated Con O'Kelly. That night he received less than $2,000. This varying earning power is supposed to cause a fighter to strive for victory at all times. By winning he creates a demand for his services which means higher wages.

The wage scales are no secret, as both Griffith and his opponent are engaged in an elemental business rivalry. Defeat will be an almost insurmountable setback for either.

Five Supporting Bouts.

Schaaf may fail to knock out Griffith. Tuffy, on the basis of his year's record, probably cannot knock out Schaaf. An even decision would not help either in demand for a bout with the heavyweight leaders. There are some fans who believe that tonight's decision will be a draw, but neither fighter had seriously considered this conclusion in his advance statements.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis has contracted with ten other fighters to entertain tonight at the Stadium. These men are not as highly regarded as Schaaf and Griffith, but several of them are skilled workers. It is possible these fights will be more interesting than the highly paid finalists.

Lou Scozza and Larry Johnson, the latter a Chicago Negro, will fight for eight rounds. Dave Maier, a young Milwaukee light heavyweight, and Tiger Thomas, also have agreed to an eight round bout.

Schwake Meets Ruggirello.

John Schwake, a farmer boy, who weighs 200 pounds, and a New York fighter, Salvatore Ruggirello, are matched for six rounds. These professionals are not fast or clever. They are expected to hammer wildly at each other.

Two of the lighter professionals, Solly Schuman and Hymie Wiseman, will demonstrate for five rounds. In this match it is believed their speed and fast jabs will be an entertaining contrast to the larger men.

Phil Ross and Pep Juste, both of Chicago, will begin the schedule of fights with a five round bout. These fighters will weigh 152 pounds.

Mr. Strotz announced yesterday that the Stadium's winter season would begin tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

CARDINALS OPEN LEAGUE SEASON IN PORTSMOUTH

The Chicago Cardinals will make their National league debut against the Spartans at Portsmouth, O., today.

Irvin Hill, quarter back and leading blocker of the eleven, will be unable to play because of a shoulder injury. Hal Hilpirt of Oklahoma City U., a newcomer on the squad, will fill the vacancy.

Coach Andrew announced that his probable starting lineup would be: Vesser and Kassel, ends; Cobb and Slater, tackles; Diehl and Kiesling, guards; Erickson, center, and backs, Hilpirt, Nevers, Glasgow and Homer.

MACKS CONQUER TIGERS, 8-6, FOR 105TH TRIUMPH

Champions Surpass Total for 1929 Season.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The Athletics made full use of eight hits off three Detroit pitchers today to register their 105th victory of the season, 8 to 6. They surpassed their own record for Mack teams of 104 triumphs in 1929.

Jimmy Foxx hit his 30th home run of the season. Mark Koenig, Detroit shortstop, pitched four innings. George Earnshaw was credited with his 21st win of the year. Score:

Sox Quit East with 10th Loss in Row, 7 to 2

duce Manush into a dash for third. There he found Sullivan waiting to put the ball on him after a quick recovery and accurate throw.

The Senators took the floor again in the fourth. Myer singled to center, advanced to second on Rice's single and reached third on a sacrifice by Gill, who had entered the game in right field to hit in place of Manush. West's fly brought him home with the final run of a great sufficiency for Washington.

Rice Busy on Arithmetic.

Sam Rice, preoccupied with problems in mental arithmetic relating to his share of the world series pool, could not remember to switch to the sun field in left when Gill entered the game for Manush. Sam had started in right field, but Walter Johnson switched him over when Gill appeared. But come next inning he jogged right back to his old stand and seemed disposed to argue it out until the customers reminded him in the blunt, raucous humor of the customers in such cases.

Grant Bowler pitched the seventh and eighth for the White Sox, allowing just one of the Senators' eleven hits. Fischer needed no help and finished his job unchallenged at any time, unless a run in the ninth could be valued as a challenge to a 6 run lead. In this instance Fothergill led off with a hit to left, Norman fouled out and Appling forced Fothergill, Fischer to Myer. Kerr walked and Garrity's double brought Appling home. The battered Grube, trying to hit for Bowler, struck out to close the show and the eastern season for the Sox.

The Senators took no fielding practice and only a few minutes of hitting drives so busy were they with their soviet meeting in the clubhouse deciding which members are to get full shares and which ones mere tips when they get their world series pool for finishing second or third.

Second Base Combination One Reason for Cards' Success

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—So far in this series of pieces for the paper we have confined our attention to the St. Louis Cardinal pitchers, figuring that they are destined to have a big job on their hands to keep down the Athletics to clusters of runs smaller than the Cards will be able to glean off Grove and Earnshaw. But now we want to write about some other good baseball players.

For instance, ponder the class the Cards have in the region of second base—the captain, Frankie Frisch, who will be participating in his seventh world series, and their shortstop, Charley Gelbert, St. Louis' outstanding star in last year's affair, the first world series in which he participated.

Frisch says that the present Cardinal team is the best of the seven pennant winners on which he has played and that one of the reasons is that they have a sensational shortstop in Gelbert. Gelbert says that the Cards are plenty good because Frisch is the greatest second baseman in baseball, along with other reasons that include special praise for Sparky Adams and Jim Bottomley.

Lack of Heroes Makes for Smooth Team Play.

Frisch has other reasons for proclaiming the Cards the best of his seven pennant winners. Listen to him talk:

"The Cards are a great ball club because they all are high class ball players. There is no outstanding hero on the club and that makes for smooth and spirited team play.

"Gelbert is a fine shortstop and I have been delighted with the work of Adams this year. By settling down to one spot, something he couldn't do last year because of his general infield ability, Sparky has been a standout at third base. Many think his filling of the spot so ably has been the reason the Cardinals have been so steady this year, as contrasted with their spotty spells in other years. I certainly will give no one an argument against this belief. We have a better infield than the A's and I look for our unified play to be a factor in our winning the world's championship."

Frisch is a modest man and has little to say about the part he expects to play in the series. Right now, however, Frankie, just turned 33 years old, is playing as well as he ever played. And the surprising thing is that he continues to be one of the most startling base runners in the business. When infielders become 33 they generally favor their aging pins. But from all appearances Frankie has just begun to run.

Frisch's name appears many times in world series records, and since Babe Ruth won't be in this world series, Frankie may take over several other records now held by the Babe.

Here's How Frisch Has Proved His Series Worth.

Here are world series records that Frisch holds [or has tied], some of which probably will be added to without threats from others:

Most times at bat in world series	139
Most times at bat, inning	2 [tie]
Most runs, inning	2 [tie]
Most base hits, total series	45
Most base hits, game	4 [tie]
Most singles, total series	35

And, since this thing has taken a statistical turn, you may as well peruse Frankie's other world series figures:

	AB	R	H	SB	B. avg.
Giants, 1921	30	5	9	3	.300
Giants, 1922	17	3	8	1	.471
Giants, 1923	25	2	10	0	.400
Giants, 1924	30	1	10	1	.333
Cards, 1928	13	1	3	3	.231
Cards, 1930	24	0	5	1	.208

We've already said that Frisch is Gelbert's athletic hero, whom he credits with teaching him many of the things that have advanced him in the baseball business.

Gelbert, however, had an athletic hero before he ever heard of Frisch. You know, his father was the late Walter Camp's All-America end in 1894, '95, and '96, and, although Charley wasn't born until ten years after Gelbert Sr. had quit playing football for Pennsylvania, the hero business was pretty much of a fixture in his boyhood interests.

We have no such long list of statistics to present in the case of Gelbert as we did anent Frisch, but look what Charley's record was in the world series last fall:

At bat.	Runs.	Hits.	Bat. avg.
17	3	6	.353

Frisch and Gelbert are all right, but they wouldn't get very far in the world series without the services of a couple of gents we're going to talk about tomorrow, Jim Bottomley and Sparky Adams.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

POTPOURRI.

FORECASTING sports events is precarious business. We writers who are supposed to do that very thing for the enlightenment or amusement of readers often shudder at the task. The Wake, in particular, has become familiar with guffaws because our stunt is to name in advance scores for the more important football contests. And how followers of the eleven which upsets the apple cart do like to offer a few raxberries. Usually the jibes are offered good naturedly and just as good naturedly received.

Because of this tendency to rass so-called "experts," we call attention to baseball predictions made before the opening of the season last spring by our co-workers, Irving Vaughan and Ed Burns. Make allowance, if you will, for partisanship they must, of necessity, feel for the local teams, both of which proved disappointing, and probably you'll agree the predictions were rather remarkable.

Irving Vaughan figured the American league race: 1. Philadelphia; 2. Washington; 3. New York; 4. Cleveland; 5. Detroit; 6. Chicago; 7. St. Louis; 8. Boston.

Ed Burns called the National league finish in this order: 1. St. Louis or Chicago; 2. New York; 4. Brooklyn; 5. Pittsburgh; 6. Boston; 7. Philadelphia; 8. Cincinnati.

Top Flight's victory in the Belmont Futurity Saturday stamps her as champion 2 year old. That will only add to the uncertainties of the Kentucky Derby next spring as tradition is against fillies winning Derbies. Some owners prefer not to race their 3 year old misses against the opposite sex for this reason. The Whitney family [Top Flight is owned by C. V. Whitney], however, has a habit of sending its youngsters out for all fixtures for which they are in condition, accepting victory or defeat with equal sportsmanship. That prompts the opinion that Top Flight will be raced, if she trains on, for the principal fixtures of 1932 open to both sexes.

Just think of it, three Big Ten elevens will open their season next Saturday. Hope the players don't have to wear ice packs.

It has been proved that athletic games and competitive sports instill loyalty, persistence, courage and charity—when taught correctly. And when the games are over for a boy, if he goes through life as he played a game, doing his best, trying more than ONCE to reach a goal, cooperating with his team, and not being afraid of a few bumps—surely his moral as well as his physical qualities will be the highest and noblest he could possess.

BOWLING LEAGUE MEETS.

The first meeting of the season of the Royal League National Bowling association will be held tonight in the organization's headquarters, 14th floor, Stevens building.

An eminent scientist writes the head chemist in our Research Department:

"Chesterfield Cigarettes are just as pure as the water you drink"

THE WATER YOU DRINK is tested from time to time by expert chemists to make sure that it is free from all injurious substances—that it is pure.

So it is in the manufacture of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes. Expert chemists test all the materials that are used in any way in CHESTERFIELD'S manufacture, to make sure that everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is just right.

THE LEAF TOBACCO IS PURE. Long steel ovens—drying machines of the most modern type—scientifically "dry" and clean and purify the natural tobacco leaves by exact high-temperature treatment.

Then the shreds of cut tobacco, as you see them in your CHESTERFIELD, are again heated, cleaned and purified. From these pure tobaccos the cigarettes are made, and only the purest paper—the best that can be made—is used for CHESTERFIELD.

Cigarettes used to be made in an old-fashioned way, by hand. Now, no hand but yours touches CHESTERFIELD—another purity safeguard.

CHESTERFIELDS are made and packed in clean, sanitary factories where even the air is changed every four and one-half minutes—purity again.

ALL THIS CARE is taken to give you CHESTERFIELDS as nearly perfect as cigarettes can be made. Delivered in a moisture-proof, sealed package, they reach you just as good, just as pure as when they leave the factory. Good . . . they've got to be good—they're just as pure as the water you drink!

BALDING, BLAIR ON CIVILIAN 4 IN ARMY GAME

As a result of elimination matches on various polo fields about Chicago during the past two weeks, makeup of the Army and civilian teams that meet Saturday at Fort Sheridan was announced as virtually completed. Three members of each quartet have been conceded places in their respective lineups.

Carl Crawford, six goal star of Milwaukee, formerly of Chicago; Barney Balding of the Oak Brook Polo club, a five goal player, and William M. Blair, teammate of Balding, who likewise is at the top of his game, are on the inside track for positions on the civilian team.

Athlete's Foot Is No Joke

Look Out You Haven't Got It!

You can't be too careful when you go to the beach or swimming pool these days that you don't catch Athlete's Foot.

(Or that some other member of the family doesn't bring it home to you.)

It's nothing to laugh about. If it gets going good, it can put you pretty thoroughly out of business—as ten million luckless Americans can tell you.

The first sign of it—as you have probably heard by this time—comes between your toes. Look out for itching, burning, cracks, blisters and dead-white, moist patches of skin.

If you don't get right after the infection it spreads to the soles of your feet and other parts of the body, and then your troubles begin.

Go after it with Moone's Emerald Oil. An 85c bottle will clean it up in a couple of weeks or money back.

Your druggist sells it on that basis, as do all other first class druggists in America.

Connie Mack Thinks Well of Mahaffey; May Start Him

(This is the tenth of a series of sketches on the Philadelphia Athletics.)

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—With reference to two rather sorrowful, bulging eyes like the deuce on a dice, the chaps of Connie Mack's ball club, in the usual blunt personal humor of professional ball players, soon took to calling Leroy Mahaffey the two spot or deuce. He came to them from the Coast league, where he had won a lot of ball games and run up his selling price, and now, at the end of his second season, he is about ready to settle into a job as a regular staff pitcher. It took him that long really to get acquainted with Connie Mack, personally, and Connie's rather paternal system of management and social supervision.

Mahaffey is 29 years old, a bricklayer by trade, and one of the strongest men in the major leagues just now. Connie had no real confidence in him last year, but this season he noted some new development, including an influential high hard ball and decided to risk more games on him. So Mahaffey won about 16 and the old man now thinks so well of him that when the world series goes into the third or fourth game Mahaffey may be called on as a starting pitcher. That is, if Grove and Earnshaw do not alternate as starting pitchers all the way.

Mack Prefers Young Hurler with Vigor.

Mahaffey seems certain to be the next choice, above Rube Walberg and Waite Hoyt. He is not as wise as Hoyt, of course, for Hoyt has had much world series experience and years of routine pitching in the American league, but the objection to Hoyt, a third choice, is that he throws the sort of throwing that the Cardinals are most familiar with, using head and arm in equal proportions. Connie would prefer a pitcher young and strong enough to squander sheer vigor when the time comes to bear down, provided he has normal intelligence.

THIRD CHOICE

Mahaffey is right handed by trade, but by temperament he is a compromise of the opposite, having certain distinct left handed or unconventional tendencies. For one thing, he is a good hitter, which is quite irregular in a pitcher, and when he is making his hits, including a number of home runs, he seems partial to balls that the umpires would not be likely to call strikes. They call him the wild pitch hitter and advices are that several times this year he has reached out and clouted long hits on pitches that otherwise would have wound up against the backstop.

He's Left Hander All of a Jumble.

Further confusion is noted in some of his other habits. He uses his fork and writes left handed, but counts money, deals cards, and tips his hat with his right and doesn't drink intoxicants with either. So, obviously, here is a left hander all of a jumble.

Mahaffey is not a reliable hitter, of course. That would be too much to ask of a pitcher, but he is no automatic pop out or strike out, as so many pitchers are, and he hits just enough long ones at dangerous moments to command the utmost respect at all times.

In pitching his principal assets are a cold, unimaginative nerve and speed which, combined with his willingness to go in and do a chore or a full time job at any time, have made him quite a fellow with Connie Mack.

You may expect to see or hear of him as a starting pitcher in the series.

County Police to Check War on Pheasants

BY BOB BECKER.

Cook county hunters who have been tramping over the landscape killing hen pheasants because the last legislature failed to put a ban on the taking of these birds should watch their step today. William F. Collins, chief of the Cook county highway police force, assured the Izaak Walton league last night that he would put his force to work to protect farmers against the trespassing hunters.

Today highway police will be ready to arrest hunters who ignore trespass signs and, wherever possible, gunners will be checked to see if they have hunting licenses and cock pheasants in their hunting jackets. The season on cock pheasants does not open until Nov. 10.

Work Under Trespass Law.

The county police will operate under the provisions of the Illinois trespass law, a strict section of the game code, which gives the landowner protection from hunters or others who would enter upon his acreage without permission. Failure to stay off posted land means a fine in court.

Backing the activities of the police force is the Cook County Association of Izaak Walton league chapters, of which D. L. Olcese is president. Olcese, Harold D. Fish, conservation director of the league, and Irving Edgar, state secretary of the Illinois division of the league, appealed to Chief Collins yesterday for help in saving Illinois' pheasant breeding stock, which during the last few days has suffered heavily.

Order Immediate Action.

It was decided to act immediately under the provisions of the trespass law and also to increase the posted lands in the county. Members of the league are furnishing "No Trespass" signs to farmers who wish to keep all hunters off their property. In the present crisis the trespass law is the only legal weapon which can be brought into action against the hunters who are killing hen pheasants, league officials said.

The serious situation confronting the conservation program in Illinois will be brought to the attention of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Josiah Treharne, president of the Illinois division of the Izaak Walton league, the conservation director of the league and others will confer with the governor in Springfield and urge the need of immediate legislation to amend the game code.

New Rule in South Dakota.

Limiting hunting to afternoons only and permitting hunters to take only three male birds each day, the South Dakota game commission has announced the details of the 1931 pheasant season. The season opens Oct. 15 and lasts until Oct. 26 in 42 eastern counties of the state.

As a conservation step, the South Dakota commission has cut the possession limit to six cock birds. Shipping tag privileges also have been restricted for residents, although the old provision allowing a nonresident hunter 25 shipping permits still stands.

Two Games to Tax Maroon's Reserve Supply

Preparation for the immediate problem facing his team, the doubleheader Saturday at Stagg field with Hillsdale and Cornell, occupies Coach Stagg this week. Stagg apparently will be troubled by a shortage of players, for the list of injured and ineligible men is bigger than he expected earlier in the week.

He also has a problem in balancing the strength of his squads. Last year the Maroons were hard put to it to defeat Hillsdale, 7 to 6, in the second game of a double header, and Hillsdale returns this season with eight of the men who faced Chicago last autumn.

There will be at least eight valuable men on the Maroons' bench Saturday, and the total may be greater. Pat Page Jr., Joe Temple, Don Birney, Louis Kanne, and Robert Auffdenspring, backs, are temporarily ineligible; Mackenzie is not in shape; Maneikis still has his arm in a cast, and the two reserve tackles, Gabel and Walsh, are hurt.

Except that he is perplexed by the difficulties presented by the doubleheader, Stagg is fairly well satisfied with his team. His ends are shaping up well, with Wien and Toigo holding the edge at present.

BLOCKING AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A drill in blocking was given the Michigan football candidates today in an effort to correct the faults which developed in the game played yesterday. A passing session took up the morning's two hours of practice.

The blocking workout resulted in a number of bruises, Lajeunesse and Kowalik guards, and Schmidt, full back, being badly shaken up.

Westover is coming to the front as second string quarter back and probably will understudy Harry Newman.

HEAT SLOWS BUCKEYES

Columbus, O., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Activities of the Ohio State football team were curtailed again today by the heat. Regular practice was not started until 5 o'clock and before long the field lights were called into use. Preparations were made for practice at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Brennan Named Chairman of Rockne Memorial Fund

James H. Brennan of Chicago has been appointed by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, chairman of the Rockne Memorial campaign in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Minnesota. The purpose of the campaign is to raise $1,000,000 to erect a field house at Notre Dame in memory of Knute Rockne. The campaign will be nation-wide. Brennan is president of the Notre Dame club of Chicago.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Red Grange, who Robert Zuppke says was the greatest college football player he has seen, doesn't agree with his old coach on his appraisal of professional football. Grange played under Zuppke for three years at Illinois. He is now in his seventh year among the professionals.

While Zuppke made it clear that he has no quarrel with pro football, you may recall that he recently sized up the sport as follows:

1. It is motion without emotion.
2. Pro players carry too much weight.
3. They have lost their zest for the game.
4. There are no directing heads to weld the representatives of various systems into a coördinated attack and defense.
5. Players are inclined to "save" themselves.
6. A strong college team will beat a strong professional team any day.

Whatever Zuppke has to say about football is interesting, because he is one of the greatest leaders the game has developed. That is why we put his remarks into print. The ink hardly was dry before George Halas, Dr. Jones, and other professional owners and players rushed to the defense of their sport.

And now comes Red Grange, a star in both games, to air his opinions.

"Zupp is talking about pro football of ten years ago," Red said. "I don't think he realizes the tremendous strides the game has made in the last decade. I have played on good college teams and on good professional clubs and I am ready to go on record that there is no college team that can whip any of the leading professional elevens and there hasn't been for a good many years.

"Take the Illinois team of 1924. That was the year we whipped Michigan, 39 to 14. It was the strongest of the Illinois teams on which I played. The Bears this year would defeat the 1924 Illinois eleven by at least two touchdowns.

"I give Zuppke credit for all he has done for me. He taught me all there was to know about playing left half back. But I have learned a lot of football since leaving Illinois. I wasn't in the pro game long until I realized it was important to know something about the other positions, too.

"Zuppke often used to say that if we could stay with him for eight or ten years he would have a football team. Well, that's the advantage the professional coaches have over the college men. They can keep their talent as long as it measures up to required standard.

"There seems to be an impression that professional players do not train. People who believe it never have been around our practice field. We work out every day from 9 a. m. until noon. After lunch we come back for an hour's chalk drill. Show me the college team that puts in more than four hours of daily practice.

"This talk about the pro players being anxious to 'save' themselves is the bunk. I never have noticed any opponent 'saving' himself when I tried to get away. Michigan tried no harder to stop me in 1924 than Green Bay, the Cardinals, or some of the other clubs I go up against in pro football.

"Just a word about the coaches who are handling pro football. As I remarked before, I have the highest regard for Zuppke. I don't think there is a smarter man coaching college football. But I'll rank Ralph Jones, coach of the Bears, with any college coach now in service. He has ideas all his own. No leader gets better results out of his players."

Comment—Let Zuppke have his opinion and let Grange have his. One of them is wrong. Until the matter is settled I am for both of them.

Second String Shows Power at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The second string or shock troop back field stole the show today in a Notre Dame scrimmage.

Little Mike Koken, star of Saturday's scrimmage, repeated his feat of scoring three times against a stubborn frosh squad. He also threw long, accurate passes to Host and Devore at the ends and to the other half backs.

His supporting cast included Emmett Murphy, reserve quarter back from last year, who ran the team perfectly. Ray Brancheau, sophomore prospect, paved the way at right half for many of Koken's long gallops.

Dvonch Stops Adam Smith in 3d Round

Duffy Dvonch, Central A. A. U. heavyweight champion, advanced to the semi-finals of the Central A. A. U. senior championship tournament at the Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues, last night by scoring a technical knockout over Adam Smith, Rockford, Ill., in the third round. The semi-finals and final bouts will be held tonight.

Billy Celebron, also of Rockford, scored two victories to reach the semi-finals. Results:

147 Pound Class.
Billy Celebron knocked out Floyd Claming [1].
Einar Hedquist knocked out Harold Landy [2].
Mike Kamis knocked out Andy McGraham [3].

160 Pound Class.

SENSENEY HURT; OAK PARK SEEKS QUARTER BACK

Bob Senseney, veteran Oak Park quarter back, probably will be out of the lineup when the Villagers meet Austin, their traditional rival, Saturday afternoon at Oak Park field. Senseney was injured in one of the practice scrimmages.

Despite Senseney's absence, Coach Glenn Holmes believes Oak Park has a good chance to repeat last year's victory over Austin, for there are three other letter men in the back field, Capt. Bob Schwartz, Lester Jacob and Eddie Beldes.

"One of the heaviest and fastest back fields I have ever seen at St. Rita," said Coach Father Donovan yesterday, appraising the Saints' prospects. "With Quarter Back Bill Lang, Joe Ringbauer at left half, Ralph Jackowski at right half, and Joe Le Blanc at full back, Loyola can expect a stronger team Sunday afternoon than the one it defeated for the Catholic league championship last season."

Baseball, not football, is the locker-room topic in the Bowen camp. For Quarter Back Dick Shipway daily tells his mates how he helped the South Chicago American Legion team win the junior world series at Houston, Tex. Bowen travels to Benton Harbor, Mich., for its second game of the season Saturday.

The 1931 St. Mel squad will make its first appearance tomorrow night under the lights at Mills stadium, meeting St. Patrick.

Pat Keanelly, St. Phillip center, has joined Capt. Mahoney on the injured list. Keanelly suffered a fractured elbow and will be out for more than a month. Capt. Mahoney, however, probably will be in the lineup when St. Phillip meets Fenwick Friday night at Mills stadium.

Crane Tech candidates are engaging one of the most spirited contests for regular positions ever seen on the west side, according to Correspondent Phil Weigman. Coach Helland must have told them about that long trip to Allentown, Pa., Thanksgiving day, Phil opines.

"With six letter men—Dewar, Duncan, Kewecke, Dunn, Bracken, and Rust—Maine Township High school's lightweight team will be one of the West Suburban conference title contenders this season," writes Kenneth Hoffmaster. "Every lineman will weigh about 140 pounds, while the back field averages about 135 pounds."

Saving the Lives of Children

More to be feared than the diseases of childhood is the peril of street accidents. Eight thousand children killed in traffic accidents annually! We MUST reduce this terrible toll. It is being reduced, but the work must be extended and intensified.

The remedy is safety education. Do you realize how thoroughly the teachers in the public, parochial and Lutheran schools are spreading the doctrine of safety? More than a quarter of a million safety posters are distributed by the Chicago Motor Club annually. They are published monthly.

Last year the accident prevention department of the club organized 154 (1500 boys) new school boy patrol units in sixty-two counties in Illinois and northern Indiana.

This year the staff of the accident prevention department of the club has been increased 100%, consequently work with the patrol boys and with all the school children will be intensified. Work will be carried on in 3000 schools in club territory.

One hundred thousand members of the Chicago Motor Club are making this life saving work possible. Would you like to help? Write to the club, today

BADGERS SCRIMMAGE

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's football candidates were given another session of scrimmage today. Considerable time was devoted to this work though no individual was in more than ten or fifteen minutes. The plays were clicking better and Linfor and Elicker reeled off several long sprints. A feature was the plunging of John Schneller, varsity full back, who is steadier and his keeping the ball better than last year.

Walter (Mickey) McGuire, Hawaiian fullback and leading candidate for right half back and signal caller, turned up with a lame arm, sustained in Monday's clash and probably will be out of action at least ten days.

With the beginning of class work tomorrow, practice will go on a one a day schedule.

GOPHER END HURT

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Minnesota's end supply was reduced today when it was learned that Harold Anderson, three year man, had severely bruised the knee which gave him so much trouble last fall. He was hurt in practice Monday night, but the extent of the injury did not become known until he reported to trainer today.

Allen Teeter was moved from tackle to end. He has speed, stands 6 feet, and weighs 194 pounds.

Today's drill found the Gophers receiving more attention on getting down under punts. Pete Somers, finishing his third year on the squad, has been moved to the first string quarter back berth, alternating with Bill Uhl. Johnny Haas has been advanced to half back on the second team.

Hold Funeral Services for Corcoran on Friday

Funeral services for John Corcoran, father of Jimmy Corcoran, sports writer for the Evening American, will be held Friday morning at St. Ignatius church at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. The body will rest until Friday at the family residence, 6442 Glenwood avenue. Mr. Corcoran died yesterday of pneumonia following two weeks' illness.

one of the most promising sophomore ends. In scrimmages with the freshmen he has broken through for long gains. Sullivan is one of the smallest men on the squad, standing 5 feet 9 inches and weighing 160 pounds.

Several Wildcats were out of commission yesterday due to minor injuries. Al Moore, first string half back, has a pulled tendon in his leg, while Bob Russell still is bothered by a sore eye over his left eye.

ILLINI END DOUBLE WORK

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Double time for the Illinois football team will be cut in half tomorrow, its first day of classes. Coach Bob Zuppke's admission that his sophomore gridiron lads strength from tackle to tackle, as well as at full back, indicates how much the inexperienced but promising newcomers must develop in the next few days before the Purdue game on Oct. 3.

Only the ends and certain of the back field men meet the coaches' approval. Zuppke declared Schustek and Hall to be above the average, while Buchter, Bailey, and Steinman also are competent enough to worry the regulars of last season.

In the back field, Gil Berry's running mates probably will be chosen from Stanley, Walser, Charla, Cook, Hall, and Heavely.

HOOSIERS SLOW DOWN

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—The Indiana university football team was put through a light workout today to allow the men to get from the strenuous work of yesterday. There will be another hard session tomorrow and then Thursday and Friday will be taken easy so that the men will be in condition Saturday for the invasion of Ohio university.

The Dauer brothers may appear side by side in the back field. Vic is a veteran of the squad while Ray, his younger brother, is making his debut as a varsity man. Jones is outstanding in his first year as a full back.

IOWA HUNTS TACKLES

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Offensive scrimmage against a reserve line occupied most of today's practice at Iowa. Coach Ingwersen outlined his hunt for tackle material, using Samuelson, Dee, Meither, and Isler.

Lowe, a fast back and good passer, signal quarter back, replacing Isbell, a capable blocker. Last year's regulars, Hickman and Kriz, Olsen, and Hansen, full, completed the back field. Merten and Fisher, ends; Dolly and Hantelmann, guards, and Hagensen, center, rounded out the line.

SCHRIVER, JIU JITSU CHAMP, TO DEFEND CROWN

T. John Schriver, national brown belt jiu jitsu champion, will defend his title against J. C. Schaeffer Pacific coast champion, in a match at the Jiu Jitsu studio, 22 East Huron street, tomorrow at 2 o'clock. Schriver, an employe of THE TRIBUNE composing room, won his championship in the national tournament at the University of Chicago last spring. Classes in jiu jitsu wrestling are designated by the color of the belt worn by the wrestler which indicates the degree of proficiency he has attained in the sport. The brown belt is one of the highest ranking classes.

PANSY WALKER'S RUSH CONQUERS ALL IN STRETCH

Comes from Behind to Beat Don Leon.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Pansy Walker has scored many brilliant victories in Chicago during the last three racing seasons. But when she came from far back and got up in the last strides to win the White City purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday she achieved her most thrilling triumph.

It was a race snatched out of the fire just at a time when it looked like she was sure to be beaten; and a victory which found nearly everybody at the track taking a profit, for Pansy was an odds on favorite. To beat the flying Don Leon from Kentucky and My Dandy by three-quarters of a length she had to run six furlongs within a second of the Lincoln Fields track record.

Wins Going Away.

The White City engaged a number of the western handicap stars that are to take part in the $10,000 Marquette handicap, the feature of the closing day's program at Lincoln Fields Saturday. Once in front in the last 20 strides, Pansy gave the other Marquette eligibles a look at her heels, for she was pulling away at the finish and was stepping along at such an even clip it looked as if she might have been able to run all day.

In the early part of the race Hot Shot, Don Leon and My Dandy staged a merry scramble for the lead. But at the turn Don Leon drew away from My Dandy and Hot Shot and appeared to be on his way to almost certain victory. Pansy Walker was struggling along back in fifth place and had been outrun every inch of the way.

Pansy Starts in Stretch.

Turning into the stretch, Pansy began to make up some ground. But she still was fourth and Don Leon was some five lengths in front of her. He plainly had My Dandy and Hot Shot whipped.

Jockey Dyer decided he would lose no much ground if he attempted to circle the field on the outside So he drove Pansy right into the closely grouped trio that was leading her. Finally Pansy squeezed her way up in between Don Leon and My Dandy, She kept squeezing and pushing forward until her nose was showing in front. That's all she needed to win. Don Leon and My Dandy could no longer keep going with her, and she was pulling out into a wider lead at every jump in the last strides.

Tony Wins Again.

Pansy ran her six furlongs in 1:11 3-5. But for her slow beginning she might have done the job much faster. She paid $3.36 for a two dollar ticket.

Lucky Tony Pelleteri bobbed up with another winner in the Irving Park claiming purse which engaged some fashionable 3 years olds. Curmudgeon was his color bearer and the son of Wildair, under a confident ride by Jockey C. Landolt, was easily the best after coming from behind.

Folks think Tony's luck can't go on forever, so they slightly overlooked Curmudgeon and after he had scored his handy triumph he paid $8.26 to win. Miss Tulsa was a surprise second and Lejoy landed third.

Renaissance Wins Feature at Aqueduct

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—A nose finish with a 5 to 1 shot in front was the thrilling result of the Bellerose claiming stakes, $3,270 feature at Aqueduct today. John J. Robinson's Renaissance, a game winner at the Aqueduct course last spring, was the winner over Marshall Field's Villon. Three lengths farther back Brandon Mint, the 200 to 1 outsider in the Futurity, landed third.

Brandon Mint was in front for part of today's dash of five furlongs and was as short priced as 10 to 1. The favorite was E. F. Sanford's Assagi gelding Allenfern. He went to the post at 18 to 5, but stumbled at the break and never could get to contention.

Leaders Close to Rail.

Villon and Renaissance were close to the rail all the way and both were among the ones which were off well. Robinson's colt finished the five furlongs in a minute flat and won under 110 pounds. The value to the winner was $2,670.

There was a good deal of interest in the sweepment steeplechase, as many of the starters were 3 year olds getting ready for the Harbor Hill, the big jumping test for horses of that age, which is renewed annually at Aqueduct.

Favorite Is Winner.

Thomas Hitchcock's Silverskin, the 3 to 2 favorite, was an easy winner under 133 pounds. He was first by 15 lengths with Peacock second and Barometer third.

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last, when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. I have enquired of my dressmaker my measurements, which in August last were:—Bust 40, Hips 43½, Waist 33½ inches. Last week they were:—Bust 38, Hips 40, Waist 31 inches, which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 6 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reducing salt for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs.) S. R., London, England

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but 35 cents—Try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

HAROLD TEEN—A LITTLE LIFT!

MAN WHO HELPED BUILD PANAMA CANAL IS DEAD

Danville, Ill., Sept. 22.—(AP)—William J. Karner, 91, acting chief engineer in construction of the Panama canal, died at Lake View hospital here today after an illness of a week.

Mr. Karner was also associated with James B. Eads in the construction of the Eads bridge, St. Louis, the jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi river, and helped in preliminary work for the proposed ship canal across the Isthmus of Tehiantepec, Mexico.

He was born Jan. 10, 1840, in South Egremont, Mass., and was in the postoffice department at Washington from 1859 until the close of the civil war, except for a short period of service in the army.

For several years Mr. Karner was associated with John F. Wallace, chief engineer of the Illinois Central railroad, and went to Panama with Wallace. Lawrence Downs, president of the Illinois Central, was given his first job after graduating from Purdue by Mr. Karner in 1895.

V. B. KING, KIN OF ERBSTEIN, DIES OF RARE DISEASE

Valentine B. King of Elgin, a brother-in-law of the late Charles E. Erbstein, Chicago lawyer, died yesterday afternoon at the Chicago Central hospital from agranlocytosis, a rare disease which destroys the white corpuscles in the blood.

Mr. King was manager of the Purple Grackle cafe on the estate three miles from Elgin belonging to Mrs. Olivia Erbstein, widow of the lawyer and his sister. He became ill about a month ago. A staff of physicians interested themselves in his case, treating him with serum and radium.

The body was taken to Elgin for funeral services. Mr. King had requested that he be buried beside the body of his brother-in-law.

PEDESTRIAN IS CRUSHED BY 2 AUTOS; KILLED

Benjamin De Sillitis, 38 years old, 2134 South 16th avenue, Broadview, was killed yesterday when crushed between two autos which collided at Roosevelt road and 17th avenue, Broadview, as he was walking across the street. The drivers were Harry Stakemiller of Mount Carroll and Dean Stormer of Brookfield.

This death and four others increased the Cook county auto toll since Jan. 1 to 836. The victims:

Joseph Rasaelo, 45 years old, 2034 East 81st street. Fatally hurt last night when the automobile he was driving was struck by a freight train on the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line railroad at Torrence avenue. He died at St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond.

Steve Walsh, 42 years old, 822 South Kedvale avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries received on Monday when he was struck by an automobile in front of 4052 West Harrison street. The driver was Walter Seglet, 4067 South Laflin street.

Raymond Kutchum, 6 years old, 9740 Houston avenue. Fatally injured when run down by an automobile at 97th street and Commercial avenue. The driver was William Sanford, 42 years old, 435 West 63d street.

Louis Geist, 78 years old, 619 Willow street. Died in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital last night of injuries suffered on Monday when he was struck at Larrabee street and Menominee avenue by an automobile driven by Emanuel Rothschild, 540 Center street.

Mrs. William Heinsohn, 71 years old, 4311 Kenmore avenue, was killed, and her daughter, Mrs. Katherine Ruffing, 39 years old, of the same address, was injured yesterday when their sedan collided with another car on a highway near Ann Arbor, Mich. The accident occurred on a bridge when Mrs. Ruffing attempted to avoid striking a crowd which had gathered at the scene of another accident.

DR. F. M. INGALLS, HIGHLAND PARK, IS DEAD AT 71

Dr. Frank M. Ingalls, 71 years old, who worked as a railroad brakeman to pay his professional training at Rush Medical college, and founder of the Railroad Men's Home in Highland Park, died yesterday in the Highland Park hospital following an operation. Dr. Ingalls resided at 320 Oakwood avenue, Highland Park.

Dr. Ingalls was the oldest practicing physician in years of service in Highland Park, having practiced there 39 years. He was on the staff of Highland Park hospital. He retained his membership in the United Order of Railroad Trainmen and this interest led him to found the Highland Park institution in 1890.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Daisy Ingalls, and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Harmon, Glendale, Cal., and Mrs. Irene Brew, Southgate, Cal. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon from the Highland Park Masonic temple.

Woman Asks $80,367 of Hoot Gibson for Injuries

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Hoot Gibson, film actor, today was sued for $80,367 in Superior court by Mrs. Mary Hobbis who charged she was injured seriously in a traffic collision with the actor's automobile Aug. 7.

"VANITY FAIR" TO BE NEWEST SHOP FOR BOUL MICH

Wealthy Interests Back of Project.

BY AL CHASE.

Although considerable mystery has surrounded, and still does, for that matter, the bit of pasteboard placed last Saturday morning in the window of the corner store in the McGraw-Hill building at Michigan and Grand avenues, bearing merely the words "Rented by Hall & Ellis," enough details were divulged yesterday to indicate one of the boulevard's most interesting leases.

Wealthy interests, identified with one of Chicago's best known merchandising organizations, have leased this corner for what it is claimed will be one of upper Michigan avenue's most exclusive shops, to be known as "Vanity Fair." It will handle furniture, lamps and art objects.

To Be Distinctive Shop.

Raymond Donnersberger of Hall & Ellis, who negotiated the lease, refused to identify the interests back of the new project, other than to say that they have large financial resources and expect to develop the new shop along lines which will make it one of the city's distinctive shops. In view of this they have secured F. H. Rhodes, active for several years with shops of this character in both New York and on the west coast, who will be in charge of the new establishment.

It is expected, according to Mr. Donnersberger, to have the new store remodeled and ready for opening by Oct. 1. It will front forty-two feet on the boulevard and eighty feet on Grand avenue. It also will have an entrance and window space on the lobby of the McGraw-Hill building. Neither the terms nor the length of the lease were disclosed.

Lease Cinema for 10 Years.

Transfer of title in the property at 1210-12 South Ashland avenue, filed for record yesterday at the county recorder's office, disclosed an interesting theatrical lease. The 36x116 L shaped parcel, improved with a business building on Ashland, and with a theater in the rear with an entrance at 1611 Roosevelt road, was conveyed by Meyer S. Marks to the Orpheus corporation.

This latter corporation in turn has leased the 850 seat playhouse to the Channel Amusement corporation, which already operates a larger cinema, the Broadway-Strand theater, at 1641 West Roosevelt road, a few doors to the west. The Channel Amusement corporation will pay a reported term rental of $55,000 for a ten year period. It is affiliated with the Essaness Theater corporation, according to Rosenberg, Corlett & Toomin, attorneys in yesterday's transaction. The ten year lease starts today.

Take Bids on School.

Bids are now being taken for the erection of a combination parochial school and community center at the southwest corner of West 34th and Clarence streets, Berwyn, by St. Leonard's Roman Catholic church. The estimated cost is placed at $125,000. Joe W. McCarthy is architect.

This is the first unit in a modern church group planned by the pastor, the Rev. John J. Campbell, to replace the present old school and church buildings which occupy the entire block of frontage on the west side of Clarence street between 33d and 34th streets. A new church and parish house will be erected later.

The first unit, to be erected shortly, will have twelve classrooms on the first floor, with a kitchen, dining room and auditorium seating 700 on the second floor comprising the community center.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3.40c for spots with no sales reported.

Sugar futures were irregular but generally lower owing to liquidation, promoted by the inactivity in the spot market. Final prices were net unchanged to 2 points lower, with approximate sales 16,300 tons. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $6.50; average, $5.75.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 17,000.

All classes of live stock were supported by better local demand yesterday and some kinds scored rather substantial advances before the close. A decrease of 119,000 head of cattle, hogs and sheep for the first two days of the week at 20 markets compared with Monday and Tuesday of last week brought local buyers out earlier than usual to replenish their supply of fresh meat.

Cattle receipts, due to last week's break, show a decrease of 37,000 head, or 21 per cent, compared with a week ago, and practically all of the loss has been recovered. Yesterday's sales of top kinds were highest since Sept. 8, the peak at $10.20 being only 15c under the highest paid for cattle this season.

Activity in the cattle yards was the feature of the trade, other live stock selling comparatively slowly when buyers found a higher list of quotations. Advances of 25@50c were scored in beef steers, while grassy stock shared in some of the upturn. Butcher stock ruled strong to 25c higher, yearling stock coming in for most of the gain. Some of the baby beef heifers at $9,000@9.50 showed as much as 50c advance. Prime 1,330 lb Iowa steers topped the price list at $10.20, while several loads of 1,300@1,500 lb., averages reached $10.00.

Weighty Beeves Favored.

Demand yesterday was in favor of medium and weighty beeves. Country buyers with sufficient financial support to invest in feeder cattle are finding hundreds of "bargains" in the feeder division these days. Almost 500 head averaging 650@1,000 lbs went to feeder buyers Monday at $5.50@6.25 and more than 300 plainer stockers and feeders were bought at $4.50@5.00. Occasional lots of the poorest kinds range downwards to $4.00 and even below in some instances.

Hog receipts at Chicago yesterday dropped to 18,000, the smallest for Tuesday since Aug. 4. Strength appeared in the market soon after a mostly 10c lower opening and bulk of offerings changed hands on a steady basis. The general average price remained unchanged at $5.35, but the extreme top at $5.90 shower 10c loss, standing only 10c above the lowest point since 1908.

The clearance was fairly good and only 4,000 were estimated left at the close. Due to light supplies Monday, some local houses suspended "cutting" yesterday, resulting in a shortage of fresh meat on the wholesale market and a consequent upturn in prices. Fresh pork loins, however, are still selling 5c per pound lower than a week ago.

Hog Trade Slow.

Trading in hog futures continued slow yesterday and the tendency ruled lower at the close. Contracts for 250@310 lb. averages for December delivery were offered at $5.00, while 210@240 lb. averages were offered at $5.50. September mediums were offered at $6.75.

Fat lambs met better outlet at stronger prices yesterday, while an oversupply of feeders had to be peddled out on a weak to 25c lower market, many of them going to packers for slaughter at $5.00 and less. About 2,000 feeders sold at that price, while occasional sales of the best were reported as high as $5.25, but hundreds of plain kinds are available at $4.50@4.75. Solid mouth breeding ewes, suitable for two or three years as breeders, are available at $3.00@3.50.

Finds Attractive Buys.

"There is nothing I can see that is so attractive a buy as these solid mouth western ewes that the range is culling from its flocks," remarked E. W. Ball, Montgomery county, Illinois, a veteran banker and feeder with almost 60 years to his credit in the live stock game, as he examined a band of five hundred from Montana that he had purchased at $3.25.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 17,000 hogs, and 17,000 sheep, against 7,502 cattle, 17,034 hogs, and 17,445 sheep the previous Wednesday, 9,985 cattle, 28,806 hogs, and 24,110 sheep a year ago.

OIL OUTPUT IN MAJOR FIELDS SHOWS ADVANCE

Longer Auto Season Cuts Gas Stocks.

BY O. A. MATHER.

In spite of much talk about restricting and pro-rating production of petroleum, most of the major producing fields expanded their output last week. Refiners used slightly less petroleum than in the preceding week as restrictions of the metering season because of warm weather enabled them to reduce storage stocks of gasoline.

The daily average gross crude oil production last week totaled 2,201,500 barrels, an increase of 281,000 barrels a day, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. By far the greater part of the increase occurred in the east Texas field, where recently production was restrained by martial law. This area jumped its output by 247,000 barrels a day. But sizeable increases also took place in Oklahoma, Kansas, the panhandle, west central and west Texas fields, Michigan, Wyoming and California.

At 86.5 Per Cent Capacity.

Refiners operated at 86.5 per cent of capacity last week, compared with 87.5 per cent in the preceding week, and their daily runs of crude oil were 1,667,700 barrels, compared with 1,[illegible] barrels. Gasoline stocks at the end of the week totaled 31,123,000 barrels, compared with 31,818,000 a week previous, making a decline of 695,000 barrels. Gas and fuel oil stocks totaled [illegible] barrels, compared with [illegible], a decline of 241,000 barrels.

The other major industries presented the usual run of conflicting news yesterday. The American metal market reported that buying of steel products in the last week has continued on a hand to mouth basis. It estimated the average steel mill operations at 18 per cent of capacity, unchanged from the previous week. While it remarked that the British suspension of the gold standard has not influenced the American steel market, it suggested that some buyers may take this development into account in laying future plans.

Building Industry Pickup.

A strong pickup in the building industry was reported by the F. W. Dodge corporation. It said contracts let during the first half of this month totaled $151,313,400 in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains. Non-residential contracts amounted to $27,[illegible],000 and public works and utilities contributed $44,358,500. Contracts in the New York metropolitan area totaled $61,969,300, which compared with $[illegible],000 for all of August.

For the first time since May a change was made in bankers' acceptance rates yesterday, the yields being lowered ⅛ of 1 per cent. This was partly a seasonal development, in anticipation of larger mill supplies which would reflect business revival. The federal reserve bank's buying rate for bills remains unchanged. Dealers' rates have been below that level and the change today moved their quotations in line with the banks.

The new rates follow: One to three months, 1⅛ per cent bid, 1 per cent asked; three months, 1¼ bid, 1⅛ asked; five to six months, 1½ bid, 1⅜ asked.

London Stock Exchange to Resume Business Today

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The London Stock exchange will reopen tomorrow, it was officially announced this afternoon. Business will be conducted in an ordinary way, without any restrictions.

Stock brokers favored a resumption of business and saw in the depreciation of sterling an opportunity for better prices for securities and industrial shares. A demand has arisen from investors since sterling depreciated and the stock exchange closed, and several members said today they had done more business in a few hours than they did in a week when the exchange was functioning officially.

With the stock exchange closed, dealers assembled in force in Throgmorton street for a few operations in international securities, the committee having announced it has no objection to members dealing outside the house. Business was small and quotations on the trans-Atlantic favorites showed a wide spread.

Commodity Prices Gain.

Commodities improved further today. Tin rose £1 a ton, silver 1d an ounce, while cotton and wheat in Liverpool moved against buyers.

A crowded meeting of public and business men, held under the auspices of the China association, decided to form a silver association. The meeting also urged a conference of governments to consider raising the price of silver and restoring it to a place in the world's monetary system as the quickest way to stop falling prices.

The federal structures committee of the Indian round table conference today promised its support for the rupee in this time of British financial crisis. The Imperial bank rate of the Bank of Bombay was raised from seven to eight per cent.

Optimism in Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The first shock of Great Britain's suspension of the gold standard was wearing off today and optimism in the future of international finance was beginning to assert itself.

At the opening of the official money market the British pound sold at 104 francs [$4.077] and 105 [$4.110]. The bourse acted favorably at the opening on the strength shown by New York stock market yesterday and values generally recovered most of yesterday's losses.

Amsterdam Is Confident.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Sept. 22.—(AP)—As a consequence of good Wall street advices, the formation of a bankers support syndicate and precautionary measures by the board of exchange, confidence prevailed today in all sections of the bourse. There was scarcely any public offering and, apart from Royal Dutch, which was an active and strong feature, business was quiet.

Italy Halts Speculation.

ROME, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Bank of Italy, after its officials had conferred with the ministry of finance, today passed on what amounts to an order that all banks and brokers cease exchange speculation, refrain from sterling transactions and retain all the pounds they hold. Italy, because of the rigid deflation when the lira was stabilized, decreased her foreign holdings and the Bank of Italy has scarcely $50,000,000 worth of sterling.

Stocks on the bourses of Rome and Milan were nervous, but stronger than expected today. Most of the issues more than regained yesterday's losses.

Form Trust in Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 22.—A trust of $30,000,000 was founded this morning by the leading Belgian banks to back up the stock market if necessary. The stock exchange reopened today but permitted the sale of stocks only if the shares were actually presented at the sale. The Antwerp exchange also opened again.

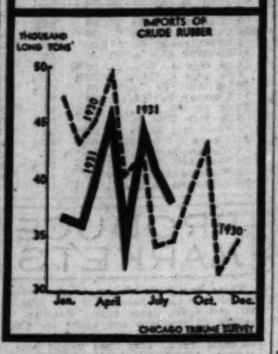
Montreal Lifts Ban.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The management committee of the Montreal stock exchange today lifted trading restrictions on a number of stocks on the local board. An order yesterday restricted buying and selling to late final board lot prices over the entire list.

Action in Rio de Janeiro.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—The Bank of Brazil has decided in view of the suspension of the gold standard in Great Britain that all future exchange transactions shall be made on a dollar basis of 16.1 milreis to one hundred cents.

CRUDE RUBBER PRODUCTION IS LARGER THAN A YEAR AGO



NEWS OF DIVIDENDS MOSTLY CONCERNS REDUCTIONS IN RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—The Gemmer Manufacturing company omitted dividends on both class A and class B stocks due at this time. Class A stock has been on a $3 annual basis. Three months ago a dividend of 15 cents was paid on the class B stock.

The Republic Stamping and Enameling company declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, against $1.60 previously.

Standard Screw company declared $1 quarterly on the common, reducing the annual rate from $6 to $4.

Associated Gas and Electric company declared a quarterly dividend of 1-50th of a class A share or 1-200th of a $5 dividend preferred share on the class A stock, but omitted the usual option of cash at the rate of 25 cents a share.

Canadian Industries, Ltd., declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share. In June an extra of 58 cents was declared. Detroit Majestic Products company omitted the dividend due on its A stock. The company had been paying 62½ cents quarterly. Ferro Enamel company declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on its A stock, the first payment since last December, when $1 was paid.

Economic Investment Trust declared a semi-annual dividend of 87½ cents a share. Previously the trust paid $1.25 semi-annually. National Share corporation declared an extra dividend of 6¼ cents a share on its class A stock. A similar extra was declared in the previous quarter.

Settle $50,000,000 Radio Corporation Litigation

New York, Sept. 22.—[Special.]—Litigation which has been in progress for three years between the Radio Corporation of America and nearly a score of independent radio tube manufacturers involving claims against the R. C. A. amounting to between $47,500,000 and $50,000,000 has been settled and all suits have been withdrawn, according to an announcement made today by David Sarnoff, president of the corporation.

Injunction suits brought by the R. C. A. to restrain independent manufacturers from using tubes not manufactured by the R. C. A. or its associated companies—General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph, and others, have been withdrawn.

Also all differences between the Radio Corporation of America and the De Forest Radio company, its chief competitor, has been adjusted. The vacuum rights of the De Forest company under its patents have been acquired by the R. C. A. and will be available to the other licensees of that corporation engaged in the manufacture of radio tubes.

Settle with De Forest.

President Munn of the De Forest Radio company, which had filed a triple damage suit against the Radio Corporation of America, stated that the settlement involved the payment by R. C. A. to the De Forest company of $1,000,000 in cash. Satisfactory cross-license agreements on tube patents only, he said, have been entered into by both corporations.

Following are leading concerns which have entered into a settlement with the Radio corporation and the amounts which were claimed as damages in their suits:

Mellotrone Tube corporation, $1,000,000; Vesta Batteries corporation, $750,000; De Forest Radio company, $4,000,000; Howard W. Ivins, receiver for the Van Horne company, $4,000,000; Schickerling Products company, $4,000,000; Gold Seal Electrical Company, Inc., $4,000,000; Sunlight Lamp company, $550,000; William J. Bennert and Stephen Dunn, trading as Universal Electric Lamp company, $350,000; Diamond Vacuum Products company, $350,000; Continental corporation, $350,000; Northern Manufacturing company, $4,000,000.

Clayton Act Involved.

In all these suits the litigation was based on what was known as clause 9 of the contract of the Radio Corporation of America with the manufacturers of radio sets, which provided that the manufacturers should exclusively use tubes manufactured by the R. C. A. or its affiliates. This clause was held by the independents to be a violation of the Clayton anti-trust act.

There was a separate court dispute between the R. C. A. and the De Forest company involving patent rights to the vacuum tube, an essential element in radio transmission and reception, television, talking pictures and other sound reproduction devices.

The De Forest company held a patent, and General Electric, in association with R. C. A., contended that it was an infringement on the Langmuir tube, on which they held the patent.

CHICAGO FIRM FIGHTS ON

Settlement of the radio tube suits between the Radio Corporation of America and a number of other manufacturers does not include the Grigsby-Grunow company, Chicago, one of the largest tube makers. Don M. Compton, vice president and general manager, said last night the Chicago company's suit for $30,000,000 damages and alleged violation of the anti-trust law still is pending in the federal courts and is being actively pressed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—Strong hands were at the helm of affairs on the New York Stock exchange again today and under their brawny guidance the market was able to sail once more into smooth waters. Nervousness over yesterday's hard "blow" appeared to be subsiding all around.

Various developments contributed to the improved sentiment. News of restored confidence at Paris, where the bourse alone of all the European marts kept open right through the excitement produced by the suspension of the British gold standard, was one of the biggest helps of all. The improved tone of the bond market here, a rise in commodity prices, and the reopening of some of the European exchanges were other contributing factors.

Still another important item of the count was the announcement that the London exchange would reopen tomorrow without price limitation. Lastly, the trading community heard that the restrictions placed on short trading here at the beginning of yesterday's hectic session were about to be lifted, leaving the course of operations once more to resume the more or less even tenor of their way.

Plenty of Good News.

Enough "good news" surely to calm jumpy nerves no matter how worn and taut. The "hangover" from Monday's selling storm, however, was sufficiently pronounced to turn prices from a fraction to 2 points lower at the opening and carry them to still more submerged levels in the course of the next hour. With the overnight accumulation of orders off the books, however, the list rallied briskly all along the line. The packmakers swept from 2 to 3 points above last night's closing levels and the recovery continued in irregular fashion until well up in the afternoon. During the last hour, however, a reaction set in, wiping out most of the day's gains.

Final prices were generally 1 to 2 points lower, although there were enough plus signs scattered through the list to give the bull element a lot

WESTERN UNION AND R. C. A. MAKE SERVICE MERGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—A service merger between the Western Union Telegraph company and R. C. A. Communications, Inc., under which the telegraph, cable and wireless facilities unification of properties or personnel of coördinated; was announced tonight from the Western Union offices.

Although the primary purpose of the combination is to improve the service offered by the two competing systems, according to the announcement, its ultimate result is regarded as likely to be a strengthening of the position of the United States in the field of international communications. The lines of quick communication between this country and thirty other nations will be "greatly strengthened," the announcement said.

Middle West Utilities Power Output Takes Jump

The Middle West Utilities system's output of electricity the week ending Sept. 19 showed 8.9 per cent increase over the corresponding week last year. The output was 88,332,715 kilowatt hours, compared with 81,120,933. This is the best increase shown during any week of 1931.

Hearst Executives Come to Chicago Daily News

The executive personnel of the Chicago Daily News has been altered through the addition of a number of Hearst newspaper executives.

Frank Knox, the new president and publisher of the Daily News, is formerly general manager of W. R. Hearst's newspapers and since he took control of the News he has added others. T. V. Visniaski, a prominent Hearst executive, has been brought to Chicago in an advisory capacity in the News organization.

Harris W. Roberts, lately advertising manager of Hearst's New York American, has been named advertising director of the News. George F. Hartford, until last week assistant publisher of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, is named local advertising manager of the News.

These changes have added interest in the La Salle street rumors that W. R. Hearst has become interested in the Daily News.

American I. G. Chemical.

Please inform me concerning American I. G. Chemical 5½s, due 1949. How long has the firm been organized?—G. W. W.

American I. G. Chemical corporation was incorporated April 26, 1929. It finances and develops chemical and allied industries in the United States and elsewhere. Its contract with I. G. Farbenindustrie Aktiengesellschaft grants it the permanent right to exploit in the United States all patents and inventions developed by the latter company.

It has substantial interests in Agfa-Ansco corporation and General Analine Works, Inc.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931, fixed charges were covered 3.49 times. For the period of April 26, 1929, to March 31, 1930, fixed charges were covered 2.50 times.

On March 31, 1931, current assets were $18,357,531, and current liabilities were $756,923. Working capital was $17,600,608, against $16,358,300 the year before.

Funded debt consists solely of $29,929,000 5½ per cent debentures, due 1949. They are convertible into class A stock on the basis of 17 shares for each $1,000 bond to Dec. 31, 1931. Conversion ratio per $1,000 bond decreases one share per year to 1938, after which the conversion rate will be ten shares. The debentures are guaranteed by I. G. Farbenindustrie Aktiengesellschaft. They are reasonably sound.

Seagrave Corp.

Kindly send your report on the stock of Seagrave corporation, Columbus, O. Thank you.—M. J. D.

Seagrave corporation was originally organized in 1880. It manufactures fire fighting apparatus.

Net income for 1930 was $109,937, or 39 cents per common share, against $299,085, or $1.90 per common share for 1929. This reflects a drop in sales from $2,192,147 in 1929 to $1,706,723 in 1930. For 1928 net income was $330,130, against $272,373 for 1927 and $320,925 for 1926.

Continuing the downward trend, sales in the first half of 1931 were $547,745, against $787,642 in the first half of 1930.

Net loss was $41,088, against net profit of $29,989 for the first six months of 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $1,323,943. This was 8.3 times current liabilities of $159,084. Cash was $206,655. Working capital was $1,164,859, against $1,280,858 the year before.

With the dividend paid Jan. 15, 1931, the annual common dividend basis was reduced from $1.20 per share to 60 cents per share. With the payment Oct. 1 it will be further reduced to ten cents quarterly.

The company has had to face increased competition in recent years.

Household's rates are the lowest in Chicago

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower, than the usual Small Loan Rate.

Strictly confidential: husband and wife only need sign; no endorsers.
